Virginia Beach, Virginia June 6, 1968

SUN Phone: 428-2401

This was the scene six months ago on opening day of the expressway. Cars waited in line on both sides to be the first to go through the toll gate. Now more than 20,000 vehicles a day pass the same point. Another 10,000 use the ramps.

Blvd. Suffers from Old Problem

The Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway reached the break-even point in May. That's the official word from the state's director of toll facilities, E. H. Orange.

During the month of May, 513,753 vehicles passed through the main toll plaza and 307,469 vehicles entered and left at pay ramps. They paid a total of $159,499.74.

The original break-even figure estimate by the toll road engineers was about $150,000, according to Orange. This was based on an average of 18,000 vehicles a day at the toll plaza and about 7,500 at the ramps. In May the average at the toll plaza was 17,000 a day and 10,000 at the ramps.

Orange added that he was encouraged if the increase in the use of the road and added that the traffic had grown each month since it opened on Dec. 1 of last year.

"I believe we'll see a 25 per cent increase over present figures during the next three months," said Orange. "That will offset the lean winter months, and should mean we'll break about even at the end of our first year, or even show a little profit."

On Memorial Day weekend, traffic reached the highest peak

Downing Foresees Problems

First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing has warned that "the maritime program of the country is going to become a political issue in 1969 if the present administration doesn't do something about it," Rep. Downing made the remarks this past weekend in an address during the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy Alumni Association's annual installation banquet.

Downing, a member of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, indicated he based his remarks on passage of a 10 per cent surtax combined with a $6-billion reduction in the budget hindering financial support of the maritime program in 1969.

Pointing to the large sums of money United States spends each year in overseas military commitments, Downing said little is being done to maintain the Merchant Marine which must support these units. Downing also said that United States would need about 50 new ships in the next ten years to bring America's maritime fleet back up to its rightful standard.

According to Downing, the construction of 27 ships would have been covered in a $244 million appropriation which came out of the House of Representatives. However a technicality involving the method by which the funds were approved resulted in removing new ship construction appropriations from an earlier approved Department of Commerce bill.

In closing, Downing predicted the status of America's merchant fleet would only give United States a maximum of four years in a foreign war unless immediate steps were taken to step up the building of American merchant vessels.

to date. On Friday 20,500 passed through the toll plaza, while the ramps averaged about the same level as usual.

Orange said this was obviously beach and tourist traffic that would have been on Virginia Beach Boulevard without the toll road, and he said the expressway handled the heavy traffic well.

"The trouble with Virginia Beach Boulevard," said Orange "is that although the toll road has taken a lot of traffic away, there has been a great deal of development, both industrial and residential nearby, causing traffic to grow rapidly."

Reeves Johnson, Virginia Beach Safety and Traffic Engineering Department director, echoed Orange's comments.

He said that traffic on the Boulevard, now about 26,000 vehicles a day, is above the 24,500 a day figure that prompted rapid planning for the expressway in 1962.

"At the same time, we're not really sure of just who is using the Boulevard and who is using the toll road," said Johnson. "Some people use both each day, one in one direction and one in the other."

He added that shoppers may also use the toll road in one direction and the Boulevard in the other, thus being counted in the totals of both roads.

Johnson said he feels the time has come for a complete and comprehensive study of the Boulevard problems and for recommendations to be made to the City Manager and City Council. He said he did not know who should make the study, but thought that outside consultants would probably be better equipped to see the entire situation than would city departments with all the work load now on them.

"I don't have any idea when this study can be made, but I think it must be made soon," said Johnson. The situation is not going to get any better, with all the new growth."

He suggested several alternatives, including a new lane for traffic where possible on the Boulevard, one-way feeder lanes and removal of other feeder lanes if necessary. But Johnson also said this should not be just a Virginia Beach project since the road should be consistent in Norfolk also. He added that there should be a possibility of obtaining state and federal funds under the right circumstances.

Johnson would not set any date for completion for such a vast project, but warned that it is a problem that must be coped with now. He said that he worked closely with Orange and that additional ramps for the expressway, such as east-bound from Rosemont Road, are in the discussion stage.

Everybody's Happy as Beach Officially Welcomes Season

The long, four-day Memorial Day weekend brought smiles to the faces of lots of people in Virginia Beach.

The record number of pre-summer vacationers and tourists smiled at the pleasant, mostly sunny weather. The hotel, motel, restaurant resort shop and entertainment facilities operators smiled at the vacationers and tourists. And the city fathers smiled at all the tax money brought into the economy.

Motel and hotel accommodations were operating at capacity or at near capacity during the four days, in spite of a threat of rain. Depending on who you talked to, business was up over last year from 20 to 60 per cent, for the entire month of May.

The Armed Forces Hospitality House at 36th and Oceanfront welcomed about 125 servicemen and their dates on Memorial Day, the first day of operation for this season.

Virginia Beach police reported no serious disturbances, just "the usual," along with a number of minor traffic accidents, none particularly serious. They saw no real traffic problems, especially along 21st and 22nd Sts., the main roads to and from the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway.

Traffic was heavy on the waterways and at the campgrounds, as well as at Sandbridge's Little Island Park. The fishing piers reported slow business at first, which picked up considerably as the weekend progressed. Also good business was reported by charter fishing boats at Rudee Inlet and Long Creek. The fish, while not exactly plentiful, at least cooperated by being around in fairly good numbers.

Some folks went to the golf courses. Some relaxed and sunned themselves. Others surfed. Still others played in the sand or water. Generally it was a good weekend for the beach and the summer season was officially opened.

All this followed April, a month which saw tax receipts from sales tax more than 40 per cent higher than last year, pointing again to a record tourist year.

Memorial Day had its serious side in Virginia Beach as well. Hundreds turned out for an impressive Memorial Day Ceremony at Rosewood Memorial Park, on Witch Duck Road.

Among the speakers were Roger Scott, Virginia Beach's new city manager; Captain Elliot, Navy Chaplain; the Rev. Charles Jones of Kempsville Baptist Church; and Charles C. Kirkpatrick, president of Rosewood.

Taking part in the program were Cadets from Frederick Military Academy, the Little Creek School of Music and a Marine Color Guard.

The past Commander of the American Legion, Henry Lam, introduced the speakers.

The ceremony paid homage to American fighting men who had died "in the line of duty." Roger Scott was accompanied by the girls of the American Legion Junior Auxiliary in placing a huge memorial wreath in tribute to all Americans who have passed on.

This is the first Memorial Day Service of Rosewood, and is planned to be an annual event.

Docket Planners Essential In Growing City

City Council's regular meeting Monday will be dominated with zoning, but that is expected to bring up again a related matter.

At the last meeting, four applications could not be acted upon by Council because less than a quorum of City Planning Commission members had been present when the recommendations were made.

Since that time the Commission was to have held a special meeting to act again on those four applications. They include a request by Virginia National Bank to build a branch bank near City Hall, but approval of this is not expected because of the land needed for municipal expansion. Another commercial zoning adjoining the same area is expected to be approved. The other two applications concern a use permit for a used car lot and a permit to build a pumping station in Windsor Woods.

It is expected that some statement will be forthcoming from the Commission on Vice-Mayor Robert Cromwell's remarks concerning the importance of the commission and his call for an investigation into the lack of quorum.

Another matter which came into the limelight at the last meeting was the resignation of Richard S. Holland as chairman of the Police and Trial Board, amid much talk about disbanding the board. Holland resigned after a conflict of interest charge.

Since that time a new chairman has been elected of the board. He is Lloyd G. Keefe, of Bayside borough, a member since 1960. He said he feels the board should be continued. No replacement for him on the board has come from Council, and it is likely some light was shed on the matter at a nonpublic meeting last Monday. It is expected that the board will either be disbanded or reduced in power to a grievance board, rather than having absolute power over police matters.

As a result of the conflict of interest charges against Holland involving purchases made by the city from a firm of which he is president, City purchasing

CPC Faces 22 Items On Tuesday

The next regular meeting of the City Planning Commission will be held Tuesday, June 11, at 2 p.m. in the new Municipal Court Building will hear another long 22-item docket, which will include zoning requests and use permits for a new motel, a new automobile agency, a controversial gas station, a church and 354 new apartments.

The Windjammer Motor Lodge Inc. is seeking to build a 50-unit motel on the oceanfront at 19th Street.

Phillips Oldsmobile Inc. is seeking a zoning change and use permit to build a new and used car sales agency near Chinese Corner at Virginia Beach Blvd. and Lavender Lane.

W. E. Tolson is seeking to change the zoning on property on the southeast corner of Thalia Drive and Virginia Beach Blvd. This application has come under fire from residents of the area, although a service station is directly across the road.

Bailey Parker Construction Co. is seeking a use permit to build 60 apartment units on Pinewood Road near Holly Road and Roy and Anne lives are asking for a use permit to build 14 apartments in the same area.

Pochanias Village Inc. is asking a zoning change to general commercial at Kellam Lane across from Kiowa Lane. Cavalier Investment Co. is asking a change to multiple-family residents for about 1,100 feet along Princess Anne Road at Baxter Road, Morris A. Werth is asking a use permit to build an elementary school in the Eastern Park area on Lynnhaven Road near Virginia Beach Blvd.

(See "Zoning", P. 2)

Investigation into a lack of a quorum at a special meeting of the City Planning Commission in May has brought to light several interesting facts.

According to records kept by the commission most members rarely miss meetings, while others make it to very few meetings. In the meeting in question only seven of the 15 commissioners were present, one voting by proxy.

City Attorney Harry Marshall advised Council not to act on recommendations of that meeting because a quorum was not present. It was at that time that Vice-Mayor Robert Cromwell said Council was put into an "embarrassing position" and called for an investigation into the matter. It was suggested if the commissioners could not make it to the meetings, some could be found who would attend.

The special meeting in May was called because the regular meeting ran so long that the docket could not be finished. This has been the usual practice at such times. Those who missed the meetings indicated pressing business or various other reasons.

Records indicate that the only meeting where all 15 members have been present in the past 17 months came in December 1967, for the election of officers.

On the other hand, in that same period two have missed only one meeting. They are Elmer Meeks and Russell A. Brown, who began his service last October when Curtis Payne was elevated to City Council.

Payne did not miss a meeting in the period in question. Six others have missed only two meetings. They are J. R. Alpha, Charles W. Beard, J. Peter Holland, Jr., J. Harry Mote, J. W. Wood and B. W. Wroton.

J. Alvin Holland has missed four meetings; Cameron Munden has missed six; and Homer W. Cunningham has missed seven.

Missing more than half the meetings in the 17-month period were W. B. Meekins, Herman Bonney and John S. Salmons. Meekins missed ten; Salmons and Bonney, 15. Both Salmons and Bonney are from Pungo Borough where there has been

Two Virginia Beach men have been appointed to separate commissions by Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr.

Roger M. Scott, who becomes city manager on July 1, has been appointed a member of the Virginia Metropolitan Areas Transportation Study Commission. Former State Sen. William P. Kellam has been appointed to the Dulles International Airport Development Commission. Both commissions were set up through legislation of the 1968 session of the Virginia General Assembly.

The transportation commission will study the cost of financing the transit part of urban transportation, recommend organizational structures for carrying out suggestions and find revenue sources to finance the system, according to Scott.

The Dulles airport commission will make a comprehensive study of air traffic at the international airport which has had a shaky financial start and recommend ways of building traffic there and promoting the field, according to Kellam.

Both commissions will conduct hearings before deliberating, then report their findings to the next session of the legislature. Future laws in both areas will depend on the outcome of the two study commissions.

As the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN went to press, a large air and sea search continued in efforts to locate the American nuclear submarine USS Scorpion which vanished while on a submerged run from the Mediterranean to Norfolk. Each passing hour of the search brought growing concern for the welfare of the Scorpion's crew, and their families.

Of the 99 men and officers on board the Scorpion when it was reported overdue at Norfolk, eight enlisted men and seven of the ship's 12 officers were residents of Virginia Beach.

The officers on board are: Lt. Robert W. Fleisch, Lt. (j.g.) James Forrester, Lt. Cmdr. David B. Lloyd, the Scorpion's Executive Officer; Lt. (j.g.) Michael A. Odensing; Cdr. Francis A. Slattery, Command-little. The problem in recent months. Both were at the election of officers meeting. Bonney attended in February 1967 and Salmons in May 1967 to account for their other regular meeting attendance.

Those present at the special May 1968 meeting in question were Charles W. Beard, J. Alvin Holland, J. Peter Holland, Jr., Elmer Meeks, J. Harry Mote and J. W. Wood. B. W. Wroton voted by proxy. The same persons attended the regular May meeting.

An average of ten to 11 members of the commission attended the meetings in the 17 months from January 1967 through May 1968.

Members of the City Planning Commission are paid five dollars a month, regardless of the number of meetings during that month and regardless of the amount of field work necessary to view the properties in question.

Each commissioner has a regular job, and the commissioner is an appointive office in addition to that regular job.

Shock, Concern for World Are Reactions

Reaction to the attempted assassination of U. S. Sen. Robert Kennedy, as he was attending a victory celebration after the California primary Tuesday night, was swift in Virginia Beach. The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN obtained these comments from city officials:

Retiring City Manager W. Russell Hatchett told THE SUN, "Things like this can be expected if the Supreme Court continues to pass down judgments that put the law enforcement agencies of this country in a strait jacket, and if the television is allowed to continue to fan the flames of hatred by showing violence in every form at every opportunity they have."

"I think the Congress of the United States ought to put a bridle on them and make them discontinue showing violence in the streets all over this country."

State Sen. Edward T. (Ned) Caton, III outlined his feelings by saying, "I'm shocked and dismayed that these things are happening in our country."

Mayor Frank Dusch summed up his feelings by saying, "It is a most regrettable situation. Especially when any one is running for the highest office in this land. My deep sympathy goes to his family, and again it is most regrettable."

Newly appointed City Manager Roger Scott told THE SUN, "I think it's a great tragedy that anything like this could take place, and I have a feeling of deep regret and deep concern for the Kennedy family."

Virginia Beach Police Chief James Moore said, "It's very disturbing to me. I'm deeply sorry something like this had to happen. I certainly feel this country has been going backward as far as crime is concerned. It seems to me the younger generation, is thinking much differently than the older generation did."

Virginia Beach Del. B. R. Middleton showed his concern when he told THE SUN, "The first reaction was shock. However, after letting it sink in, I think it's going to focus the attention of the nation on how far we have gone in a complete disregard for law and order, which I think is appalling. I also think that perhaps some good will come out of it as far as law enforcement is concerned."

Virginia Beach Del. Kenneth Whittehurst, Jr. outlined his feeling, "I was shocked like everyone else, not only by the tragedy but by the general feeling of unrest prevalent in this country, which the tragedy brought to light. I hope Congress will pass a gun law now, which I have been in favor of for some time."

National Democratic Committee man Sidney Kellam of Virginia Beach was out of the city all day yesterday, which prevented the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN from reaching him for his comment.

As THE SUN went to press the latest medical bulletin described Senator Kennedy's condition as "very critical" and that the next 24 to 36 hours would be of utmost importance in Kennedy's recovery.

The attack on Kennedy resulted in all candidates for the nomination of the office of President of the United States cancelling all campaign activities.

The attack on Kennedy came within hours of his winning the Democratic primary in the state of California. Late returns indicated Kennedy had received 46% of the total votes cast, with his nearest contender being Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy who received 42% of the votes.

While reaction to the attack on Kennedy was still being received from throughout the world, President Lyndon Johnson called upon Congress to take the necessary steps to authorize Secret Service protection for all candidates seeking nomination for the office of President.

This Surfer Has Feet on Sand

Mike Cannon is a surfer with his feet on the ground. Twenty-three year old Cannon, a psychology major at Old Dominion College, who isn't hippie but just likes to surf, pointed out last week that even though surfing has the widest public support of any sport at the beach, it has the least support from the powers that be.

He supported his argument with the fact that surfing attracts literally thousands of people to the beach every summer. In contrast with the numbers involved, approximately 800 yards of beach, at the southern end of the Boardwalk near the Steel Pier, are set aside for surfers between the hours of 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

During the summer season, "a week doesn't go by without an accident at the Pier," said Cannon. "Somebody has to have stitches, or a few teeth are knocked out."

The number one cause of the accidents, he went on, is the over-crowded surfing area. Running a close second is the surfing novice, or "grimmy," who would have trouble handling his board with the whole Atlantic at his disposal, much less only a few feet between his board and another.

"One surfshop at the Beach," said Cannon, "will rent a board to anybody who has the money." Several other establishments have rental licenses, he added, but will not rent to beginners for ethical reasons. The theory is, he continued, that anyone investing enough money to buy a board will learn how to use it properly. But for tourists deciding they will rent a board and just give it a try, surfing is a potentially dangerous sport—and dangerous to other surfers around them, as well as themselves.

Ralph Heads Kellam Football

Following Charlie Caldwell's promotion from Kellam's head football coach to assistant principal at First Colonial High School, Bill Ralph, Granby head coach with a string of wins and the 1966 state championship to his credit, will move into the top football slot at Kellam.

Ralph, with a 33-34-4 record for his eight years as head football coach at William Byrd, Augusta Military Academy and Granby, will also be a history instructor at Kellam.

During 1965 and 1966, he was chief scout for the Norfolk Neptunes.

Kellam, finishing the season with a 7-2 record, had its first successful year in 1967-68 play, its two losses went to Norview and Princess Anne, both with rankings in the top four among Group I-A teams.

Mrs. R.J. Land Christens Ship

Mrs. Marion S. Land of Virginia Beach was the sponsor of USC & GSS Ferrel, the nation's newest circulatory survey vessel, at its christening and commissioning Tuesday, June 4.

The commissioning took place near Jennings, La., at the Zigler Shipyard, Mrs. Land's husband, Lt. Cdr. Ralph J. Land, is the commanding officer of the Ferrel.

The Ferrel will serve as the base ship for the Ticus, (tidal and current survey) system, a current station and central base monitoring and recording system developed by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. She will be home ported at Norfolk, with the Coast Survey's Atlantic Marine Center.

Serious about his sport, Cannon explained that it can take years to become a "good" surfer. He began with water-skiing, and four or five years ago was introduced to surfing by another ex-water-skier. "There's a lot more excitement in surfing," he said. "And it takes longer to become a real expert."

Cannon

According to Cannon, snow-skiing is one of the sports most closely related to surfing, utilizing many of the same basic body movements, leaning forward, for example, to determine the surfer's and skier's direction. Water-skiing, he said, is the opposite of skiing on snow and of surfing. "There, you are leaning backwards, against the pull of the boat. I've heard," Cannon added, "that it's hard to make the transition from water to snow skiing." But recently, he said, the relation of surfing to the winter sport was proven when Hawaiian surfers transplanted to Colorado turned into proficient snow-skiers in double-quick time.

Cannon, who moves to Virginia Beach for the summer months, will be life-guarding at an officers' beach this summer. There has been a movement this year to have the Virginia Beach championship covered by ABC's Wide World of Sports, which covers the annual world championship at Hawaii.

"It's grown large enough for national coverage," said Cannon, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence St. Julian Cannon of Norfolk. "Surfing's a healthy sport, like swimming, not just for long-hairs and it's becoming more popular with older people. They're realizing that it is a beneficial sport that requires skill."

Beach to Host Meet

The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce announced at a press conference yesterday that the Chamber will sponsor the first annual Track and Field Open Aug. 12 at the Princess Anne High School Stadium.

The track meet will include the Junior Olympics for the state of Virginia, sponsored by the national Amateur Athletics Union and Quaker Oats for boys 14-18. In addition, there will be open and service events for college cindermen and service track teams, including 14 open events, according to Bob Whitley, assistant to the Chamber's vice president.

Gus Riganto is chairman of the meet's organizing committee, which includes representatives of the Chamber as well as all the Virginia Beach track coaches. The meet will continue as an annual event, said Riganto. The meet, sanctioned by the Virginia Association of the AAU, will attract national track headliners from the sports world, said Whitley, and prominent local and state officials as judges and meet officials: Richard Hollander of Richmond, state president of the AAU and Congressional Rep. Thomas Downing, among others.

In anticipation of the meet, Princess Anne's track will be re-cindered and a cement boarder will be poured around the track. Financing for the renovations and innovations has come from interested businessmen in Virginia Beach, said Whitley.

Housing for meet participants who come to Virginia Beach from more than 50 miles distant will be provided lodging at Ft. Story through the courtesy of the post's commanding officer, Col. Thomas Emery. Whitley said that over 200 entrants are expected for the August sports event.

All participants must be members of the AAU. For information concerning AAU membership, contact Mrs. Anne Bernicki, at 5625 Aurora Dr., or at 464-5676. Applications for the meet must be in on or before Aug. 5.

To Help Youngsters

Somewhere in this resort region of Tidewater are six youngsters hoping to spend a week in camp this year, but they will need some help. These youngsters have become victims of muscular dystrophy, and a special camp has been established for them near Winchester, Va.

Virginia Beach Borough fire chief E.B. Bayne, who is also president of the Tidewater Muscular Dystrophy Association, tells the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN the camp will be held this year during the week beginning Aug. 8th. The cost of sending one youngster to camp for a week is $100, which also covers the cost of sending another person with each youngster who has been trained in therapy while the youngster must undergo while enjoying the weekend of camping.

Chief Bayne told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN three youngsters had applied for admission to the camp last year, but the lack of funds permitted the sending of only two of them to this special camp for a one week period. It is hoped all six of those eligible for the camp this year would be able to go.

Individuals and/or civic groups who might like to assist these youngsters may mail any contributions to Chief Bayne at addressing them to: The M.D.A., Attn: E.B. Bayne, P.O. Box 218, Virginia Beach, Va., 23458.

Mayor Frank Dusch cuts a rather unusual ribbon made of real dollar bills to open formally the new First Colonial Bank in Malibu Towers. Bank president Jay Buffington smiles as the large crowd prepares to take home a souvenir from the ribbon. They were allowed to do so.

Stubbs Brings 'Bucket' to Beach

Walter Stubbs, of the Broad Bay Sailing Association, brought the BBSA "Broad Bay Bucket" trophy home last weekend, when he took first place position in the Mobjack class during the Broad Bay Regatta. (See related story, page 6.)

The "Bucket" traditionally goes to the winner of the class with the largest number of boats starting, and for last weekend's eighth annual Regatta, that class was the Mobjack.

Sponsored by the Broad Bay

Sailing Association and sanctioned by the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Racing Association, the Regatta opened the racing season for adult sailing competition.

In a record field of 148 yachts registered in 17 classes, six skippers took all three heats of the two day race, with two heats run Saturday, June 1, and the third and final heat, Sunday, June 2. They are Mike Woodbury, Thistle; Robert Tate, Handicap B; Ronnie McLean, Seahawk; Bob Moorman, Pacific Catamaran; Mrs. Jean Moore, Flying Junior; and Robin Brody, Skipjack.

Other class winners were Robert Taylor, Shark Catamaran; Charlie McCoy, Hampton I; Bob James, Flying Dutchman; Walter Stubbs, Mobjack; Dan Boozer, Windmill, Walt Collins, Handicap C; Tpd Causey; International 505; Beth Harrell, Penguin; Ronnie Harper, Handicap A; and Marvin Turner, Cal Catamaran.

Everywhere one looked Saturday and Sunday at Broad Bay there were sailboats ready for competition in the annual regatta there.

Bikes Need Tags, Too

Virginia Beach police will begin a more rigid enforcement of the city ordinance which requires the licensing of bicycles.

According to Lt. Henry Capps, police youth bureau director, the move will be an effort to curb the increasing number of bicycle thefts which have nearly doubled during the past two months.

Capps told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN uniformed police officer, beginning June 15, will begin inspections of bicycles being ridden on the streets of the city. Any person riding a bicycle which has not been licensed will be issued a summons indicating a violation of the city ordinance.

Licensing of bicycles is one of the best methods police have in locating the proper owner of a bicycle which may have been lost or stolen. Such licenses may be obtained at any of the three Virginia Beach police precinct buildings. The license costs $1 and each license is good for the life of the bicycle.

Monday's game for the Princess Anne F.O.P., Lodge #8 softball team "sort of went the wrong way." The Norfolk Traffic Bureau defeated the Lodge team by a score of 12 to 2. The team's next game is scheduled for next Wednesday, June 12, at Crossroads School in Norfolk, to make up the game which was rained out Monday, May 27. Thus far the team has won one game and lost two this season.

The "welcome back" sign is out at the police youth bureau in the Princess Anne Courthouse headquarters. "Sgt. Marlene Pierce, has returned to her "Girl Friday" duties after being hospitalized with an illness.

Justice of the Peace Louis J. Sergeant, who works out of First Precinct/Princess Anne Station, has been missed by everyone this past week. Sergeant has been confined to Virginia Beach General Hospital with bronchial pneumonia, but is reported making good recovery and should be out of the hospital by the end of the week.

Members of the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad will hold a special meeting tomorrow night during which they will name "The Squadman Of The Year". The meeting will also see the installation of officers just elected to serve for the coming year.

The new officers include C. Talbot Dickson, captain W.

C. Egan, first lieutenant; T. M. McDonald, second lieutenant; D. Wilmont Owens, plans & training; L. Ray Meekins, sergeant; R. A. Hodges, Jr., secretary; Richard G. Tiplinas, treasurer; Peter A. Agelasto III, public relations, and Meade G. Stone, chaplain. The advisory board consists of Frank J. Gallagher, chairman; Dr. W. A. Dickinson, vice chairman, and J. R. McKenry, legal advisor.

Park Plans Anticipated By Summer

Indications now are this summer should see concrete developments in the creation of a False Cape State Park near the National Wildlife Refuge on Back Bay. The proposed recreational area involves 4,400 acres.

State Parks Commissioner Benjamin H. Bolen has indicated the False Cape master plan which is being handled by Stanley W. Abbott and Associates Inc., of Williamsburg should be completed by summer. Bolen also indicated acquisition of land for the park should also begin this summer, and involve as much of the oceanfront land from the refuge to the North Carolina state line.

Financing of the State Park began in 1966 when Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. allocated $1 million for the project, with the last Virginia General Assembly appropriating $3.2 million for development of various State park projects. However, it has not as yet been determined what portion of this $3.2 million will be earmarked for the False Cape State Park development.

Comedy Is Popular Despite Shortness of Broadway Run

The production record of the current Wedgewood Theatre offering, "Papa Is All," would make an interesting research job for anyone with the time to tabulate how many times the play has been produced throughout the country.

One item the research would show is that probably 20 summer stock companies in New York State alone have been putting it on each year, and this is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that when the comedy was first produced on Broadway it was not a huge success.

This unusual instance of a play that has won nationwide popularity despite a short Broadway run was begun when the Theatre Guild produced "Papa Is All" at what turned out to be a most inauspicious time. It opened in New York at exactly the same time that the Theatre Guild was reeling under the weight of just having produced the great hit of its career, and one that revolutionized American musical comedy, "Oklahoma!"

"Papa Is All" won praise too but not the raves of the "Oklahoma!" success, and the Guild couldn't find the time to put up the fight necessary to get the public to buy a lot of tickets and thus obtain a long run.

Although "Papa Is All" expired on Broadway with only a few critics staunchly defending it, it wasn't long before stock companies throughout the country discovered its worth as a truly humorous and sound play. It has been continually playing since 1942 in regional theatres with great success, as attested by the fact that the frequency of requests from patrons who had seen "Papa" elsewhere and wanted to see it again at Wedgewood, resulted in the comedy's inclusion in the season.

The charming account of life in a Pennsylvania Dutch family features Roby Brown, Waltham Hamilton, John Wood, Frances Bailey, Sherri Reid, and Bob Hutchinson.

"Papa Is All" will continue through June 15. Regular performing nights are Tuesday through Saturday, A Sunday matinee is scheduled for June 9.

"Papa" will be followed at Wedgewood with the world premiere of a new play by Anthony Grabowski, "The Warmth of Winter." The preview performances of "Warmth" on June 18, 19, and 20 will offer a choice of theatre only or with dinner.

Oceana Opens New Hanger

Naval Air Station Oceana opened its first new aircraft maintenance hanger in ten years, during ribbon-cutting ceremonies recently.

The hanger (Building 500) is expected to house five F-4 Phantom Oceana-based jet fighter squadrons. Each squadron will occupy one of the five individual areas which will include 12,800 square feet of hangar space plus 25 air conditioned rooms for complete administration and operation of the squadron.

Oceana's Building 500 is unique in the Tidewater area in that its steel cantilevered roof construction makes possible an 800 foot entrance area completely clear of obstruction.

The total cost of the new hangar with its supporting features is more than $3 million for approximately 133,000 square feet of usable floor space.

The main hangar bay area is enclosed by 30 individually operated steel motorized doors. A nine-inch concrete deck covers the approximately 64,000 square feet of space.

Included in the hangar complex is a parking facility which will accommodate 268 cars. More than 235,000 square feet of support pavement surrounding the hanger has been constructed for this purpose.

The hangar was designed and built under the supervision of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command, whose office in charge of construction for the facility is Rear Admiral H.N. Wallin.

The work was carried on under the supervision of Commander R.P. Nysted, Resident construction officer at the Naval Air Station Oceana.

The hangar, two years in construction, was built by Security Construction Company, Inc. of Richmond.

Permits Are Lower, But Still Lead 1967 Figures

The value of building permits for new structures in Virginia Beach dropped sharply in May, but remained ahead of May 1967 and far ahead of the total through 1967.

Robert R. Lohr, assistant superintendent of the Building Inspections Division said June promises to be a busy month for the issuing of permits and that dollar values should be high.

By Tuesday, with only two working days in June, permits had already been issued for the start of 40 new houses and a 64-unit apartment complex.

While May permits dropped to $4,303,463, they were still ahead of May 1967 by nearly $80,000. April 1968 permits however, totaled $7,186,093.

New construction permits are moving toward a new record high for 1968, barring any unforeseen circumstances, according to building officials. Even with the drop in May, the value of permits through May is more than $10 million ahead of a year ago and more than $4 million ahead of the present record year in 1965.

Residential construction, single-family residences and apartments and townhouses, accounted for about three-quarters of the May 1968 total.

One of the prime reasons why building officials feel the value dropped in May was a new requirement that water and sewer line fees had to be paid before a building permit could be issued. Lohr said many who sought a permit were turned away in May until the fees were paid.

Tuesday Lohr said after the two busy days, "They have paid those fees because we're starting to catch up now, and we're staying mighty busy!"

Heart Fund Announces Officers

Dr. William A. Dickinson, Jr., a Virginia Beach physician, has been elected President of the Tidewater Heart Association for the year 1968-69. He succeeds George P. Leigh, Jr., a Virginia Beach resident.

The election took place at the 16th Annual Meeting and Awards Presentation of the Tidewater Heart Association held at the Bow Creek Golf and Country Club.

George P. Leigh, outgoing President; Glenn A. Holloman, 1968 General Campaign Chairman; and A.G. Alexander, Virginia Beach Heart Fund Chairman, all Virginia Beach residents, received Medallion awards for their service to the Heart cause during the past year. New members elected to the Board of Directors from Virginia Beach are Alexander and Harold Botterbaugh.

Eagle Scouts Receive Awards

Eagle Scout awards were recently presented to two members of Troop 412 Boy Scouts of America in a special Court of Honor ceremony at Bayside Christian Church.

Virginia Beach Vice-Mayor Robert B. Cromwell, Jr. presented the awards to Kenneth S. Reightler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Reightler, Sr.; and Marty Deafenbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Deafenbaugh.

Both are 17 years old and are Juniors at Bayside High School where they have both held offices in student organizations, taken part in school athletic programs, and have received several scholastic honors.

Reightler and Deafenbaugh have been active in scouting for several years and received several scouting honors, which include brotherhood membership in the Order of the Arrow, Blue Heron Lodge #349. Both of the young men also hold the office of Junior Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop #412, which is sponsored by the Men's Fellowship Class of Bayside Christian Church, with Gordon Deafenbaugh, as Scoutmaster.

The ceremony was also marked by the presentation of a plaque to outgoing Troop Committee Chairman Arthur G. Eesenberg, in appreciation for his many services to scouting.

Scouts To Take on Mountains, River

Friday nearly 40 Virginia Beach boys will get their report cards, then head to their homes to pack for a canoe-camping trip in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The "Boots and Paddle Mountain Trek," sponsored by the PAVAB District Boy Scouts, will take place from Saturday, June 8 to Wednesday, June 13. The Scouts, 15 and 16 years old and representing 18 local units, will include six Eagles, 14 Life Scouts, six Star Scouts and the rest Explorer Scouts.

They will be divided into two groups. One group will begin at "Big Meadows" and will back pack to Luray, then Front Royal, 20 miles through the mountains in some cases blazing their own trail. The other group will travel by canoe on the Shenandoah River beginning at Elkton and paddling to Front Royal where they will turn over their canoes to the hikers and trade places.

Although they will be using dehydrated trail food along the way, the hikers will be packing about 30 pounds each, including crew gear. The highest climb along the way will be 4000-foot-high Hawksbill Mountain. Each group will have a 40 mile canoe trip and 20 miles hiking.

Ironically, Roger Palmer who originated the idea of the trek will not be along. He had to report aboard ship on June 4. Among the adults who are going are Cliff Clifton, Bill Colona, Cooper Bartfield, John Martin, George Ambrose, Fred Cooke, Ernie Hyers and Herb Coleman. Hyers will head the canoes and Cooke the hikers.

The boys had a shakedown hike and canoe training session at The Narrows in May in preparation for the trek.

Day School To Register

Registrations are now being taken for the fall term of the King's Grant Christian Day School. The school has grades Kindergarten (four and five year olds) through ten. Kindergarten classes are a full five-hour day as recommended by the State Board of Education.

The Case of the City Planners

Undoubtedly the rumble about the lack of a quorum at a recent special meeting of the City Planning Commission is not over. Vice-Mayor Robert Cromwell has called for an investigation into the matter and probably something will come of that at Monday's next regular Council meeting.

Like most, we consider the City Planning Commission the one single most important governmental body in the city short of City Council itself. In the hands of the 15 appointees is held the future development of Virginia Beach.

Most members of that body are conscientious hard-working individuals, extremely busy with their own regular vocations. Yet they give of their time in one, two or perhaps three meetings a month and they view property all over the city which must be zoned. They are paid the paltry sum of ten dollars a month, regardless of the number of meetings and the amount of time and travel necessary for viewing. They realize their recommendations to Council are immensely important.

As has been pointed out in a front page story, most members of the commission have missed very few meetings, with only six missing more than two meetings in 17 months. Obviously the ones who have missed half or more of the meetings are suspect, and those who have missed more can easily be criticized.

But before the matter is entirely blown up out of perspective, we feel that those conscientious gentlemen who have served well and have appeared at most meetings should be complimented, not condemned.

Certainly there should have been a quorum at the meeting in question, and Mr. Cromwell's call for an investigation was well-founded. But blanket disapproval and criticism is not the answer. If some weeding out is necessary, it should be done.

An End to Violence

He called for an end to divisiveness and violence in a victory speech in California. Moments later the ironic tragedies that have plagued the Kennedy family followed Sen. Robert Kennedy into a small hallway where he was violently cut down in a bloody massacre.

No matter what anyone thought of the man, the Senator, the candidate, to that point, the act of violence came as a shock and as a deplorable act.

What is this country coming to when acts of lawlessness such as this can happen? Certainly similar acts have happened before, and that is just the point. Coming on the heels of the brutal murder of Martin Luther King, riots and violence in the cities, continued racial unrest and the assassination of the Senator's own brother nearly six years ago, one finds it difficult to compare this America with the deep patriotism that created a new country based on freedom and the rights of the individual.

If strong gun laws are not enacted now, after this, the latest act of violence, it will be a travesty of justice. What does it take to make everyone see the extreme dangers before us unless sharp measures are taken to curb unrest, division and violence? There will always be deranged individuals who simply do not and cannot understand, but are compelled to violence by unrest.

Hopefully this will be the final blow and Americans will stop heading full speed into oblivion with a complete breakdown of the very principles that made this country great. There is still hope if patriotism and faith can win out over divisiveness and violence.

The Civic Center Cost Factor

Privately there has been some talk that the probable cost of building a new civic-convention-cultural center in Virginia Beach is a bit of a deterring factor. This, so goes the talk, is one of the reasons things are moving relatively slowly on the project.

Obviously the center is going to cost money, and a lot of it at that, but the present inadequate center is losing money that could be coming in with a larger facility immediately. Name entertainers are reluctant to come here because of the small auditorium. And the Dome is not big enough to house a large convention.

Cost of land supposedly enters the new center picture too. Yes, that's going to cost a lot of money also. But each day we wait, the land price goes up higher.

We are glad the matter has been turned over to the City Planning Commission for their comprehensive study and recommendations. We do not urge them to rush, but we do recommend they complete their work with dispatch so that, high costs of building a center or not, a new center can move a step closer to reality.

The magnitude of the project is certainly staggering, but the center is a must to the economy of the city as well. If we can ever realize any profit from it, it first has to get built.

Doubts at this point can be disastrous. Everyone concerned must plunge ahead with great fervor and enthusiasm, regardless of any problems to be overcome.

SURE-FIRE RECIPE

Capital Punishment

To the Editor:
I recently read that the Supreme Court has passed down a decision that will limit subordinate courts' power to impose the death penalty. How many generations must pass, slow step by slow step, before the high court finally takes that last bold step and does away with the "legal" rationalization of killing each other?

I am not concerned with Christianity, or Judaism, or any other religion as such, but with the basic philosophies that all humankind, regardless of their race or their God or even their century, have held: that killing is immoral; that killing as a punishment for that crime is no less immoral.

Not a lawyer, or even a legal buff, I have no figures at hand to argue the fact that doing away with capital punishment will not presuppose an increase in crime rates. But such figures do exist. As do the arguments, by legal minds, that a man who kills, and knows that he himself will be killed by the "public"—will not hesitate to kill again.

Frances Tillotson

Guest Editorial

Problem Clear, Solution Obscure

The following editorial is reprinted from VIRGINIA TOWN AND CITY, the official magazine publication of the Virginia Municipal League and affiliated organizations.

The episodes of early April deserve the attention of every American, black or white, and particularly of every government official. Especially must municipal officials pay heed to what is going on, and to what, if anything, can be done about it. It is no simple problem. There is no pat answer. Is it poverty? Or racism, black or white, or both? Is it prejudice? Is it ignorance?

No matter what it is, this racial strife has become a critical national problem. There must be a solution. Are we clever enough to find it? The concentration of Negroes in core cities, particularly in the East, is in itself the gravest national problem.

Political scientists, anthropologists, sociologists, economists, theologians, and whatnot, all have their notions. One anthropologist thinks that technology has done us in. Man, says he, is an organism designed to travel through his environment at not more than five miles per hour. To travel faster as we do, he argues, is to deprive one's self of proper "sensory perception." Man knows only what he perceives through his senses—of sight, hearing, smell, taste and feeling. If he travels too fast, he loses something, and is not wholly himself as he was molded in nature.

Sounds sort of silly, of course. But nobody can say why half of Virginia's hospital beds are for those who suffer from mental illness. It is a crazy, mixed-up world we live in. Man is master of his environment, and should be careful of what he does to it.

There is no clear course. But America has 8 per cent of the population of the world, and nearly half of its wealth. It has 180 million whites and 20 million non-whites. The summer of 1967 produced troubles that resulted in 85 deaths, 3,200 injuries, 16,000 arrests, and $100 million in property destruction. The early April episodes should cause everyone to stop and think. An answer can be found and must be.

Above all, let every person give earnest thought to the problem, try to inform himself fully, and genuinely search for a solution.

Lowering the Voting Age

The following editorial concerning a timely topic is reprinted from the DAILY PRESS, of Newport News.

More than ever before in our history, young people are interesting themselves enthusiastically in public affairs. This interest is most dramatically evidenced in campus radicalism that is more destructive than constructive.

However, these extremists are relatively few in number; by their violent words and deeds they focus attention away from the vast majority of youths whose involvement is more responsible and thus more in the American tradition.

By their energetic political activism, these young people put to shame those millions of their elders who fall even to vote when the opportunity arises. And undoubtedly the 18-to-21 group is by and larger better educated and better informed than was the case with past generations at that stage of life.

Logically, the issue of giving 18-year-olds the vote is now coming to a head. To a large extent this is because we are involved in a war. The saying goes that "If you're old enough to die for your country, you're old enough to vote." We have not agreed with that line of reasoning per se. The qualifications for exercising this franchise of citizenship are not necessarily the same as those for military service.

But this war is of such a nature that it has heightened the pace of political dialogue and inevitably—especially—those under 21 have become participants. The debate ranges far beyond the war issue and while we may disagree with some of its manifestations, it is generally an educative process, particularly for the young.

President Johnson is only the latest of political figures to endorse the extension of the vote to 18-year-olds. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and others had previously spoken along that line. For three days earlier this month, the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments held hearings on a proposal to set this new minimum voting age for federal elections.

For some time now, Georgia and Kentucky have permitted 18-year-olds to vote; in Hawaii and Alaska, the minimums respectively are 20 and 19. Other states are talking along this line. Recently Maryland's voters had an opportunity to make the change but voted down a proposed new Constitution including such a provision; whether they would have approved this one section if it had been offered alone is a moot question. Virginia's Commission on Constitutional Revision will no doubt be considering such a recommendation.

But if, as President Johnson said this week, this is the time "to extend the range of young people's participation in public life," it should be on a nationwide basis. Congress should proceed with action on a constitutional amendment to that effect.

SPOTS

By H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr.

"Daddy, will you please put this together for me now?" the energetic just-turned five year old asked. "I can't do it." "I couldn't insert Tab 'A' into Slot 'B,' no matter what, right now, even if my life depended on it," he said, without opening his eyes or moving from the sofa. "I know Dr. Spock says not to ignore the needs of your children, but please try to understand, I'm lost."

"Who's Dr. Spock?" she questioned. "Well, he used to be an expert on babies and little children until he became a protestor," he said.

Who is Doctor Spock's Stand-in?

"No." "What did you say?" asked her mother sharply. "I'm protesting," she said, with a child-sized smirk. "Go upstairs," he said. She did. "I don't think I'll ever come again," said the mother. "I'm just too tired to breathe." "Don't," he said. "That was a great idea you had. Have a birthday party for 19 five and six-year olds. Whoopee!" "Well, they're gone now," she said, "although I had my doubts whether we would survive to say nothing of those two teenaged girls who helped out." "They were sort of mumbling incoherently when they left," he said. "Why did you invite so many?" "I didn't. She did. She invited all her special friends from school and from the neighborhood," she said. "I really wasn't sure how many were coming. Thank goodness I had enough goodies."

"I can't make up my mind whether she just likes having everybody around or if she just wanted a lot of presents," he said. "Of course, every day when I get home there are always a mess of kids here from this prolific neighborhood." "What happened to our madcap two-year old?" she asked. "She ran around here like a wild Indian during the party." "She finally passed out, and I put her to bed for a nap. It must have been too much kool-aid," he said. "Daddy, will you read me this book?" she asked as she came back downstairs. "It's all about a birthday party." He groaned and turned away. "You're acting like Dr. Spunk," she noted. "That's Spock," he said, while mother and daughter had a good laugh. "I had so much fun, Daddy," she said. "And we get to do it all again next month." "What do you mean?" mother and father asked in unison as they sat up alertly. "I told all of them to come back for my little sister's birthday in July. They said they would."

Case Summation May 24 to 30, 1968

The court had hearings on 51 juvenile petitions which concerned persons 17 years of age or under accused of violating state laws or city ordinances. One of these cases involved felony, and resulted in a juvenile being placed under care of the State Dept. of Welfare and Institutions.

Other cases which the court settled involved 41 on alleged traffic law violations and 15 on family domestic problems. There were 7 cases of parental non-support during the above calendar dates.

Flower Power conquers all. This wonderfully colorful design is Bates' passport into the mod-world of Pow! A matching headboard is a decorator touch and the floor-length tablecloth adds the final fillip of fashion.

Mod Fashions Spread to Beds

Who would have thought in the dear old days of Victoria that one day children would be seen and heard with such a hue and cry? But today the country is being rattled delightfully by a youthquake of major proportions. Communities are split between the "hippies" and the "squares" and everyone's taking sides. What swings the pendulum for the young today? Almost everything.

The big wind is coming from the East as the active generation becomes the entranced with the mystical ambiguities of Eastern thought. And the wind from the West (coast) is fragrant with flowers. Everything's bright to the eye, sharp to the ear, a veritable feast for the senses.

It stands to reason that today's generation would want their personal enclaves as Now, Wow and Pow as anything. Little wonder that in decorating their bedrooms, they want zippy spreads, zingy wall posters, super headboards, fabulous gimp-cracks--and all that psychedelic jazz. It's a far cry from the traditional look that young bedrooms used to have.

At one time, a young man's fancy--or a young woman's for that matter--was rarely indulged. Parents arranged to purchase furniture and fixings according to what they thought a child's room ought to look like. It was either a cutie, frilly doll-like decor for the young miss, or an aggressively "mannish," woodsy-sportsy den atmosphere for the young man in the family. But today, the rooms young kids are choosing for themselves are delightfully "turned on" to the wonderful color explosion of the 1960's.

One of today's most important influences is the current vogue for Eastern philosophy--avidly adopted by folk heroes, the Beatles, Mia Farrow, Shirley MacLaine, Indian music via Ravi Shankar is a counterpoint to the intricate paisley patterns from that part of the world that are turning up in all sorts of ways. And this Eastern look is particularly suited to the bedroom--everybody's favorite haven for meditation. Mysterious and colorful patterns are characteristic, and Bates' India Paisley is the perfect choice for covering a bed in an Eastern-oriented room. The sweeps and swirls of color are inspired by the original wool paisley made in Kashmir. Accessorizing the room from the East is fun--and affordable. Rattan furniture is both decorative and inexpensive; jewel-colored throw pillows are easy to buy and make a dedicated green thumb can create a jungle of leafy plants from seed.

Florals have always been a decorating staple of bedroom decor. But the blooming spreads available today are a far cry from the diminutive, slightly faded, pastel blossoms that decked the beds of the past. The message today is "bold and bright!"--and it comes through loud and clear in spreads like Bates Crazy Daisy, with its stylized flower in striking colors--a new opening natural for any bedroom. A fun touch is to buy a matching table fashion for the same room, or use extra material to cover a chair, a waste basket, or other accessories. Another smashing floral is Flower Power. The color melange here is more sophisticated, and the design bursts with larger-than-life flowers. A smart decorating move would be to make a matching headboard.

While some rooms cry out for look-alike spreads, others need a more subdued touch. Supposing a youngster is mad for wild psychedelic posters, a bookshelf full of Pop, Op, and Mod objects, and big pots of powerfully-colored paper flowers. In a room where the personal effects of the inhabitant are so marked, the bed demands a spread that won't compete but will certainly hold its own. One that is perennially popular is Bates' Piping Rock--now available in some brand-new swinging colors like hot pink, lemon yellow, and parrot green, as well as in the more traditional tones. Matching cafe curtains are available in all the 18 decorator shades to create ensembles that can be mixed and matched in almost infinite combination.

The latest news in bedspreads is that they are going Modern all the way with flower-powered fancies, pretty plains, and paisleys. It's easy to "tune in" today's young decorating trends and "turn on" a bedroom that'll have your youngsters saying, "It's the grooviest!"

'Cosmetic Spice' Beautifies Food

Bright, natural color in foods is a reliable guide to prime eating quality, say the experts. Think of golden butter, of the greens of lettuce, of steaks broiled to a turn, of the varied reds of ripe strawberries or tree-top apples.

Paprika has been called "the cosmetic spice" and with good reason. It adds appetite appeal to any dish in which it is used and achieves the ultimate in gay "mod" garnishment when sprinkled lightly over foods which would otherwise look too pale to be attractive.

Paprika is one of the most useful spices for flavoring a variety of special diet dishes. Whether it's a low sodium, low cholesterol or strict reducing diet, paprika gives sweet and pleasing flavor and cheerful red color without adding sodium, fat or calories.

As millions of mothers can testify, youngsters are invariably attracted to red. If Junior is being a bit mullish about eating what he should, make a little ceremony of prepping up his meat or vegetable with a shake of paprika.

Because of its many good uses, paprika is a best-seller in the spice line today. We use more than 12 million pounds of paprika annually. One-third of this vast quantity reddens in the bright California sunlight. The remainder is imported from seven or eight different countries.

These recipes from the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association show ways in which paprika can be used for flavor as well as appetizing color.

The color and flavor of paprika pleased the Hungarians so much that they gave its name to a realm of world-famous Hungarian "paprikashes" on the order of this tempting dish which can be made with either veal or chicken.

VEAL (OR CHICKEN) PAPRIKASH
2 T. instant minced onion
2 lb. boneless veal shoulder OR 2 1/2 lb. broiler-fryer chicken
1/4 c. flour
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
1/4 c. salad or olive oil
2 T. paprika
1 T. butter
1 T. flour
1/2 c. milk
1 c. sour cream

Mix minced onion with an equal amount of water; let stand 8 to 10 minutes to soften. Cut veal into 1-inch cubes or cut chicken into serving-size pieces. Dredge meat in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Heat oil in 10 to 12-inch skillet. Add meat, softened onion and 1 tablespoon paprika to the hot oil. Brown meat well on all sides. Add 1/3 cup water, cover tightly and simmer, turning occasionally, adding more water if needed. Cook 45 minutes or until meat is tender. To make sauce, melt butter in small saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour and remaining 1 tablespoon paprika until smooth, stirring constantly until mixture bubbles. Remove from heat and gradually stir in milk. Return to heat and bring rapidly to boiling point, stirring constantly. Reduce heat; cook 1 to 2 minutes longer or until thickened, stirring. Gradually stir in sour cream, beating vigorously. Pour sauce over cooked meat in skillet and heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Serve hot with broad noodles, if desired. Yield: 4 to 6 portions.

Slices cut from seasoned, chilled cheese rolls are most attractive with rims of bright red paprika.

PAPRIKA CHEESE ROLLS
1/2 lb. processed American cheese, finely shredded
1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese
1/3 c. finely chopped, stuffed olives
1/4 tsp. instant onion powder
1/16 tsp. cayenne
1 T. sour or heavy cream
Paprika

Have cheeses at room temperature; mix together until well blended. Add olives, onion powder, cayenne and sour cream. Mix well. Shape into 3 rolls, each about 4 inches long. Thoroughly sprinkle paprika on waxed paper. Turn cheese rolls in paprika. Wrap in foil. Chill several hours. Cut into thin slices. Serve on rounds of melba toast or on round crackers as an accompaniment to salads, or as a tea sandwich or with beverages as appetizers. Yield: Approximately 4 to 6 dozen.

Dusting well-seasoned mayonnaise-spread fish steaks with paprika before broiling sends them to the table with a delightful blushing-pink complexion.

ROSY PAPRIKA BROILED FISH
6 T. mayonnaise
3/4 tsp. garlic salt
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ground black pepper
2 lb. fish steaks (swordfish, halibut or cod) cut 1 1/4 inches thick
1 tsp. paprika
6 lemon slices
Parsley flakes
Paprika

Blend mayonnaise with garlic salt, salt and black pepper. Spread one side of fish steaks with half of the mayonnaise.

Military Wives Club Notes

By Mary Wright

Mrs. Kenneth Shugart, wife of the commanding officer of Air Wing 7, was honored with a luncheon Wednesday, May 29, in the Versailles Room of the NAS Oceana Officers' Club by the air wing officers' wives, VA-75 wives, and the wives of the ship's company from the USS Independence (CVA-62), to which Air Wing 7 is attached.

Mr. Shugart will leave this month for his next duty station at the Department of Defense, Washington.

The CPO wives hosted their own affair yesterday, a luncheon at the Little Creek Eddy Church whose husband has received orders to the West Coast, and from there to Vietnam.

The luncheon got underway with cocktails at 11:30 a.m. and the luncheon, during which Mrs. Church was presented with a gift charm from the club, was served at noon.

A business meeting for the group will be held Monday, June 10 at the CPO club.

Little Creek

Monday, June 3, Mrs. Stephen Johnson, wife of the commanding officer of Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, hosted a coffee for the 1967-68 and 1968-69 officers of the base's Chief Petty Officers' Wives Club at her home at the Amphib base.

New Chapter Is Chartered
The newly chartered Beta Kappa chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International sorority, held their first meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. R.K. Holbert.

The following chairmen were appointed: Mrs. Fleetwood Mitchell, social; Mrs. R.P. Garbrant, philanthropic; Mrs. F. Jefferson Bridges, ways and means; and Mrs. Richard Perry, publicity. Mrs. R.L. Goodwin will be the chapter's chaplain, and Miss Lisa Shelly will be the Jonquil reporter. Mrs. F.F. Nilsson was appointed contact chairman as well as parliamentarian.

The president's theme for the year will be "Unity".

Mrs. Walter Edwards of Alpha Xi chapter presented an educational program that covered U.S. History, Symbols and Traditions. The chapter met again Tuesday, June 4 at the Thalia Methodist Church. Mrs. C.B. Cross of Alpha Xi showed a film, "A Year of Socials".

Dam Neck

The Dam Neck Guided Missile School officers' wives will get together for a coffee and wig demonstration, presented by Miller and Rhodes, Wednesday, June 19, at the home of Mrs. Bunney Bassett. Co-hostess with Mrs. Bassett will be Mrs. Maxine Trammell.

At the club's last meeting, $80 was collected to go toward sending several Seaford girls to summer day camp through the Tidewater Council of Girl Scouts.

Ft. Story

Ft. Story officers' wives meet today for a luncheon at the post's seaside Officers' Club, for installation of new officers and recognition of the work done by last year's officers and committee chairmen.

The social will begin with cocktails at 12 noon and the luncheon will follow at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Kenneth Blunt, current president of the wives club and wife of Ft. Story's chaplain, will leave the post tomorrow for Ohio, where she and the Blunts' children will live while Chaplain Blunt is serving in Vietnam.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Robert Amick, will announce her committee chairmen for the coming year at today's luncheon.

Sailing Season Sets Sail on Broad Bay

Setting up the tables were Bob Mahan and Dr. Dean Brainard for the crab and oyster roast that followed the regatta.

"If the wind had been any stronger, we'd have had a massive traffic jam," commented one skipper at the Broad Bay Sailing Association's 8th annual sailing regatta last Saturday and Sunday. There were 148 entries, plus many "spectators."

Skippers coming ashore were greeted by roasting crabs and oysters Saturday evening at The Narrows. And this year there were plenty of hot dogs for all—a commodity in short supply with the youngsters last year.

The faithful and enthusiastic crowd stayed for two races Saturday and returned for a third on Sunday. For many, it was also a good opportunity to gain a sun tan.

Mrs. Russell Hatchett, left, watches as her husband receives a proclamation from Mrs. Hershberger.

Council Honors Hatchett, Lays Plans for Next Year

Mrs. S. L. Denty, beautification chairman of Thoroughgood Garden Club, holds her club's first place award in the HANDS contest.

The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Surrounding Area no sooner ended its activities for one council year than it was laying plans for the next.

At the annual luncheon last week at the Ocean Hearth Restaurant, Mrs. Arthur Gallagher, HANDS chairman announced plans to appoint a committee to investigate the feasibility of the council adopting the beautification of Cape Henry Light-house as a project for next year. The council agreed. The council has already undertaken the beautification of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach as a continuing project.

Retiring City Manager Russell Hatchett and his wife were guests of honor at the luncheon. Council Pres. Mrs. C. L. Hershberger presented Hatchett with a scroll of appreciation in behalf of the city's garden club members. "What greater, truer friend could any group have?" she asked.

Mrs. Gallagher then read the resolution which "recognized his distinctive efforts in regard to beautification."

Hatchett replied that the efforts of the garden club members are paying off and that, "I think it can be seen throughout our city."

Other luncheon guests included Mrs. Frank Lukanich, president of the Tidewater District, Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs, and Mrs. G. D. Overman, president of the Council of Garden Clubs of Norfolk and Vicinity.

Cash awards and certificates were presented to HANDS winners, as announced in April. First prize winners were Thalia Garden Club and Thoroughgood Garden Club.

Mrs. C. W. Jernigan, awards chairman, presented awards for prize-winning year books and scrapbooks. Hunt Country Garden Club won for the best printed year book; Lynnhaven Garden Club, best mimeographed; Wolfsmare Garden Club, best permanent cover; and Thalia, best scrapbook.

Birchwood Garden Club received the litterbug award while Lake Shores Garden Club took the attendance award.

Mrs. Gallagher reported on a HANDS workshop held for chairmen recently in Atlanta. "We're determined Virginia Beach is going to be up for one of the top awards next year," she said in announcing a beautification slogan for next year, "Make our GEM of a city really glitter."

Explaining further, she said GEM stands for "Make Everything Glitter." To further entice (See "Council" p. 8)

Mrs. James Latham, Tidewater Area Council president; Edward F. Hanrahan, district manager of Wilson Harrell Company, Inc.; Mrs. M. E. White, wife of Dam Neck chaplain, Lt. Cdr. White; and Mrs. Carol Flynn, Council secretary-treasurer, all chow-down at last Wednesday's annual Area Council meeting at Dam Neck's Lido Club. Hanrahan was guest speaker for the buffet luncheon.

Beach Jaycees Want 30 Girls

Attention, girls...between the ages of 17 and 28.

How would you like a brand new car to drive for a year? Over $500 in scholarships? A great new wardrobe? And a trip to Roanoke and lots more prizes?

They can all be yours if you are the new Miss Virginia Beach to be chosen in August. That new car is a Dodge Charger from Tidewater Dodge for use of the winner during her year-long reign.

Applications for contestants in the Miss Virginia Beach pageant are still being accepted. The deadline to enter is June 17. Any eligible young lady interested need only contact Jim Hill, entry chairman, at the Temple of Music in Pembroke Mall by calling 499-0551 or Bill Stewart, general chairman of the pageant for the sponsors, the Virginia Beach Jaycees. He can be reached at 622-7004 or 497-9126.

"We have about 20 girls entered already," said Stewart. "But we'd like 20 or 30 more."

Mrs. William W. Vail and "Poo" search the Narrows for her husband's boat.

Ann Bragg Is Glad to Be Involved

Mrs. Ann Bragg with Irish setter friend "Bailey" in the backyard of the Braggs' home.

Ann Bragg is a tall, dark-haired gal whose eyes light up at the words "Friends of Music Arts Festival" and her usually quiet manner becomes charged with electric enthusiasm.

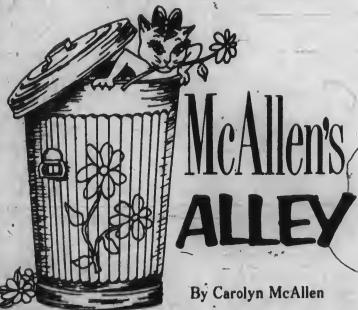

"I have never been involved in a project like this before," says Mrs. Bragg. "It is so wonderful to see people just like me, who ordinarily don't have a cause to champion, working their heads off because we simply love music, want to see it performed LIVE and her in our own Virginia Beach."

"Through this Festival in August, we'll have the chance of letting our continuously growing community participate in the enjoyment of hearing really accomplished musicians. Why, just think of the opportunities this will present for our young people in being exposed and inspired by these performances."

Ann is the recording secretary of Friends of Music, Inc., and is assistant treasurer of the Festival itself. She enjoys singing and has been a member of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus and also sings each week in the Galilee Episcopal Church Choir.

Ann, her husband Frank, and their 14-year-old son, Sanford, share their lovely beach home on 49th Street with an Irish Setter named "Bailey." "I was born and raised in St. Louis and Frank is a native Norfolkian," she continued. "While he was in the Navy, we had been stationed off and on in this area and when Frank retired, it was just natural that we came 'home'."

In the 14 years Frank and Ann have lived at the Beach, they have watched their "town" grow into a bustling, thriving city creating its own personality and traditions. Ann says positively, "The best change as far as I'm concerned is that the tradition of a regularly scheduled concert season at Virginia Beach has now begun."

There's No Justice

I'll never understand my children.

What can you do with a seven-year-old who turns green almost as soon as you start the ignition of the car but isn't the least bit bothered by the wildest rides at the amusement park? The only thing she and her five-year-old sister (with the cast iron digestive tract) didn't ride was the ferris wheel. That was no over-sight on their part. They literally begged to ride on it.

But Mama is a coward. I have never been able to force myself to get on one. And I simply couldn't stand the thought of them riding it by themselves.

However, in an effort to make up for that, we all (the four-year-old too) rode the Whip together. Everything was fine until the car started moving. It was the four-year-old who turned various shades of green. He hung on grimly with his eyes shut tight.

Then, as soon as he staggered off, (and I tried to walk a straight line) he begged to ride on the next ride with the girls. After convincing him to sit the next one out, he rode every other thing that the girls did.

And a good time was had by all.

But I know just as sure as we leave home on vacation, that at least two of the gang will be car sick the whole time we're gone despite all the Dramamine in the world.

There's just no justice.

Four Virginia Beach students received the A.B. degree in commencement exercises recently at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg. One received her degree magna cum laude, among eleven students to graduate with the highest honors awarded by the college this year—Miss Susan Sellers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Duncan Sellers of Sandy Valley Road.

The other students being graduated were: Miss Cecelia Gerloff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Gerloff, Jr., of Cedar Lane; Miss Suzanne Lawler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster R. Lawler of Atlantic Avenue; and Miss Barbara Riley, daughter of Cdr. and Mrs. William P. Riley of Smith Farm Road.

Miss Sellers also received departmental honors in her major field, history, and was elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa at R-MWC.

Miss Susan Berkeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.R. Berkeley Jr., Discovery Road, a member of the graduating class at Centenary College for Women, was awarded the Elizabeth Shimer award during class day exercises May 24. The prize is awarded to a student who has shown enthusiasm for the entire class and its activities behind the scenes.

Miss Jane Garland Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Waller of North Bay Shore Drive, is one of the seniors at Westtown School, Westtown, Pa., who will be graduated at the school's annual commencement, Saturday, June 8.

The following women from Virginia Beach received a B.S. degree in Medical Technology from the Medical College of Virginia June 1. They are Miss Harriet Kitchin Gilliam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Gilliam, Sr., Goodspeed Road, and Miss Mary Beth Prillaman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.N. Prillaman, Jr., 76th Street.

JOSH BILLINGS Sez... 6 Teachers Get Awards

Six secondary school teachers, selected by their own students, were honored by the Kiwanis Club of Virginia Beach last week as outstanding teachers.

The six, each presented with plaques, were Mrs. Dorothy Beale Jones, Princess Anne; Carl Peterson Jr., Kellam; Bernard Gernershausen, Bayside; Arthur Koeppen, Cox; Amos J. Whitehurst, Union Kempsville, and John Roberson, First Colonial.

Elmer Tarrall, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of curriculum and materials, made the awards. He stated that these outstanding teachers were teachers of perception, skill and broad cultural background. He pointed out that their respective schools selected them because they, among many other fine qualities, "cared about children and gladly taught them."

The Kiwanis will make the awards annually.

Special Service To Be Sunday

The Rt. Rev. John B. Bentley will visit St. Francis Episcopal Church for "The Laying on of Hands" Confirmation at 11 a.m. June 9. The church is located at 509 S. Rosemont Rd.

Five others attended Richmond College. They are Cole T. Adams of Princess Anne Road, who received the B.A. in psychology; Albert C. Eisenberg of Virginia Drive, B.A.; Miltades Y. Ylasmides of 24th Street, B.A., philosophy; Clyde D. Jennings of Norfolk Road, B.S., chemistry; Dennis E. Valianos of Ewell Street, B.A., history. Others are Peter M. Day of Little Haven Road, B.S., finance at the School of Business Administration; and Anne C. Heflin of North Kings Road, B.A., English, at Westhampton College.

Leaders Meet Leader

"After all, we operate the schools for the students, and it behooves us to find out what they're thinking, what they've got on their minds, how they feel about what we're doing," it is this philosophy—"We operate the schools for the students"—that moves Virginia Beach School Supt. E. E. Brickell to talk with his city's students whenever and wherever he can, and it was this philosophy that led to a recent luncheon meeting between Brickell and seven student leaders from the local high schools.

Attending the meeting with Brickell were: Ted Clemmons, Bayside High School; John Wolfe, First Colonial High School; Jennifer Brown, F. E. Kellam High School; Cynthia Domme, Kempsville High School; Thomas Cooper, Princess Anne High School; William Whedoes, Virginia Beach Jr. High School, and Jack Bove, Union Kempsville High School.

Most of the students are student government presidents; all are recognized by their classmates as leaders. "They are representative of today's student leadership," said Brickell. "They are bright, alert, concerned, articulate—and they have a much broader comprehension of the world and its problems than my generation did at that age. I'd like to think the improvement of public schools has helped to broaden that comprehension."

Subjects discussed were those near to the students: The cadet Stephen A. Strickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Strickler of Linbay Drive, will be among the 220 first classmen candidates for the baccalaureate degree Sunday, June 9, at the 2 p.m. Virginia Military Institute graduation exercises, at Lexington.

NORFOLK PORTSMOUTH VIRGINIA BEACH

VIRGINIA BEACH LAWNS & GARDENS

Exclusive in the Sun

Plant Treefuls of Bloom

Flowering trees give you the biggest return in the number of blooms—more than any garden investment you can make. Many kinds, such as redbud, dogwood, flowering crabapple, peach, and cherry, explode into thousands of blossoms per tree each year for a spectacular display. Most make outstanding specimen trees featured in a lawn area.

The amazing fact is that most of these beauties cost five dollars or less. Each year, the trees get bigger and your enjoyment of them increases.

Pick a blossom color, a height or shape, and there is a flowering tree to fill the bill. You can have trees in bloom from February to fall. The witch hazel pays little heed to cold, and delicately lines its branches with soft yellow blossoms in late February or March. Another variety of witch hazel defies winter by blooming in mid-October. Spring comes on strong with magnolias, crabapples, fringe trees, redbud, flowering cherry, and many others. Summer gets a color lift from althea (rose of Sharon), golden chain tree, mimosa, and Chinese scholar tree. The foliage of many, such as dogwood, hawthorn, and stewartia, color beautifully in the fall.

Visit your local garden center soon to look over his selection of trees. Potted and balled-and-burlapped trees can be planted any time of the year that you dig a planting hole.

While you're getting your trees, pick up a bag of TLC Turf & Tree Food and add it to peat moss, so your new trees can get off to a running start. Dig a generous-size hole, both in width and depth, which will more than accommodate the spread of the roots. Mix peat moss in the excavated soil to loosen it. Chop the soil in the bottom of the hole and spread a handful or two of TLC Turf & Tree Food and 5 or 6 double handfuls of peat moss. Chop this in well to get it mixed deep. If the tree is bare-root, drive a sturdy stake into the center of the hole for future support of the young tree. Then, with the trunk held next to the stake, quickly spread the roots out and cover them with soil, firming with hand or foot as more soil and peat moss are added.

Fill hole 3/4 full of soil & peat moss and fill the rest of the way with water. Let this soak in, then fill again. When the second dose of water is absorbed, fill the hole with soil to within 2 inches of the surface. Mound

NOW IS THE TIME TO...

FEED LAWNS AND KEEP THEM WATERED. Brown lawns in summer are usually the result of lack of plant food and water. If lush grass is mowed low, the sudden exposure of the roots to the hot sun will cause burning and browning. Set the blades on your mower at least two inches above ground level now. This is a good time to feed the lawn with a 24-6-6 true food. Be sure to water the lawn. Cut regularly at two inch height.

MULCH ALL FLOWER BEDS. A mulch will conserve moisture, keep the roots and soil cool, and reduce weeds to a minimum. And, as the mulch breaks down, it improves the soil. For best results, a mulch should be two to four inches deep and completely cover the bed. Good soil around edge to form water reservoir.

Study the bare branches carefully and clip out those that are crowding. You should end up with branches spaced evenly up and down as well as around the trunk. Then cut the ones you saved back half way, making cuts just above the bud. In late spring, when new growth is several inches long, feed again with the TLC Tree Food as directed on the bag. A feeding with Winter Survival in late fall when the tree is dormant will result in firm, maximum growth.

At the first indication of insect damage, spray the trees with BC (Broad Control) Spray. This will kill insects on the surface of the leaves, and the systemic chemical it contains will enter leaf tissues to give lasting protection.

No effective fungicide has been developed to combat this rust as of this time. The only means of control we have is the pruning off of the affected part of the tree, and the burning of the infected area. Sometimes they may mean cutting the tree down, and replacing it. This happens when the affected portion is on the trunk of the tree.

As is the case with most rusts, this one has an alternate host. In the case of the eastern gall rust, the alternate host is the oaks, where it overwinters. It does no damage to the oaks, however.

Tip cuttings may be rooted in a grape box, apple crate, bread crate, or similar wooden box filled with a half-and-half mixture of sand and peat or a mixture of sand, peat moss, and vermiculite. If desired, dip base of cutting in a root inducing hormone before inserting in the rooting media.

Insert cuttings 1 inch apart in rows 2 inches apart. Firm planting medium around stem of cutting with fingers or a straight

One of the worst pest of pines in this area is the eastern gall rust. This is the bright orange, powdery substance that is very conspicuous on a swollen portion of the tree. This orange material is actually the rust spores. This became visible in the past few weeks.

As is the case with most rusts, this one has an alternate host. In the case of the eastern gall rust, the alternate host is the oaks, where it overwinters. It does no damage to the oaks, however.

This rust will weaken the tree, and may eventually cause it to die.

A cover of glass or plastic over the box will help maintain uniform humidity and temperature. Place box in shade.

Cuttings and planting medium should be kept moist, but not wet, by spraying with a mist of water twice daily. Roots usually appear in six to eight weeks. Leave plants in the rooting box a full season, then carefully dig and plant in the garden.

How to Sterilize Thermometers

Thermometers, unlike tooth brushes or hair brushes, are usually shared by all members of the family. How should you sterilize a thermometer so it does the job without carrying infection?

"Probably the simplest procedure for home use would be to wash the thermometer with soap and water and then allow it to stand in a 70 percent solution of alcohol for at least 10 minutes."

This good advice comes from the American Medical Association's Today's Health which also notes that rubbing alcohol, usually a mixture of propyl and ethyl alcohols of the right strength, is suitable. Of course the alcohol should be rinsed off with water before using the thermometer.

Family Planning Clinic Scheduled

A Family Planning Clinic, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Public Health, will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. June 11 at the Robbins Corner Health Center on Shell Road.

A film will be shown followed by a question and answer period. The clinics, which will be held at several locations throughout the summer, are a part of Project HEPP. For further information or transportation, contact Project HEPP at 397-8331.

QUESTION BOX

Q: Our houseplants have many little white fuzzy bugs and a sticky substance on the leaves and stems. What are these and how can I get rid of them?
D.A.A., Bayside

A: Your plants probably are being attacked by mealybugs. This pest can be controlled by spraying thoroughly with malathion. Mix 2 teaspoons of 50% emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water. The "wetting power" of this spray will be increased by adding 1/2 teaspoon of household detergent per gallon of spray. Direct spray to cover plant, especially down into crotches of leaves and stems.

Q: I have had trouble with slugs—they have destroyed snapdragons, violets, tomato plants and other vegetables. How can I control them?
Mrs. L.H.J., Pungo

A: Slugs favor moist areas to hide in during the day—under stones, planks and garden debris. Clear out these places and use one of the slug baits based on metaldehyde, dusting with Chlordane is helpful.

Q: How do I prevent insect problems in my lawn?
M.S., Virginia Beach

A: To prevent insect damage, apply a 14-3-3 turf food that contains Chloranil and Sevin. If you are aware of insect problems from prior years, apply early to get ahead of the insect.

Q: How can I attract more birds?
J.R.N., Lynnhaven

A: You can likely attract birds to your garden with a simple birdbath. Resist the temptation to surround your birdbath with shrubs where cats can hide. Birds like to see in all directions. But a well branched tree near the birdbath will give them convenient perches where they can wait their turn and dry off after bathing.

Mrs. E.A. Hoffmeister, beautification chairman, reported that in the last year 315 crepe myrtles and 320 other trees have been donated by clubs for planting along city streets.

Mrs. Hersberger asked each club to provide 10 times for the second annual bazaar to be held in Pembroke Mall in October.

She also announced plans for a clinic on interclub judging on Sept. 18 from 10 a.m. to noon at Thalia Methodist Church and one at the same time and place on flower arranging on Sept. 25. The cost will be 50 cents per class.

Charles Oliver, music director of Galilee Episcopal Church, was guest soloist, accompanied by Mrs. George Aldridge.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Allen Watson, Mrs. H.L. Thompson and Mrs. H.C. Given.

Council Zoning Docket Long; May Cause Added Meetings

Zoning matters filled more than two hours of the three-hour City Council meeting Monday and led one Councilman to speculate that a separate meeting to consider zoning matters may not be far away.

Lawrence Marshall of Bay-side Borough noted that zoning matters were consuming so much of the regular Council meeting that he and other Councilmen have discussed an additional meeting each month just to hold public hearings on zoning matters. Marshall added that he has also suggested that Council meet weekly instead of twice a month because of the increasing demands.

Council meets also on non-meeting Mondays at present, but in executive session, not open to the public.

A number of zoning matters had been deferred from Council's last meeting when it was determined that a quorum of City Planning Commission members had not been present when recommendations were made. Another meeting was held June 3 and recommendations were made again.

There was a change of heart by the commission on a long delayed application for rezoning of a tract of land near the City Hall complex by Virginia National Bank for a branch bank. The commission recommended approval for the building adjacent to the First Colony Telephone Co. after earlier recommending denial.

But City Council overrode the commission's recommendation and denied the zoning change. This was done despite a part of the recent Chevalier land study report which noted that banks and other types of institutional businesses would be compatible to a municipal complex. The report, however, called for municipal expansion and acquisition by the city of land that would include that sought by the bank.

Willard Ashburn, a VNB director, said the bank is needed there and would not be in the way of municipal expansion. He argued also that the cost of the land would be expensive to the city.

Councilman Curtis Payne, in moving that the application be denied, said approval of this one request could very well cause a number of other similar requests at a time when municipal expansion is greatly needed.

Just outside the proposed municipal area an application for a zoning change to limited commercial by the Nussbaum Real Estate Trust was approved providing that colonial type buildings are built on the property compatible to those in the city hall complex. A third request in the same area by Wilma M. Sirine, was denied because the land lies within the proposed complex.

Parking problems on the premises caused an application by Judy Love Miller for a use permit to operate a snack bar in a 22-room motel under construction on Atlantic Ave. to be deferred again for two weeks. The restaurant reportedly is already under construction. It was noted that it would be used primarily for the motel customers, which was argued by Councilmen who said a 22-room motel could hardly support it.

The Planning Commission again recommended approval of a large housing development adjacent to Thoroughgood, but additional modifications sought by Council caused another delay in the application by Herbert Kramer. Kramer spoke out forcefully against the modifications saying that he could build it either way but was interested in the best possible development.

The major arguments concern the size of lots abutting Thoroughgood, and the matter has been deferred several times.

Three gas station sites along Independence Blvd., near the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway were approved by Council, including one by Empire Investment Corp., which had been deferred for several months.

Warren Ott of BOU Enterprises, in seeking permission to build 224 apartment units on land just off Old Great Neck Rd. again fought stiff opposition from area civic leagues concerning schools, appearance of the apartments and crowding the already overcrowded Great Neck Rd. That matter was also again deferred for 30 days.

Another application by Seaboard Citizens National Bank and Herbert Kramer was deferred for 30 days at the request of the Planning Commission so that a school site or possibly two could be settled upon in an area at Baker Rd.

and Newton Rd. where 340 town-houses would be built and a lake excavated.

Two churches were approved and another was denied. St. Andrews Methodist was granted a permit to build at Princess Anne and Tuscon Rds. and Mt. Olive Holiness Church at Princess Anne and Landstown Rds., but the First Church of Christ, Scientist was denied a use permit for a church on Laskin Rd. at Linlier because of the residential nature of the neighborhood.

An application by the School Board to build a junior high school in Kempsville on Providence Rd. was approved, as was (See "Zoning" p. 2)

Police and UDT divers searched the waters of Great Neck Lake in vain for the body of a 14-year old boy who was diving in a maze of underwater tunnels. The Ocean Park Volunteer Fire Dept. dragging equipment can be seen on shore.

Search for Missing Boy Is Futile

As this paper went to press an investigation was continuing into the disappearance of Rodney F. Gray, III, who is presumed to have drowned in Great Neck Lake.

Gray, 14, son of R.F. Gray, Jr., of Sterling Point and Mrs. Miriam Gray, of North Lakeside Drive, was reportedly last seen in the vicinity of a "floating" island in the lake.

Police quote three youths, who had camped with young Gray Saturday night, as saying Gray spoke of attempting to swim through one of the underwater tunnels of the island. The trio was identified by police as Barry Price, 15, Tony Price, 16, and John Daniel, 14, all of whom reside near Gray's home.

The island is located about 50 yards from the east bank of the lake, and is comprised of floating debris, grass and mud. The island is described as "floating" since it reportedly rises to the surface of the four to five feet deep lake as a result of gases released by the sun's heat during the daytime, and settles lower in the lake during the night.

A search of the lake began Sunday afternoon with moments of Gray's disappearance. Search teams discontinued operations late Monday afternoon after having failed to find any trace of the boy, or any clue to his whereabouts. The 12-foot tunnel Gray reportedly attempted to swim was searched, without any sign of the youth being found.

Divers even broke up the "island" with a five-foot log attached to ropes in hopes of finding Gray. Visibility in the snake-infested lake was reported near zero, and one of the divers was nearly trapped during the search by the underwater roots, vegetable growth, and mud.

Those who took part in the search operation were the men of the Ocean Park Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept., under the direction of Dept. Chief George Lyon; divers from the Virginia Beach police department, Sgt. Norman Morse and officers George Ball and Dickie Munford; as well as members of Underwater Demolition Team 22 from the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base identified as EN 3 Harry Coleman, MN 3 Jerry Hill, PMSN Randy Thompson, RM 2 Pat Bennett, and ADJ 3 Bryant, whose operations were directed by Chief Don Byers.

Mrs. Gray, despite urgings of police and friends, refused to give up a vigil for her missing son as the search continued late Sunday evening. Gray's father also remained with the rescue teams throughout their long, fruitless search.

At mid-morning Monday, searchers again returned to the lakeside campsite where Gray and his companions had spent Saturday night, only to find young Gray's dog lying on the bank, apparently waiting for the return of his master.

Search parties ended their search of the lake Monday afternoon after finding no trace of the missing youth. A spokesman said there were no plans to continue searching the waters unless something new should indicate their return was necessary. Officials said they would continue their investigation into any clues which may lead to the whereabouts of young Gray.

One diver said it was possible his body would never be found since part of the tunnels could have collapsed.

Court Is Re-located Temporarily

Staging of the four-day South Atlantic Well Drillers Jubilee this week at the Virginia Beach Civic Center will necessitate a relocation of the Municipal Court, Part II, normally held in the Center.

The court will hold its normal session tomorrow. It will convene in the old City Council chambers located at 19th Street and Artie Avenue.

Relocation of the Court will be required for the session of Monday, June 24, due to the three day convention of the Clean Water And Outdoor Recreation Association, to be held at the Civic Center. This Court session will also be held in the old City Council chambers.

Parks Sought

The chairman of Virginia Beach's Recreation Commission, Maury Rigato, appeared before City Council Monday to present a resolution adopted by the commission at its meeting the end of last month.

The resolution called for the designation of two areas for recreational use when the land and facilities become available. The sites in question are presently used as sewer lagoon sanitary facilities, one a 25-acre site at Kemp's Landing and the other a 53-acre site in Lynnhaven borough near the General Hospital at Virginia Beach.

As city sewer facilities become available, the lagoons will no longer be needed and the commission feels the lakes and surrounding lands would make excellent sites for recreation. Rigato again pointed out the critical need for open land for this purpose in Virginia Beach.

He told Council that Redwing Park is being jammed almost to capacity in recent weeks and that the Lynnhaven site requested could serve as "another Redwing Park."

There is no timetable for the lagoons being abandoned at present and Council had not heard of the resolution and commission requests before the Monday meeting. While Councilmen noted they were in sympathy with recreational needs, they took the resolution under advisement without taking any action until the matter could be studied.

Politicos Comment On RFK

First District Congressman Thomas H. Downing said he voted for the crime-control bill passed by Congress just two days after the shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

He said he considered it a good bill overall and that some of the opposition to the bill that he had received "resembled a lobby operation." Downing added that there had been some definite opposition to the gun-control provisions of the bill.

Downing also noted his shock and dismay at the assassination of Kennedy. He said that even those who were opposed to Kennedy's policies and potential candidacy were appalled at the tragedy.

Democratic National Committee member Sidney S. Kellam of Virginia Beach also called the shooting a horrible act and noted that "even those who were not for him still have to feel very bad that this has happened to a U. S. Senator."

Kellam said he could not say how Kennedy's death would affect the forthcoming presidential nominating convention or the outcome of the election, but added that Vice President Hubert Humphrey certainly seemed to be the frontrunner for the nomination at the present time.

He also said he could not comment on the second spot on the ticket if Humphrey is the nominee, when questioned about speculation that Sen. Edward Kennedy could be a vice-presidential nominee. Kellam said that would have to wait until the convention in August where both ticket spots will be decided.

Alternative Committee Expected

Police and Trial Board Abolished By City Council

City Council Monday sounded the death knell for the 14-year old Police and Trial Board by adopting a resolution directing the City Attorney to prepare such enabling ordinances as may be necessary for the dissolution.

The resolution read, in part, "Whereas, in the opinion of the Council of the City of Virginia Beach, the use of more modern personnel procedures has eliminated the need for the Police and Trial Board; and Whereas, the Charter of the City of Virginia Beach does not require the continuation of the Board, Now Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Council of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia:

That it is the intent of this Council to dissolve the Police and Trial Board, and to assign its personnel management functions to the City Manager pending the receipt of possible alternative recommendations from the Personnel Committee heretofore appointed."

The Resolution also directed John Fentress, Clerk of Council, to send a letter to each member of the Board expressing appreciation of Council for their work.

Adoption of the resolution came with no discussion on a 7-2 vote. Councilmen Kenneth Whitehurst and Earl Tebbutt voted against. Lawrence Marshall, a former member of the Board, had left the meeting, but he said later that he probably would have abstained because of his former association. G. Dewey Simmons, the other Councilman not present, is hospitalized.

Robert Cromwell, vice-mayor and chairman of the Council's four-man personnel committee stressed the fact that the abolition of the Board came about not as the result of any pressures from within or without and not as the result of any unfavorable publicity. He noted that such a move had been contemplated for some time.

The Board came into the limelight recently when Richard Holland, then its chairman, was accused of conflict of interest, in dealings a company he heads had with the city. Holland resigned, and although Commonwealth Attorney Andre Evans said action would be started to recover any funds concerned, no such action has since been released by his office.

There had been speculation that the Board would be abolished at the last meeting after Holland resigned, but one Councilman said it was not done immediately to spare the feelings of the other Board members.

He said Council did not wish to show any lack of respect for the members of the work they had done in the past. The actual vote on the abolition will come in the next two consecutive meetings of Council.

Some sort of grievance committee is reported to be favored by the personnel committee and other Councilmen to serve the police department. Such a committee will probably be set up within the city's personnel dept.

The Board had come under considerable criticism from Councilmen who noted they were not always sure how much say they had over the Police Dept. or the Board. Complaints included the fact that the Board could hire a Police Chief, not Council, and that the Board had absolute power over hiring and firing of the department.

In other action Council approved on second reading funds for renting a building in Bayside for use as a Public Health facility; appropriated $8,000 for a new left turn lane at Northampton Blvd. at the new Holiday Inn Motel; approved a $108,506 contract with L. J. Hoy Inc. for construction of a new branch library in Kempsville; appointed planning director Pat Standing to the Community College Board after hearing a report from Councilman George Ferrell that the state will soon consider specifications for a community college in Virginia Beach; exempted family billiard parlors from those where minors could not participate; and allowed Urban Affairs Coordinator Richard Webson to apply for funds on a new road for an industrial park near Hoffman Beverage.

Scott Expected To Appoint Dodd

Virginia Beach Finance Director Giles Dodd will be named as an assistant to incoming City Manager Roger M. Scott within the next few days, according to widespread speculation at City Hall.

Dodd, considered an expert in the field of finance, will be elevated to the newly-created position as an assistant in charge of finance. The appointment has been agreed upon, according to a reliable source, but details concerning exact duties in the position have not been worked out.

Scott has already named one assistant who will come to Virginia Beach about July 15. He is David Norman, 30, now city manager of Norton, Va. His salary will be $18,500 annually. Dodd, who has been city finance director since merger in 1963, was comptroller of Princess Anne County before that time. He began employment with the county in 1955. He is a 1949 graduate of the College of William and Mary.

Reportedly the new title will not change Dodd's present duties to a great extent, but will make him a closer associate of Scott. In addition the title is not expected to carry an increase in Dodd's present salary.

Scott said before his appointment to the job as City Manager that he considers financial matters and public works and utilities to be the most important aspects of city government to be faced in the next few years. Dodd's appointment is considered in line with this. Scott also said in an earlier interview that he believes in specialization in the operation of the city and indicated he would rely heavily on the judgment of his specialist assistants and department heads.

Dodd

Scott said he is in negotiation with another man to handle the public works and utilities specialty as his assistant and that he hopes to be able to appoint someone soon.

Scott is allowed two assistants under the present city budget which goes into effect on July 1, the same date Scott takes over from retiring City Manager W. Russell Hatchett.

City Manager Russell Hatchett accepts the lease signed last week by Gov. Mills Godwin for approximately 300 acres of Camp Pendleton to be used as a municipal golf course from Maj. Gen. Paul M. Booth, Adjutant of Virginia, while incumbent City Manager Roger Scott looks on. The course should be completed by fall, 1969, according to Hatchett.

Airport Up to FAA; New Site Suggested

The Federal Aviation Agency has less than 90 days to act on a proposal to build a general airport near City Hall in Princess Anne.

The plan, which has limited support from members of City Council, members of the Virginia Beach Industrial Authority and a number of private business interests in aviation in the city, is expected to raise strong objections from the Navy.

The proposed 820-acre site at the intersection of North Landing Rd. and Indian River Rd., about two miles south of the municipal complex, lies very close to the Navy's airspace reserved for military aircraft at NAS Oceana and on the runway approach to Fentress Landing Field just across the city limits in Chesapeake.

The site apparently has the backing also of Col. Willard G. Plett, director of the state division of Aeronautics, who suggested the need for one or two general aviation fields in Virginia Beach in a recent speech here. He was informed about the proposed site at that time. The site was officially proposed to the FAA recently.

Should the plan receive the official sanction of the FAA, then the City Planning Commission and City Council will also have to approve the location.

One of the major advocates of the airport is C. H. Byler of Byler Realty, who has a partial interest in Virginia Beach Aviation Sales Ltd., which represents owners of the land on which the two-runway airport would be built by next year if approval is forthcoming.

While Byler is aware of Navy objections he said that he believes something can be worked out. Unofficially Navy spokesmen strongly disagree.

Another site for the general aviation airport has also been suggested and taken under consideration by the Virginia Beach Industrial Authority, in the event the original site is disapproved.

Bill Wood, of Goodman-Separ-Hogan and a representative of the property owners of a site in the Stumpy Lake area, suggested the alternate 1,000-acre site close to Interstate 64 and near a proposed connecting road from Chesapeake to City Hall. Part of the same tract has been offered to the city for a community college site, but acceptance is reportedly not expected.

Wood added that he did not believe the Navy would accept the original site, and in suggesting the new site near the Chesapeake-Virginia Beach line noted that there are few places that appeared to be acceptable in Virginia Beach.

Reportedly the Mayor's special committee studying the airport problem will show reveal additional plans for a small airport to serve the resort. A Chamber of Commerce Committee is also studying the situation.

'Hay Fever' Misses Mark

Noel Coward's 'Hay Fever' is a tired old drawing room comedy, full of pompously clever, sophisticated lines and people. It probably rolled 'em in the aisles in the early '30s, but the bigger than life madcap shenanigans today are lucky to glean a stifled chuckle from the more erudite in the audience.

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach production, which plays again this weekend, falls short of the mark in putting across the high comedy, totally uninhibited period piece, even though a good stab is made at it.

The set does not appear opulent enough to represent the living quarters of a wealthy family or early English hipsters—a kooky actress married to a writer of sensational fiction and their two hot-tempered, unreserved almost-grown children. The costumes are nicely period however.

One of the primary faults with the production lies in some miserable attempts to represent a British accent by some of the cast. While the Cockney maid and the actress, as well as a couple of others do it well, some others are very bad. The son, with his southern accent, obviously comes from South England.

The play is really nothing more than a character study of prototypes. The four family members each invite a guest for the weekend, each without telling the other. This does not make for homogeneous grouping to say the least. The confrontation of all eight—the four guests being relatively sane compared to the family—is the action line of the play.

Gwen Kiser tries valiantly to hold it all together as the aging actress, almost ready for a reassuring affair. Her timing and her voice, added to a nice characterization, present a charming picture.

George Mentz, as her husband, does a nice job in a thankless role and presents an imposing figure on stage.

The characterizations of the half-mad children never really come across. Granted they are confusing in the writing but Gretchen Otto and Mike Barlow are not consistent. Barlow also mistakes rushing his lines for intensity, causing a mushy line delivery.

Mary Lou Hollowell, as the maid, is funny and excellent. Her walk and her actions are delightful.

The mother's guest, Michael Donahue, seems more confused than the playboy boxer's role demands. Joseph Duffy, as the daughter's guest, a diplomat, is a bit too reticent and retiring for the role. Terry Moore, I think, is supposed to be a woman of questionable morals as a model for the father's literature, but one couldn't be certain.

In fact, I'm not sure what she was trying to create, but she did not do it well.

'Laura Rice, as the son's guest a vamp, was pleasing and handled the role well.

It is unfortunate this production marks the 20th anniversary production of the theatre group. Director Penny Martin and the entire group is capable of a lot better. HJL

Crowds Tour New Station

Approximately 4,500 persons toured the new Plaza-Windsor Woods fire station last Saturday during ceremonies marking the official opening of the station located at Rosemont Road and Plaza Trail in Lynnhaven Borough.

Mayor Frank Dusch delivered the feature address of the day, and pointed to the obvious pride and active interest the residents of the area have in the volunteer fire department and rescue squad. Prior to cutting the ribbon to formally open the station, Mayor Dusch presented a symbolic "key to the building" and dedicatory plaque to fire department Chief Loren J. Lukey and department president D. R. Robinson. "Miss Plaza Queen" Diane Morrisette assisted in the ribbon cutting ceremonies as she and Chief Lukey held the ribbon across the main entrance to the station. Music was provided by the members of the Kellam High School Band, under the direction of Thomas Swanson.

The event was also attended by City Treas. Ivan Mapp, who introduced Mayor Dusch; FAAWTC. Dan Neck Commanding Officer, Capt. S. T. Sadler; Virginia Beach Circuit Court Clerk John Fentress; Cmdr. C. H. Barfield, representing NAS Oceana; Mrs. Dorothy Mickovits, Plaza Ladies Auxiliary president; Rev. Francis Bambrick of Star of the Sea Church and Rev. Melvin Hughes, who delivered the invocation.

During the ceremony Mrs. Marge Ferrier and Mrs. Grace Scherer presented members of the fire department and rescue squad with a check from the members of the Brookwood Womens Club.

The event was marked by "open house" tours of the station house and refreshments. Before the day was over 1,500 hot dogs and 20 tanks of soft drink had been consumed.

While the Plaza fire department and rescue squad are operated strictly on a volunteer basis, the units have outstanding records of service to their community. The fire department is under the direction of chief Loren Lukey, with R. D. Bottom as captain of the Rescue Squad, and D. R. Robinson serving as president of the fire department and rescue squad.

Chief Lukey (center) and Pres. Robinson (right center) accepting "station house key" from Mayor Dusch (left center). Others on the speakers platform included (left to right) Rev. Francis Bambrick, Star of the Sea rectory; Ladies Aux. Pres. Mrs. Dorothy Mickovits; Diane Morrisette, "Miss Plaza Queen"; and City Treasurer Ivan Mapp.

Preparations for formal opening ceremonies were underway early Saturday morning at the Plaza-Windsor Woods "station house".

Cox Completes Year

By Doug Schroeder

In the Fall of 1967, Cox High School began its eighth year of existence with the theme of "Evolution through involvement."

The year began with an orientation week and dance in which newcomers at Cox were given the opportunity to become familiar with the school and its students.

The football team, the Falcons, learned a lesson in defeat but the spirit never died and the students of Cox never lost faith in Coach George McGovern and his team.

In December there was a Christmas party for underprivileged children and Cox students learned the true meaning of Christmas.

With winter came the basketball team. They cranked out a winning season under the guidance of Coach Stuart Holland. Senior stars of the team were Jim Doyle, Randy Blume, John Sullivan, Brian Janz, and George Parr.

Jerry Deviney, coach of the Junior Varsity cagers, was given the Junior Chamber of Commerce Young Educator of the Year Award in the city of Virginia Beach for his efforts in the classroom.

In the spring the sun came out. Under the sun, the baseball team could be seen practicing.

In May, an Awards day was held and outstanding students were honored before the student body and Frank W. Cox, a very special guest.

Patriots Lose Match

Great Bridge High School defeated First Colonial last Sunday in the final round of the 1968 H-Q competition and ended Virginia Beach's hopes for the championship and the first place $2,000 in scholarship grants.

First Colonial was represented by Thomas Eagar, Duncan Smith, Ronald McAlhany and Chris Wall, Mrs. Thelma V. Houck of the social studies department coached the team.

The Patriot team, as second placers, will receive a $500 grant, for First Colonial, from the Scholarship Grant Foundation of Giant Open Air Markets and Three Giants, sponsors of the H-Q competition on Channel 10.

Another Virginia Beach team, Princess Anne, also went down in defeat before Great Bridge, in the contest's semi-final rounds two weeks ago.

Mother Gets Son's Medal

A Virginia Beach Marine corporal who's gallant action against communist forces in South Vietnam, is credited with having saved numerous Marines from further injury and possible death, at the cost of his own life, was honored at Headquarters, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic (FMFLANT) at Norfolk, June 5.

Mrs. Sarah S. Woods received the Silver Star Medal, the nation's third highest military decoration, posthumously awarded to her son, Cpl. Sterling S. Woods, during ceremonies held in the office of Lt. Gen. R. G. Weede, Commanding General, FMFLANT.

Cpl. Woods was leading a squad during Operation Beaver Cage in May of last year when his platoon was caught in a devastating rifle, automatic weapon and mortar fire from an estimated two companies of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars.

As the enemy assaulted the Marine position, Cpl. Woods stood his ground, pouring fire into the charging enemy ranks, causing many enemy casualties and enabling his platoon to move its casualties to safety and establish a defensive position. Cpl. Woods remained in his position under the intense enemy fire, providing a cover fire for his fellow Marines, until he himself was mortally wounded.

Cub Scouts Have Derby

The First Annual Pinewood Derby was held recently by Cub Scouts Pack 448 at Kempsville Presbyterian Church, sponsors of Pack 448.

Composed of hand-carved, miniature racing cars as a father-son project, the evening was one of action, thrills and suspense as the cars raced down special tracks to the finish line. Trophies and ribbons were awarded to the contenders in various categories.

Win, place and show trophies went to the following Cub Scouts: 1st Place, David Kight, Den 3; 2nd Place, Greg Marshall, Den 1; and 3rd Place, Brian Lee, Den 4. Most attractive car award went to Jimmy Boogades of the Webelos Den.

A special event highlighted the evening with the presentation of a plaque to popular outgoing Cubmaster, Davis Brewer by Harry Bryant, Committee Chairman. George McCormick succeeds Brewer as Cubmaster, Pack 448.

STOP Children Enjoy Carnival

Tuesday was a day of fun for at least 100 children currently engaged in child development programs sponsored by the Virginia Beach branches of the Tidewater STOP program.

The children ranging in age from three to five were each given five free rides on any of the amusement rides which have been set up in the Princess Anne Plaza shopping center, which included a merry-go-round, flying-saucer, tilt-a-whirl, dodge-em cars, to name only a few. Each of the children also received free cotton candy, snow balls, and balloons.

The "Child's Day of Fun" was sponsored by the Princess Anne Plaza Retail Merchants Association, in order to allow these underprivileged children to enjoy a day of fun which they may not ordinarily receive. The Association's committee which handled the arrangements for the event consisted of Floyd Evans, Manager of Rice's, Howard Smith, Manager of Rose's Department Store, and Floyd Waterfield, Cashier of First & Merchants National Bank. All are located in the Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center.

The carnival will remain through this weekend.

Beach Brass Quintet on Move

Virginia Beach has seen many advances culturally, but none is more satisfying than to see a group of ambitious young people organize their own chamber music group. The Virginia Beach Brass Quintet is the first group of its kind formed in Virginia Beach.

The idea of forming the group was brought to Virginia Beach when David Tuttle was transferred to the area. His wife Nancy, who taught music at Thalia Elementary School, invited William Krupp, a 7th grade history teacher at Thalia, to join the group.

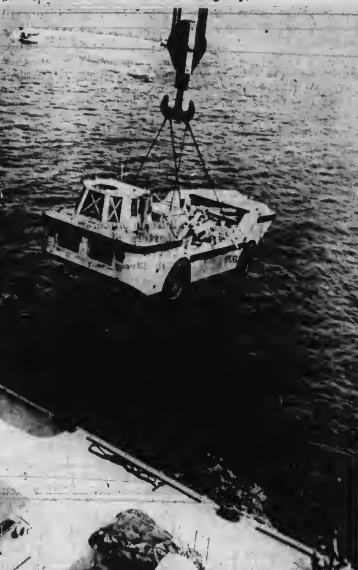

"The three of us were enthusiastic about getting two more players for the group, but had difficulty in getting people who would like to spend their time playing," said Tuttle. Now the group has no problem getting members for rehearsals. "With my wife playing French horn, William Krupp on the tuba, and myself on trumpet," reported David, "we needed only a trumpet and trombone to achieve proper instrumentation for what we had in mind."

After discussing the idea of a brass quintet with members of the Norfolk Symphony, two names were suggested. They were Joseph Hart and David Williams, both students at Old Dominion College, and the two decided to join the group.

"The Virginia Beach Brass Quintet," they were named in a church bulletin by accident, and the name stuck with the group. Tuttle added, "So much of the talent in the Tidewater area is located in Virginia Beach, yet most of this talent is shifted to Norfolk, where there are adequate facilities for the performing arts. We would like to see some of this talent shifted back to its 'home' so we became known as the Virginia Beach Brass Quintet."

The quintet's first half year will be summed up in a recital to be performed at the Norfolk Museum, June 16 at 3 p.m. At that time the group will present itself "in concert."

Tuttle studied at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich. for five summers, studied in Cologne, Germany as an

Funds Transferred, School Bonds Sold

Supt. of Schools E.E. Brickell appeared before City Council Monday to request a total of $800,000 to cover a deficit in the school budget for this year, but the money came from transfer of school funds, not new appropriations from the general fund.

In a cover letter to Council explaining the "over run," Brickell said, "The greatest single factor in the excess expenditure has been the addition of some 75 badly needed classroom teachers... and by the employment of these 'unbudgeted' persons, we have been enabled to maintain a favorable pupil-teacher ration in our schools."

Brickell added that badly needed additional remedial and corrective reading teachers had been employed, as well as necessary supplies purchased. Instructional cost, however, accounted for almost half the funds sought in the transfer.

City Council approved the transfer of funds after a complete explanation by Brickell. $300,000 was transferred from the School Operating Balance to the Current Operating Fund and $500,000 to the School Operating Fund from excess revenue currently on hand.

Councilmen and Brickell both noted that it was commendable that the money could be found in current funds. Brickell told Council he would have been a little more hesitant "about appearing had not the funds been readily available for transfer."

Schools also figured in the Council meeting in another way. Council did not adjourn, as such, but simply recessed until yesterday at noon when the meeting was reconvened at the School Administration building to accept bids on approximately $10 million in bonds to finance school construction. The bond issue was approved in January of this year. Part of the school bonds will be bid at a later date.

The bonds were sold to the lowest bidder, Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. The PA Historians Elect Officers

New officers were elected Sunday, May 26, at the annual meeting of the Princess Anne County Historical Society.

Elected were Edmund S. Rutledge, president; William B. Copeland, first vice president; W. Judson King, second vice president; Craig L. Slingluff, secretary; Miss Katrine deWitt, corresponding secretary; Carroll G. Clough, treasurer; Hugh S. Meredith, counsel; Glenn B. McClanahan, assistant counsel; and Mrs. William Emmet Kyle, historian.

New members of the board of directors are W. Russell Hatchett, Adm. H. Paige Smith, Joel F. Carlson and William E. Wood.

Police Auction Friday
Attention, bargain hunters! The place to be at high noon tomorrow, June 14, is just outside the police station at Princess Anne.

That's when Virginia Beach Safety Bureau Chief Reeves Johnson turns auctioneer for the unclaimed items being held at the Police Dept. He does this twice a year as the available space for such items gets full to the brim.

There are 69 bicycles to be auctioned off. Some are in perfect condition. Others are not, just were found by the police, abandoned. They probably had been stolen, but the original owners have not claimed them. They may still be claimed by their rightful owners until the hour of the sale at the police station.

In addition to the bicycles, there are a number of surfboards, radios, tape recorders, hubcaps, tools, and an assortment of jewelry, all unclaimed since the last public auction six months ago.

Johnson is known to be a fast-talking auctioneer, and often brings in more money to the city's coffers than the items may be worth by allowing and encouraging the people to bid competitively as high as they wish.

"Sometimes they just seem to get into the spirit of the thing," said Johnson. "And they bid higher and higher just to keep someone else from getting the article."

Johnson admits he enjoys his auctioneering job, which he enters into with gusto. He also said there are a number of items for Friday's auction that are in excellent shape and will prove a real bargain to the buyer.

"A good crowd is usually on hand, and Johnson said he expects another large group Friday."

City Amateurs' Summer Playground Open

Golfing Tourny Packed Full

It's an overflow year for the annual Virginia Beach City Amateur golf tournament, to be played July 26-28 at the Kempsville Meadows.

The 160 slots in the tourney field were filled only one week after the entry forms were released through the mail.

According to tournament chairman Bob Ferris, entry requirements for the 1969 and subsequent tournaments may be tightened because of this year's unprecedented early response.

Archery Clinic Scheduled at First Colonial

All archers from beginners to more skilled people are invited to attend the archery clinic given by Mrs. Naomi Fox, a Virginia state open champion. The clinic is open to all age groups from school age children through adults.

Mrs. Fox is an active member of the Princess Anne-Bowmen and believes that archery is one of the best family sports. Mrs. Fox tells us that her entire family is actively involved in archery and she promotes the sport for many other families throughout the area.

The clinic is being held on the athletic field at First Colonial High School on two Saturdays, June 15 and 22, from 9 a.m. through 12 noon. Equipment will be furnished if you own none. The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation, sponsors of the clinic, offer this free to all who are interested. Why not bring out the entire family?

Cub Pack Is in Action Again

Cub Scout Pack 378 is in action again, recently reformed under the leadership of Pack leader Alexander Mitchell. The pack met Friday, May 31, and received its charter from Ray Allen, representative of the Cub Scout PAVAB District.

Sponsored by the Virginia Beach Methodist Church, the group is planning a schedule of summer trips to Williamsburg, the Norfolk Airport, Bayville Farms Dairy and NAS Oceana among other places.

Any boys interested in joining the pack should call Mitchell at 428-0184.

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation has released its schedule for the city's summer playgrounds which will be open June 21-Aug. 14.

Elementary school playgrounds, open 9 a.m.-12 noon and 1 p.m.-4 p.m., Monday through Friday, are primarily for children in grades 1-7. There will be no program for pre-school children.

High school playgrounds will open Tuesday and Thursday, 10 a.m.-1 p.m., Monday through Friday, 2 p.m.-5 p.m. and Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 6 p.m.-9 p.m. These recreation areas are for young people in grades eight-12.

Elementary school playgrounds are located at Alantone, Aragona, Arrowhead, Bayside, Cooke, Creeds, Kellam High, Kempsville Elem., Kempsville Meadows, Sealack, King's Grant, Kingston, Lankhorn Park, Luxford, Lymburn, Malibu, New-Light, Old Donation, Plaza, Shelton Park, Thalia, Thoroughtood, Trantwood, B. Williams, Va. Beach Junior High, Woodstock, Windsor Woods and Seaboard.

Play areas for high school students will be at Bayside, Princess Anne, First Colonial, Kempsville, Union Kempsville, Cox and Kellam high schools.

The schedule for the department's recreation classes, July 8-Aug. 14, will be announced soon.

Football Is Clinic Topic

The All-Tidewater Sports Clinic is slated for June 17-21 at Princess Anne High School. Open to all Virginia Beach boys, grades eight through 12, the clinic will encompass the fundamentals of football.

Applications for the $15 course can be obtained at any of the city's high schools, or during a 6 p.m.-7:30 p.m. registration period Sunday, June 16, at Princess Anne. Registration forms may be mailed to Coach John Grady at Princess Anne High School, or turned in at registration June 16.

Guest instructors for the clinic will include Norfolk Neptune split-end Donnie Floyd, University of Richmond quarterback Buster O'Brien and Virginia Beach high school football coaches Frank Webster (First Colonial), John Grady (Princess Anne), George Versprille (Bayside), and Tracy Moon (Kempsville).

Johnson Appointed To Va. Commission

Reeves E. Johnson, Virginia Beach Safety Bureau Chief, has been named by Virginia Governor Mills E. Godwin to a newly-created state commission that will draw up uniform training standards for police officers across Virginia.

The Law Enforcement Officers Training Standards Commission was established by the 1968 session of the Virginia General Assembly after recommendation by a crime commission headed by Del. Stanley Walker of Norfolk. The new commission will be chaired by State Police Supt. Harold W. Burgess.

The group is composed of professional law enforcement officers, educators, businessmen and members of the legislature. It will make its recommendations to the next session of the Assembly.

Johnson, chief of police of the old city of Virginia Beach from 1948 until merger with Princess Anne County in 1963, is one of three commission members who is a member of the Virginia Chiefs Association. He is also past president of the Virginia State Crime Clinic, the Tidewater Crime Clinic, the Virginia Police Association and the Virginia Graduates of the FBI National Academy.

He said he is honored to have been chosen a member of the commission both for himself and for Virginia Beach. He worked through the Virginia Chiefs Association on the formulation of the bill creating the commission.

"We have all recognized a long overdue need of having some uniform minimum standard of training for all law enforcement personnel," said Johnson. "The work of the commission should render a tremendous aid in selecting and training law enforcement officers."

Johnson added that the Tidewater area is fortunate in having leaders who recognized the need for cooperation among departments and have set up in-service training and advanced training programs for participating law enforcement agencies. The latest statewide cooperative move along this line is the establishment of the Tidewater Police Academy, attended by recruits of a number of area departments.

Johnson said that other areas are not as fortunate since they do not have the personnel and facilities and that the commission should be able to work out ways of remedying this.

Governor's Day Is Saturday

Camp Pendleton, at the extreme south end of Virginia Beach Borough, lies idle through much of the year and can be a lonely spot for the superintendent and his family who live on the state military reservation.

But all that changes for at least one two-week period each year when the reserves of the Virginia National Guard from all over Virginia move in for their annual encampment. The camp again takes on a bustling activity and a strict military bearing.

The 1968 tour of duty for the reserves began last week. Training of all types, including range firing with numerous weapons and classes, will last through June 21. Included also will be a number of the usual inspections, parades and long chow lines.

But the highlight of the two-week period comes this Saturday, June 15, Governor's Day. Virginia Governor Mills E. Godwin will officially inspect his troops under the command of Maj. Gen. Paul M. Booth, Adjutant of Virginia.

The parade and review Saturday morning is open to the general public, and is a colorful spectacle. At that time a number of medals and honors will be presented by the Governor and Gen. Booth, which will follow the ceremonies for invited guests.

Local CPA's Are Members

Two CPAs of Virginia Beach have been elected members of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

They are Howard H. Anderson of Ol Forge Road and Robert Earl Upton, Jr. of Cameron Lane.

Anderson and Upton are associated with the Norfolk office of the accounting firm of Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery.

Monday evening Gen. Booth held a reception for his officers and a number of officials and prominent citizens of the city of Virginia Beach.

In addition Council allowed Reeves Johnson and L. Dean Curtis to prohibit swimming in unsafe areas. Specifically this was designed to eliminate swimming in Rudee Inlet channel and diving from the bridge. A total of $21,046 was appropriated for underground utility wiring of the new city administration building. Roger Scott told Council that although the city dredge had not completed its canal work, enough had been done to permit deep water access and that the dredge should be moved into the western branch of the Lynnhaven River immediately. Council had requested this information because of the impatience of residents of that area.

Council also appointed a committee to work on the new municipal golf course to be built on land leased from Camp Pendleton. The members are: John Kelly, Larry Marshall, Curtis Payne, Al Matthes, Maury Riganto and Claude King.

Stone Faces Grand Jury

Grand jury action is pending for 41 year old Thomas Stone, a suspect in the burglarizing of the Moran K. Morris home on Pontiac Avenue. Stone was charged earlier in connection with three robberies. Two of the robberies involved Thine Giant stores on Declaration Road and Independence Boulevard, from which $12 was taken in the latter part of March.

The other robbery occurred April 1 at the Holiday Inn on S. Military Highway, resulting in the loss of $536. A 19 year old Navy man attached to the USS Forrestal, identified as James H. Crulckshank, has also been charged in connection with the robberies.

Nine Year Old in Court

A nine year old Kempville Elementary School student is scheduled to appear in court Monday on charges of being incorrigible. Police said the youth was taken into custody in connection with the reported theft of an auto Thursday night, June 6, from the Davis Motor Co. on North Wickhuck Road, Youth Bureau Lt. Henry Capps said the juvenile reportedly was seen with the car at Virginia Beach Boulevard and Dorset Avenue, about a mile and half from the motor company. An investigation is also underway to determine if the youth is connected with unauthorized use of a tractor last month.

Spencer Bound Over

Melvin H. Spencer, a 19 year old Norfolk resident, has been bound over to a Virginia Beach Grand Jury on charges of possessing and selling drugs. Police said Spencer, of East Ocean View Avenue, was arrested for allegedly selling marijuana to Eric J. Wineland, stationed at the Oceana Naval Air Station, in the early part of February. According to authorities, Spencer's arrest was an outgrowth of the investigation into movement of marijuana through the resort city which began in January.

Rape Case on Docket

A court appearance is scheduled Monday for Edwin E. Wells, charged with the rape of a 13 year old girl. Police said they have also charged 23 year old Wells, of Leekie Street, Portsmouth, with three additional counts of rape involving the same girl. Authorities said the crimes allegedly occurred in January, February, April and May.

Under existing laws of the state of Virginia the death penalty could result from conviction of raping a juvenile who is under 14 years of age, even if the act was committed with consent.

Navy Man Identified

Navy officials have identified the body of Seaman Ralph M. Greathouse, found in waters near Shore Drive Marina last Sunday. Greathouse was reported missing from the USS San Marcos since last Tuesday. According to Navy spokesmen, the body was discovered by two fishermen. At last reports an investigation was still underway into circumstances behind the man's death.

Beach Traffic Fatality

A 28 year old man has become the fifth traffic fatality of the year in Virginia Beach. Officials said Richard L. McCullough, of Hollis Road was fatally injured last weekend when his motorcycle collided head on with an auto in a Potter's Road accident.

According to authorities, McCullough died of head and internal injuries approximately six hours after the accident. At this time last year 15 traffic fatalities had been recorded in the city of Virginia Beach.

Howell Is Speaker

State Senator Henry E. Howell, Jr., of Norfolk, addressed the Virginia Beach Democratic Club during its regular Monday luncheon meeting. Howell took the occasion to praise the Democratic party as one which "has had a broad base, and has demonstrated the initiative and constructive creativity necessary for a growing nation."

Howell also issued criticism of the Republican party by describing it as "relatively narrow based" and as being a "put-the-brakes-on" party.

Howell has indicated he will formally announce his Virginia gubernatorial candidacy this Saturday afternoon in a rally at Norfolk's Maury High School.

A Virginia Beach man escaped injury Tuesday morning when his auto collided with a Norfolk & Southern Railway locomotive. Police investigators told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN 66-year old Sherman Johnson, of South Fir Avenue, apparently failed to see, or near, the approaching locomotive as he started through the Thalia Rd. crossing. Although Johnson escaped injury, indications are his auto sustained an estimated $500 damage. Damage to the locomotive was slight.

An accident Monday night left a motorcyclist in critical condition. Police told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN John T. Price, of Jacqueline Lane, received head and internal injuries when his cycle collided with an auto on Newton Road near DeFord Lane. Price, 38, was last reported still in the intensive care unit at Norfolk General Hospital.

Open House Is Scheduled For Father's Day

Liberty House Nursing Home at 340 Lynn Shore Drive in Virginia Beach will hold a Father's Day Open House from 2-4 p.m.

Refreshments will be served and your visit on Sunday, June 16 will be so very much appreciated by the residents.

Fund Declares Usual Dividends

Financial Industrial Fund, Inc., Denver-based mutual fund with current assets of approximately $375 million, has declared its 1968 consecutive quarterly dividend from investment income. A distribution of 3.0 cents per share is payable on June 17 to shareholders of record May 31.

Announcement of the dividend was made by George M. Hankins, Virginia Beach divisional manager for Financial Programs, Inc., Fund Distributor.

Zoning

a request to build 50 townhouses in Princess Anne Plaza on Dixie Dr. and Club House Rd.

An attempt to rezone property along Princess Anne Rd. near Kempville was deferred for 60 days at the request of those seeking the changes so that the entire zoning nature of the area could be studied, although it was indicated a commercial zoning for the property in question would not be approved.

Another application ran into civic league trouble also. A request for multiple-family residence and commercial zoning near Acredale and Bellamy Manor was vigorously opposed and the matter was deferred for 60 days for the Bel-Alton Corp. to work out problems with the residents. The Planning Commission had recommended denial.

An application by Sam and Harry Sandier to build 34 apartment units on South Birdneck Rd. near Virginia Beach Blvd. was approved without discussion and an application for another 318 apartment units near the General Hospital of Virginia Beach was withdrawn by the applicant. It was noted that the Planning Commission recommended denial because of the single-family and professional office nature of the area.

Bicycle Thefts Increase Here

Bicycle thefts are continuing to increase in the city, according to local police, despite their efforts to curb the thefts. Residents of the city are again being requested to register bicycles as a means of deterring such thefts.

This weekend police will begin strict enforcement of regulations requiring the registration of bicycles. Officers will begin "spot checking" of bicycles on the city's thoroughfares, and the issuing of summons to children and/or adults riding bicycles which have not been properly registered.

The issuance of a summons will necessitate appearing in court, which will make the offender subject to a fine.

The registration of bicycles can be completed at the Youth Bureau office in police headquarters at Princess Anne Courthouse, 2nd Precinct at 18th Street and Arctic Avenue, of 3rd Precinct on Independence Boulevard. Registration, which is good for the life of the bicycle, requires the payment of a $1 fee, the make, color, size, and serial number of the bicycle, as well as whether it is a boy's or girl's bicycle.

Registration of bicycles is one of the main means in locating rightful owners of bicycles which are lost or stolen.

Members of the police Youth Bureau are also urging bicycle owners obtain locks for their bicycles, and never leave an unattended bicycle unlocked. Latest tabulations show that bicycle thefts this month have already doubled over last month's. With summer just setting in such thefts are likely to continue increase unless residents of the city give their cooperation to police in bicycle registrations.

Escaped with $35,000

Jewel Thieves Still at Large

Virginia Beach police continue their search for four men wanted for last Saturday's armed robbery of the jewelry department at Miller & Rhodes Department Store in Pembroke Mall. Several customers, store employees and an off-duty police officer were held at gunpoint as three of the men made off with $35,000 in jewelry.

Investigators quoted Miss Nancy Blittner, at Constitution Court, a 20 year old clerk of the store, as saying that three of the men rushed into the store ordering everyone to lie on the floor while one of them broke into the jewelry case with a hammer.

Police Sgt. K.J. LaGrotta, off duty and working store security in civilian clothing, came to investigate the noise and was forced to lie on the floor as one of the men held a gun to his head.

The men ran from the store with approximately 75 pieces of jewelry consisting primarily of diamonds and other precious stones.

Sgt. LaGrotta, who was armed with a 38 caliber revolver pursued the men, firing several shots at the auto in which the men were fleeing. Five of six shots fired by LaGrotta hit the get-away car, which was later found abandoned a short distance from the mall.

At this point, the trio apparently joined a fourth accom-plise in a second car to complete their escape.

Sunday afternoon an auto-fitting the description of the second car used in the get-away was seen on Virginia Beach Boulevard, but was lost in traffic before it could be stopped.

Police Detective Sgt. C.W. Simmons said investigators are still checking into several leads in the investigation, but at last report nothing new had developed.

Beach Awaits Music Men

The Beach Borough may begin to look and sound like the set of "Music Man" next week, when some 2,240 marching band members and their entourage of parents--making a grand total of about 3,000 people--will arrive for the seventh annual Virginia Beach Music Festival.

The Festival, June 17-20, will begin with registration Monday morning at the Convention Center, the site of most of the Festival activities.

Aside from the expected bands from Virginia high schools, there will be bands representing Alabama, Illinois, Georgia, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Delaware, North Carolina and Ohio.

Group project for the participating bands will be "A Father's Day Musical Extravaganza," to be presented Sunday, June 16, 7:30 p.m., at the Dome.

Band competition will take place at the Dome, First Colonial High School and Virginia Beach Junior High. Judging will be based on the bands' sight reading, concert and marching performances.

The first place winner, of honor band, will receive $10 per band member to go toward the band's expenses, in addition to a trophy, a parade banner and medals for each band member.

All bands will perform in the Grand Festival Parade, Monday, June 17. The parade, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., will follow Atlantic Avenue from 41st Street to the Civic Center at 19th Street.

Judges for the Festival will be Col. Harold Bachman, director emeritus, University of Florida; Leonard Falcone, director of bands, retired, Michigan State University; James T. Hurt, music educational director, Roanoke; Otto J. Kraushaar, instructor, University of Miami; William F. Swor, director of bands, Louisiana State University; Roy Y. Wood, supervisor of music, Winter Haven, Fla.; Al G. Wright, director, Purdue University Bands; and Paul V. Yoder, composer and arranger.

Fish Tale Has No Strings

You see, there was this Ft. Eustis seagull who thought he was a fish.

The fishy tale came to light when the post engineers received a call for help from the Ft. Eustis fire department. It seems there was a fouled up seagull, possibly a fugitive from a Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel sign, who needed help at the Third Port area of the installation.

Arriving at the scene, electricians found the hapless bird hopelessly entangled in electrical lines. The gull, it seems, had taken a mouthful of bait without removing the fishing hook and line that were attached, then had flown away. Somehow the fish line became entangled in the power lines. And there he was.

His rescuers went up on a hydraulic bucket, cut the line and removed the hook.

The slightly ruffled gull smoothed his feathers then flew off without so much as a thank you, intent on finding his lunch with no hooks attached.

The VA trained more than 40,000 medical specialists at its 166 hospitals last year.

Plylers Will Stay at Beach

Tomorrow, June 14, is Flag Day--the time for flag-waving and thoughts patriotic.

It would seem an appropriate time to spotlight one patriotic Virginia Beacher, not Joe McCarthy-patriotic, but patriotic in that he is informed, does his job well, and is concerned. E-6 Edward Plyler of South Lynnhaven Road, a fire control technician and missile guidance instructor at Dam Neck's Guided Missile School has lived in Tidewater for most of his seven years of active service in the Navy.

Plyler and his wife Nancy both are in their twenties, and both are originally from Pennsylvania's foothills of the Alleghenies. The flatness of Tidewater was alien at first, "but we've become acclimated to this area. It's our home now. When we go 'home' well, it just isn't anymore," said Plyler.

Like most Navy wives, Mrs. Plyler has had problems involved with her husband's being absent, at sea, even though the Plylers consider themselves lucky that most of his duty has been ashore.

There was the time when their older daughter Luanne (now four) was rushed to the hospital with a temperature of 106. Her fever dropped to 105 and stayed there for three days. Plyler, on a Mediterranean cruise, wasn't informed until the danger had passed. "The Red Cross," said Mrs. Plyler, "told there was nothing he could do and they refused to put my telegram through."

Plyler, looking at her, answered, "I couldn't at least be with my wife. That would've been some help, I think." Plyler's ship was on its way back to the United States when Luanne became ill.

Life on the whole has been pleasant for the Plylers in Tidewater, and they plan to remain here when Plyler finishes his last tour of duty with the Navy, in about 130 days.

"We won't go back to Pennsylvania," he said. The family's native state is still largely agrarian, he added, with little or no opportunities for a guided missiles technician.

"But this area will eventually be one of the largest metropolitan areas in the east one day," Plyler went on. "When the Peninsula and Eastern Shore and all Hampton Roads is connected, all that divides it now are boundary lines."

The job waiting for Plyler as a civilian is basically what he is doing now--working with the Tartar Missile System at Dam Neck. The difference will be that he will be a civil service employee, a civilian.

Asbell Finishes Auto Training

S.W. Asbell, of Justis Street, Virginia Beach, has been awarded an Auto Tech Certificate signifying his completion of the homesteady automotive service training program offered by the Autolite-Ford Parts Division of Ford Motor Company.

"As a civilian," he said, "I can plan for two years, three years in advance. And I'll know that I'll still be in one place long enough to see the plans through. If you're in the military, a year or so is the longest you can plan ahead."

"In civilian life," he continued, "I can go further, doing the same thing, than I can ever do in the Navy. It's a matter of economics."

Convention Is On Next Week At Americano

Dr. Woodrow W. Wilkerson, State superintendent of public instruction, will address the opening session of the annual conference of school transportation supervisors and mechanics Monday, June 17 at the Americano Motel, E.E. Brickley, Superintendent of schools, will greet the conventioners. Approximately 125 persons are expected to attend the two-day meeting.

During the second day of the conference, David H. Soule, chief of the School Bus Safety Division of the National Highway Safety Bureau, will discuss "Effects of Federal Requirements upon Equipment and Standards."

Monday afternoon and Tuesday will be devoted to group meetings led by pupil transportation personnel from the Department of Education and from localities in the State.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

During last Friday's installation of new officers for the Princess Anne Plaza Volunteer Fire & Rescue Depts., three men of the Rescue Squad received special awards.

John W. Dickens, a three year veteran of the unit, was named "Squadman of the Year."

Dickens was cited for his outstanding service to the Rescue Squad. Special awards were also presented to E. A. Langhorne and O. O. Wade, who have each given 15 years of faithful service to the Squad.

A study is now underway on the feasibility of another training program for men of the Virginia Beach police department. Indications are that the program will offer individual training in the fields of public speaking, human relations and personal motivation.

Men of the Virginia Beach Shore Patrol Detachment started addressing Chief Petty Officer Donald J. Greig as "Captain". However the title has nothing to do with his Naval rank.

We understand Greig picked up the title when he "earned his wings" by completing training for his private pilot's license.

The Princess Anne F.O.P. Lodge # 8 softball team will not be in competition for a short period of time. The team's next regularly scheduled game is not until next Thursday night, when they go on the diamond against men of the Norfolk 1st Precinct at Crossroads Elementary School.

This past week turned out to be a good one for fishing for L. F. S. Krahenbill, of the 2nd Police Precinct, and his friend, David Frazier. Krahenbill says they caught four "drum" in the vicinity of Fishermans' Island in Chesapeake Bay, and that they weighed in between 36 and 40 pounds each.

However, 3rd Police Precinct sources tell us "there is some doubt connected with the veracity of the weight of the catch, and that the matter is still under investigation."

Grin and Bear it, Fentress Says of Court Docket

"I'm afraid there's nothing we can do but grin and bear it," said Virginia Beach Circuit Court Clerk John V. Fentress. He was referring to the high case load of the city's three Circuit Court judges, which he added is getting worse all the time.

Fentress said that a new judgeship cannot be created until the 1970 session of the Virginia General Assembly, and he added that the case load of the present judges will be fantastic by that time, with a large number pending.

More than 3,000 cases were settled one way or the other in 1967 but left more than 2,300 more pending. And additional cases of all kinds have been filed at a record pace since the first of the year, according to Fentress.

The judges feel with other overtime hours and speeding justice as much as possible without denial of a fair trial they can handle about 1,000 cases a year, far above the state average for high court judges.

There is no assurance that another judge will be named in 1970, since the need is based on population and other circumstances. But Fentress hopes one will be named. In the meantime, he said he expects more and more overtime sessions simply to keep on top of the docket.

City Council took steps Monday to ease the load of Municipal Court and Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, allowing substitute judges to serve in either court.

Flag Day 1968

On June 14, 1917, in the middle of "history's greatest war", President Woodrow Wilson said, "We meet to celebrate Flag Day because this flag which we honor and under which we serve is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation. It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation."

"The choice is ours. It floats in majestic silence above the hosts that execute those choices whether in peace or war. And yet, though silent, it speaks to us--speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us and of the records they wrote upon it."

"We celebrate the day of its birth, and from its birth until now it has witnessed a great history, has floated on high the symbol of great events, of a great plan of life worked out by a great people."

More than a half century later President Johnson was forced to ask for that same unity, for strong gun laws, and for an end to unrest following another historic event, but one that does disservice to our country and its flag, the assassination of a United States Senator.

We are still a great people with a great history and heritage, but somewhere some of this pride in country, this patriotism, this respect for our flag, has been lost.

Flag Day 1968 then should be a day of rededication to this symbol of our unity and power, our thought and purpose as a nation. As the Stars and Stripes waves on Flag Day or any other day it should give us the strength to push the memories of recent events away and give our flag the character it deserves.

That is what we should pass from generation to generation.

Summer Jobs for Youths

In Virginia Beach there are hundreds of high school and college students seeking some form of gainful employment, however humble, for the summer. To some, it could mean a way to return to school in the fall, but to others it is merely another life experience.

Governor Godwin has urged the hiring of these students and we join him in this worthwhile endeavor. It is one of the finest investments in the future that a merchant or businessman can make.

Opportunity can help solve many problems and this summer, in the wake of so much unrest, our youth need our help to stay on the right path.

Obviously it is not possible to hire all those available, but some can be taught new skills by volunteers. Others can help out in civic, social and charitable agencies by devoting worthwhile time to the development of recreational activity and entertainment.

This is the positive approach, rather than some day in the future trying to rehabilitate a youngster who went wrong because of idle time. Not all youths are really out looking for something to do, and they must be gently nudged in the right direction by parents, teachers and associates.

The youth of our country are the hope of the future. We must not fail them.

Bicycle Safety

It's that time of year again when bicycles seem to appear in numbers as great as automobiles. But unfortunately the riders have not taken a driver's test.

They are, however, presumed competent to ride a bike. They are also presumed to know the laws of the city, the laws of common sense and the rules of safety. They do not. And it is up to the automobile driver to look out for them. Pity the driver who hits one of those errant riders through absolutely no fault of his own.

The driver will usually be blamed. He may have to live with mental anguish the rest of his life. He may have to pay a pretty penny, or at the very least he may have his insurance cancelled or the premium raised greatly.

Yet it is the bike rider too often that causes accidents. Riding several abreast, around and around in circles in the streets, on the wrong side of the road, disregarding traffic signs and lights, and generally disobeying all safety regulations are common infractions of the bike rider we see every day.

They must be taught better. We would prefer to believe that parents care about their children. If so, then they should not allow them to ride a bike unless they can do it correctly and safely.

The driver has enough problems already without bike riders trying hard to get hit.

To the Editor,

To dredge or not to dredge; only the former part of that question interests the residents of Bay Island. Last Monday, June 10, the Broad Bay Civic League met at 8:00 PM at the Lynnhaven Colony United Church to hear City Engineer Holloman discuss the dredging of the south side of Bay Island.

land. The main problem in dredging is finding suitable areas for disposal of dredge material; at least three acres are needed. To add to this problem are several more: the Broad Bay Civic League has sent two petitions in the past two years to City Hall; many residents have had to sell their boats simply because they could not navigate the waterways behind their houses.

Mr. Holloman explained that while he had little power if any, the person to see would be the new City Manager. "Dredging is no simple matter," Holloman said, "special plans must be drawn according to where the spoil area will be located, the lines must be connected, all of this takes several days to do a few hours' work."

The question the residents want answered is why can't they dredge now? At the moment the dredge is at the beginning of Long Creek near Seashore State Park. Plans are that it will continue to dredge the length of Long Creek. Instead, the hope is that the south side of Bay Island may be favored with a visit soon because the area which has been used previously for spoil (the Levine property) by a government contractor may be sold or occupied in a year or two. This particular section is becoming quickly populated leaving limited open land for dredging purposes.

Can We Wave the Flag too Much?

The following is the reply of S.L. DeLove on the Know Your History Hour, December 30th, 1966, to a listener who wrote as follows: "Your programs are wonderful--especially the no commercials--but you are waving the flag too much."

It has been reprinted annually in many national magazines, newspapers and radio stations, and is a part of the Congressional Record. Dr. DeLove is the author of "The Quiet Betrayal" and president of Independence Hall of Chicago.

Tomorrow is FLAG DAY, 1968.

Is it possible to wave the flag too much? Provided, of course, that you wave it with integrity? Is it possible to study Lincoln Shakespeare too much? Is it possible to read the Bible too much?

The great, the good, the true, are inexhaustible for inspiration, example and strength. I believe that we are not waving our flag enough, not nearly enough.

It seems to me that we are developing a tendency to be timid or even apologetic about waving the stars and stripes. Walk up and down the streets on July 4th and count the flags. It is our nation's birthday, a sacred day in world history, the most important day of America. Why isn't the flag flying on every rooftop and from every home and building? This complacent attitude is strong evidence of cancerous patriotic decay. The flag is a symbol of our national unity. It is the spirit of our undying devotion to our country. It stands for the best that is in us...for loyalty, character, and faith in democracy.

Isn't our flag a synonym of the United States of America. Does it not represent man's greatest, noblest, most sublime dream? Is it not the zenith of achievement, the goal to which generations have aspired?

Ladies and gentlemen, I believe it is time for us...for the mad, rushing Twentieth Century American...to stop for a moment and think. Let us arrest our near reverential admiration of material success and return to the spiritual and ethical values. Let us imbue and rekindle in ourselves and our children the so-called old-fashioned way of patriotism, a burning devotion to the principles and ideals upon which our country was founded.

Should not every home own and proudly display the colors on holidays and other such occasions? Isn't the flag Patrick Henry, Jefferson, Franklin, Washington, Nathan Hale, Gettysburg, and Valley Forge, Paul Revere, Jackson and other great men and women who have given us our heritage. When you look at the flag can you see the Alamo, Corrigado, Pearl Harbor, The Monitor, The Merrimack, Wake Island, and Korea? Lest we forget, isn't the flag Flinders Field, Bataan, Iwo Jima, Normandy, Babe Ruth and Davy Crockett? The great events of our past and present are wrapped up in our flag.

It is a symbol of this blessed nation, a giant in industry, education and commerce. Millions of fertile square miles, wheatlands, coal mines, steel plants. Our great republic, the chosen infant destined to be man's last and remaining hope for suffering humanity, a shining beacon of light, noble and glorious, the haven for the oppressed and persecuted and truly God's gift to mankind.

That is what the flag means to me. Can we wave it too much? I don't think so.

SPOTS

By H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr.

"No, I don't have any plans at all for Sunday. Why?" he asked.

"Because it's Father's Day," she said, with a big smile on her face. "And I want you to be able to rest and relax all day."

"Thanks," he said sourly.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked, genuinely hurt. "Oh, nothing at all, except that I remember last Father's Day too well," he said.

"What do you mean?"

"Maybe your memory isn't as good as mine," he said. "But I remember both the girls coming in about six a.m. and jumping up and down on my stomach, screaming 'Happy Father's Day!' What a way to come out of a deep sleep."

"Yes, come to think about it, I do remember something about that," she said. "And you took it awfully well too."

"I couldn't yell. They knocked the wind out of me."

"They gave you nice presents though," she said. "Remember that nice sport shirt, the one with those tiny stripes."

"Sure I remember it," he said. "Our little one spilled kool-aid on it that same morning, before I had a chance to wear it."

"Well, almost all of the spots came out when I washed it," she said.

"Sure they did, and our older daughter tried to cook my breakfast that morning. Remember?" he asked.

She laughed. "Yes, I remember. What do you have against burned toast, pop tarts and soggy corn flakes anyway?"

"Nothing, I just don't like all that while I'm still in bed, especially when the bowl of corn flakes and milk gets turned over on my bare tummy."

"She laughed again. 'I'll keep them away this time.'"

"Then, so I wouldn't have to worry about anything, I had to take all of us out to dinner that afternoon," he said. "That was an expensive meal as I remember."

"At least you didn't have to do the dishes at home," she said. "Isn't that some consolation?"

"I guess so. But do me a favor this year. Please don't you and the kids buy me any expensive presents like last year," he said. "It took me two months to pay for them."

"All right," she promised. "But I'll need a little money to buy the postage stamps for your cards."

"Very funny," he tossed out. "I remember last year I was almost too exhausted to enjoy my Father's Day. You gripped about the grass being so tall and I had to cut it. Then because we were having guests I had to vacuum the house."

"The grass is a little tall now, and we're having company Sunday night."

"Hire a handyman," he said. "Sunday is my only day to rest and it's Father's Day."

"Give me the money."

"Forget it."

Just then both little ones came in. The older one said, "Daddy, you stay in bed Sunday and I'll fix you breakfast."

"Thanks," he groaned.

"And I'll wake you up early and give you a hug and kiss for Father's Day," said the little one.

"Thanks, again," he said. "And what time do we all go on to dinner?"

"The children and I should be ready about four," she said.

Mrs. LeCour

Newlyweds will live at Beach

The marriage of Miss Catherine Carol Fullerton and Robert Evan LeCour has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alexander Fullerton of Bay Colony.

The double-ring ceremony took place Saturday, June 8, at 11 a.m. at the Methodist Church of Virginia Beach and was performed by Dr. R. Orman Bryant.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Francis LeCour of Basking Ridge, N.J.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of linen and Venetian lace with a chapel train. The elbow-length veil fell from a starched-lace tiara.

Miss Barbara Ann Messick of Norfolk was the maid of honor. Miss Sandra Sykes and Mrs. William Murray of Norfolk were bridesmaids.

Kenneth LeCour, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsman were David McLemore of Ft. Monmouth, N.J., Kerry Bierma, and William Fullerton, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the social hall of the church immediately following the wedding. After a southern wedding trip, the couple will reside at Virginia Beach.

Mrs. Neely

Former Resident Weds

Miss Patricia Lockwood Mountney, formerly of Virginia Beach, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Varick Mountney, was married the afternoon of June 8 to Ens, John Curry Neely, Jr., USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Curry Neely of Montreal, Canada.

The Rev. Reginald Stewart performed the ceremony at the Episcopal Church of Saint Mary the Virgin at Chappaqua, N.Y. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride wore a gown of ivory silk organza with an empire bodice of English net and Alencon lace, with a short veil of matching net and lace. She carried white roses, gardenias and ivy.

Mrs. Ernest Patrick Kohlmeier was her sister's matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. John Chase Saltee and the Misses Ann Simkins Cabisness, Anne Stuart Hineshaw, Mary Christine Kulezyki and Mary Blaine Minor. Anne O'Neal, niece of the groom, was flower girl. All wore gowns of yellow linen floral print and carried baskets of daisies and ivy.

James Byron Newton was best man. Ushers were John Michael Brown, Whitney C. Colby, David J. Lambrecht, Robert Yount Neely and Michael Gordon O'Neal, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Neely was graduated June 2 from Sweet Briar College. She was presented in 1965 at the Junior League of Mount Kisco Assembly and is a provisional member of the Junior League of Mount Kisco.

Ens, Neely is an alumnus of the Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and was graduated June 3 from the University of North Carolina.

The bride's maternal grandparents are Capt. Lawrence Lockwood, USNR, Ret., and the late Mrs. Lockwood of Virginia Beach. She is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jefferson Varick of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Ens, Neely is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Creighton Neely and the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Valentine Hine, all of Canton, Ohio.

Brides Need Orange Blossoms, Budget

Whether your next step is down the church aisle or the supermarket aisle, you'll want to put your best foot forward—especially when you step into family finances. To make your marriage happier and more secure, here are some tips from experts:

While you shouldn't control the purse strings, you should control a purse string. Under the "Divided Responsibility Plan," supported today by many financial counselors, YOU handle food, household operations and clothing; shelter, transportation, personal advancement, including such things as health, vacations and entertainment, and savings fall into HIS realm.

"Charge—full speed ahead!" —has created money problems for more than one marriage. Those borrowing privileges, easy installment buying, credit cards and charge plates can mount up to one big temptation.

Financial experts are careful to point out that any new income must be paid for out of your discretionary income. This is, the money you have left over from your income after you've paid for ALL basic necessities and over which you have some freedom of choice.

Don't be a bargain-basement bride—or you'll have budget blues! If you don't need it, don't buy it, no matter how greatly reduced the price is. "Buy-of-a-lifetime" can spell death to a budget. But, it helps to build a little flexibility into a budget. With money allotted for frivolity, you may not feel the psychological need to gratify yourself with impulse buying. A little black book, full of numbers—like monthly expenses—can save you hours of trying to figure out where the money goes. Although you needn't account for every cent, you should keep a ledger of the family's regular expenditures rather than relying on your memory.

If your spending isn't within the guidelines you've set up, then keep a more detailed account for a couple of months to see where your budget is breaking down.

Will your working pay off? The decision should depend on when you want to start a family, how your husband feels about a working wife, and if your working pays off.

A wife's earnings affect the family income tax picture, and a job will cost in terms of household help to take your place, extra clothes, transportation, lunch, trips to the beauty parlor and other incidentals.

There's never enough to go around can be true whether you're in the $5,000 or $50,000-a-year bracket. Consumer credit, which makes it possible to enjoy such items as a car, television or major appliances while you pay for them, can be a boon to young marrieds, but it may turn out to be a bane if improperly used.

Dollars, dollars everywhere...and not a buck to spend? Young brides usually have a little adapting to do, as well as grooms. Keeping financial worries out of the picture may make that "period of adjustment" a bit easier.

Douglas Barnes Recalls the 20's

F. Scott Fitzgerald has become the more or less official chronicler of the twenties. But closer to home there's another participant in the Gatsby era, admittedly, "lower fifty," who is such a vital, active woman that most people would probably find it difficult to believe that she was graduated from Randolph-Macon in 1923.

But Douglas Barnes, (Mrs. Richard Warren), a substitute teacher, photo-journalist and grandmother of three, recently returned to her home in the Mayflower Apartments and taught at the college 45 years before his retirement. Both he and Mrs. Barnes are buried on the campus.

But one of the houses the Arnold family lived in during Mrs. Barnes' girlhood has been torn down, and there are other changes, involving the co-eds, just as deep.

The class reunion was scheduled to coincide with commencement exercises and Mrs. Barnes, camera in hand, approached one new R-M graduate, walking across the campus with a young man, and asked the couple if they would mind her taking their picture.

"Whereupon," she laughed, "they went into a violent kiss. I asked them if they were engaged, and they both said 'Why, no!'"

In 1919, the picture was different. Douglas Arnold Barnes had never dated until she was a freshman in college. That year, she moved into a residence hall—"right across the street from Mother and Father"—and even went so far as to bob her hair in 1920.

"I was one of the first girls at Randolph-Macon to cut my hair. It was very daring to come back in the fall, after that first year, with your hair cut. Father was terribly upset with me."

Dating restrictions were considerably different in the early twenties, too. Written permission, recalls Mrs. Barnes, was required from the parents of both the boy and girl involved. That written permission allowed the boy to visit the girl in a supervised dating parlor, period.

"We weren't supposed to ride in cars with boys," she said, "once I rode two blocks with a boy I'd gone to high school with. We were on the honor system, and I turned myself in and was campused (restricted) for six weeks." Dr. Arnold, once again, was "upset."

But college co-eds are college co-eds, and restrictions can't really alter that. "We were flappers, of course," Douglas Arnold Barnes laughed. "We rouged our knees, rolled our stockings. We looked awful. She smiled about seeing one girl running to Commencement last week with her flowing robes covering a very brief pair of shorts. "But I know for a fact," she went on, "that at least three girls in my class graduated in 1923 in their teddies—that was a little chemise, you can't imagine—it was so hot."

Being an "Odd" or an "Even," depending on the year in which you graduated being divisible by two, was important in 1923. "I was an Odd," said Mrs. Barnes. "We had our own pine tree—the Odd Tree—and we used to fight, physically, with the Evens around that tree, pulling hair, that sort of thing. "It was a beautiful big tree," she added, "and we'd climb up in it and jump on Evens. Unfortunately, it was struck by lightning a few years ago, and now the old black, charred stump has been painted red by the class of 1968—Evens, don't you see?"

But not all fun and games. Randolph-Macon was the first Southern women's college to offer the type of curriculum that had always been considered "for men only." And the honor system was strictly enforced. "There was no cheating," said Mrs. Barnes. "I remember one girl who was shipped within six months of graduation because she had copied ten sentences of Latin for an assignment. "There was such a strong sense of honor," she continued, "it was as if, after you had graduated, there were some things you should stand for. I don't think that's changed."

"I hadn't been back there in almost thirty years," she said. "And you dread a thing like that—because it never is the same. But it wasn't a sad time, full of memories, but not sad. "I was glad to get back, glad I have a job, that my husband is still with me, glad not to be living in the past."

WOMEN PAST 21 WITH BLADDER IRRITATION Suffer Many Troubles

After 21, common kidney or bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYS-TEX usually brings fast, lasting comfort by curbing irritating acids in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYS-TEX at drug stores. Mrs. Sachon Resumes as Education Assn. Head

A recently called meeting of a representative assembly of the Virginia Beach Education Association has elected Mrs. Frances Sachon president for her second term, to fill the vacancy left by George Anderson.

Anderson, elected Association president for 1968-69 in May, has left the Virginia Beach School system for a position at Ft. Union Military Academy.

Mrs. Sachon, librarian at Bayside High School, has been chosen by the Association to be a delegate to the Southern States Education Workshop, June 10-15, at Daytona Beach, Fla. During the workshop, she will serve on a project committee working to improve the effectiveness of State and local education associations.

She has also been selected to attend the National Education Association meeting at Dallas, Texas in July.

Last Weekend...

Fun for Carolinians...

Transplanted North Carolinians held their annual June German at the Cavalier last weekend, and the festivities were enough to warm even a cold Virginian heart.

Mrs. R.S. Reinhardt was the Board member in charge of the formal dance; Mrs. Clarence J. Smith, Jr., was chairman of the ball. Other committee chairmen were Mrs. Glenn K. Darst, favors; Mrs. Joe Burt, decorations; Mrs. W.C. Overman, Mrs. William Robertson, and Mrs. Scott Taylor, decorating committee; Mrs. P.H. Allen, invitations and reservations; Mrs. James R. Darden and Mrs. Clarence A. Goings, clean-up; Charles A. Gilliam, orchestra; Mrs. Powell Joyner, publicity.

Publicity chairman Marian Joyner is deep in conversation with Mason P. Thomas.

Mrs. T. Roy Grubbs and Mrs. Reuben F. Trant are caught sitting--and laughing--during the band's intermission at last Friday's June German.

and for Animal Lovers

Mrs. William B. Connett, Jr., and French cuisine were the main attractions at Sunday's buffet for the benefit of the Virginia Beach SPCA, which broke ground for its new animal shelter yesterday at 5 p.m., on General Booth Boulevard.

Mrs. Connett has recently been involved with instructing classes in French cooking through the city's department of parks and recreation. Sunday's buffet, at $5 a head (to go toward the expense of the new shelter) included not only hearing cooking hints from Mrs. Connett, but tasting her even more delightful culinary results.

J. Reid: on Music, Paper Posies, Rain

This young, attractive gal describes herself as a "home" person mainly, and Jean Reid's friendly and easygoing personality is reflected throughout her comfortable Bay Colony home.

"Jim and I moved here seven years ago," said Mrs. Reid, "in connection with his job with a company that sells highway construction equipment."

The Reids have two daughters, Leslie, 7, and Carrie "Pie," 5, who was born here. The family recently acquired a "you name it" kind of dog called "Nummie."

Jean and Jim are members of the Broad Bay Sailing Association and during their leisure hours together, they can usually be found sailing their 24' Columbia Contender named "Paragon," in Chesapeake Bay. "In fact," she said, "Jim and I met ten years ago on a sailing party in Deltaville, Va., while I was working for a trade organization."

About her role as corresponding secretary for the Friends of Music, Inc., Jean told us that the main reason she is so interested in working for the group's Arts Festival (being held at Virginia Beach in August) was her hope that eventually a cultural center and an annual Summer Arts Festival would result from this first endeavor by the Friends.

"The most thrilling performance I have ever attended," she added, "was in New York when Renata Tibaldi was appearing in the opera 'La Traviata.' Here at the Beach we sometimes have the disadvantages of big city life. We should certainly have the advantages, also, and this includes being able to count on seeing the finest talents here at the Beach, instead of having to travel many miles to another city for that reason."

Mrs. Reid and Pat work with the jib of the Paragon II on Crystal Lake.

As special promotions chairman of the Festival, it was Jean's job to create a float to be entered in the Armed Forces Day Parade. "We really had a grand idea," she went on, "and actually spent 50 hours planning and making posters and huge, brightly-colored paper flowers which completely covered a car rigged with loudspeakers proclaiming the Friends of Music Arts Festival."

"Then, during the parade," she laughed, "the rains came and the paint on the posters and the dye on the flowers ran and, well, let's just say we learned something about poster paint and paper flowers and rain not mixing."

"Speaking of learning, in regard to the Festival itself, we're going to be learning just how interested our Beach neighbors and friends are in supporting a musical arts festival and this time, we know the outcome will leave no doubt about the future of projects such as this in the years to come.

"Jim and I are already anticipating the exciting, positive and beneficial influence will have on our children, and all the children of this area now and in the years to come."

Subdue the Monsters

One valuable lesson I have learned from going on vacation with children--don't.

Children are great to travel with before they learn to walk--mine always stayed happily (most of the time anyway) in their car beds. And disposable diapers took care of the laundry problem.

One pre-schooler in the back seat might not be so bad, but just try three. Somehow they never want to stop at the same time. Usually it's some very remote area or an interstate highway when they do.

They are usually excited about the trip and fascinated by new sights--for about 45 minutes. Then the novelty wears off, and they start fighting--or whining, which is just as hard to listen to.

But I have picked up a couple good ideas along the way, so I'm prepared. Each monster at the beginning of the trip gets an oatmeal box full of "goodies" I collect during the winter. Never throw away an empty spool. They're great for stringing on the longest shoe laces you can find.

Also fun and inexpensive is stringing paper clips together. This is also a good time to instruct the kiddies in the fine art of playing with string to make different patterns.

With a minimum of expense you can purchase small coloring books and connect-the-dot books, plus small reading books or picture books depending upon the age of the children. There are also many types of small games and puzzles that will fit into the cereal boxes.

And if you want to review simple lessons (only for younger brats--the older ones are too sophisticated) make, or buy, different kinds of flash cards--alphabet, arithmetic, etc. It is good competition and a chance to show off too.

Now all I have to do is take my own advice and try to survive.

Bon Voyage.

Fathers' Day: June 16

Do not go gentle into that good night,
Old age should burn and rave at close of day;
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Though wise men at their end know dark is right,
And learn, too late, they grieved it on its way,
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Good men, the last wave by, crying how bright
Their frail deeds might have danced in a green bay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Wild men, who caught and sang the sun in flight,
And learn, too late, they grieved it on its way,
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Grave men, near death, who see with blinding sight
Blind eyes could blaze like meteors and be gay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

And you, my father, there on the sad height,
Curse, bless, me now with your fierce tears, I pray.
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Camp Easter Seal Opens First Session June 16

The first of five 2-week summer camp sessions for physically handicapped children will begin at Camp Easter Seal, June 16, with the last session closing August 23. Two 4-week sessions for speech handicapped children will be carried on simultaneously.

R. Lee Chambliss, Jr., of Blacksburg, state president of the Virginia Easter Seal Society, released the following statement regarding camping for handicapped children, "If a person is to become totally rehabilitated, recreation is an essential part of the process. Individuals with handicaps can be motivated, grow in social adjustment and gain personal adjustment to their disabilities through the group association and recreation afforded in camps concerned with rehabilitation."

Camp Easter Seal, located in Craig County, is owned and operated by the Virginia Easter Seal Society, co-sponsored by the Junior Members of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs. Activities at camp are geared to give children first-hand knowledge of nature and living, learning, and playing with other children.

Under the supervision of Robert C. Hartsock, Camp Director, a staff of well trained counselors experienced in working with crippled children coordinate a full program of activities, including swimming, pony riding, canoeing, nature study, crafts, overnight campouts, fishing, and sports especially adapted to the handicapped.

The first Boeing 737 twin-jet service of any airline at Norfolk Municipal Airport will be inaugurated June 15 by United Airlines, Sales Manager C. S. Plumb announced today.

Initial schedules in the 91-passenger jetliner, which entered U. S. service April 28 in United colors, will provide service to Baltimore, with prime time westbound connections, and return service from Detroit and Washington.

Departing Norfolk Municipal Airport at 5:50 a.m., a Boeing 737 twin-jet will reach Newport News at 6:10 a.m. and Baltimore at 7:08 a.m. At Baltimore, jet connections are available to Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis/St. Paul, Las Vegas, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Honolulu.

Returning, the flight originating in the Midwest will depart

Detroit at 8:05 p.m. and Washington, D. C. at 9:45 p.m. to reach Norfolk at 10:32 p.m.

The new 737 service is in addition to three existing Boeing 727 jet flights serving Norfolk. These include a nonstop trip to Chicago, also serving Oakland and San Francisco; a Norfolk-Washington-Chicago flight, and a 727 jet service for Baltimore, Chicago and Las Vegas. United has 19 daily departures from Norfolk.

United's 91-passenger seating arrangement in the 737 includes 24 in the first class cabin and 67 in coach. It cruises at 900-550 miles an hour, powered by two Pratt & Whitney turbofan engines each producing 14,000 pounds of thrust. Cargo capacity is 6,750 pounds. Cost of each 737 jet is about $3.6 million.

Safety Council Receives $100

The Virginia Beach Safety Council was the recipient recently of $100 donated by the Sertoma Club of Virginia Beach, according to Mrs. Dorothy Craig, second vice president of the Safety Council, the donation "was accepted with pleasure since this will pay our dues for membership in the National Safety Council for 1968-1969."

The next monthly meeting of the Safety Council will be Thursday, June 20 at 12:00 noon at Bow Creek Country Club. Mr. E. Wallace Timmons of the Tidewater Automobile Association of Virginia will be the guest speaker.

Surveys Unreturned

The Bureau of the Census reports that 55 percent of the Home Fallout Protection Survey questionnaires have been returned from Virginia householders living in the areas where the survey is being taken by mail.

This week, about 280,000 reminder letters went in the mail directed to householders who have not returned their questionnaires. Enclosed with each letter was a second questionnaire and postpaid return envelope, in case the originals had been mislaid.

The first questionnaires were mailed several weeks ago to households in one-, two-, and three-family dwellings in 23 Virginia cities of 10,000 or more population and in addition, other selected areas were included in mail questionnaire distribution in Chesterfield, Henrico, Fairfax and Arlington Counties. In the remainder of the State, the survey was taken by Census Bureau interviewers who called at homes. This work has been completed.

Residents who have mailed in their questionnaires or who have been visited by interviewers will shortly receive replies from the Census Bureau informing them of the fallout protection their homes offer. Those whose homes have basements will get reports on the amount of protection their basements provide.

All information about the house is confidential between the Census Bureau and the householder.

If yours is one of the missing questionnaires, the Census Bureau and the Virginia Office of Civil Defense urge you to fill out and mail it promptly, before next weekend if you possibly can.

New Students Can Register More Easily

Registration for new students who will enter Virginia Beach secondary schools next fall will be made easier this summer with a special registration schedule that goes into effect tomorrow, June 14, and will continue through August 16.

During those weeks, new students can register between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. each Friday. (Principals of schools with only one counselor may find it necessary to cancel one or more Friday registration days unless other personnel are available to handle the program planning conference.)

Beginning August 19 through August 30, new students can register each morning between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 12 noon. After Sept. 3, registration times will be planned by individual schools.

Friends School Has 2 Programs

This summer will offer two unique programs at Virginia Beach Friends School. Both programs will be in session from July 1 through Aug. 9. The first program, under the direction of Virginia Peabody, is for remedial Reading, which will run in two sessions (9-10 a.m., 10-11 a.m.) daily for six weeks.

The sessions will be open to any age child based upon testing results. The cost of the program will be $100 for the summer. You may call Friends School, 428-7511, for additional information.

The second program, under the direction of W. Carey Reese, Jr., the Principal of Friends, will be an instructional sports camp which will run from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., daily. The major areas covered will be golf, tennis, basketball, and softball.

Groups will be limited to small sizes so that individual work will be available. The camp will be open to boys from eight to twelve years of age at a cost of $45.

Clear days and dry roads are the motorists' greatest invitation to tragedy.

Veterans Urged to Check Insurance Beneficiaries

Maurice J. Hunger, Veterans' Claims Agent for the Commonwealth of Virginia, visits the Virginia Beach Convention Center, 19th Street and Pacific Avenue, the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, between the hours of 12:30 and 4 p.m.

He invites all veterans and their survivors to visit his office with any claims or problems regarding their benefits. Hunger recently pointed out that he frequently finds problems arising for survivors of veterans, because the veteran had neglected to change the beneficiary of his GI insurance.

Often, he went on, a single veteran will designate his mother as his beneficiary, and later during his lifetime will marry and have children—without redesignating his insurance beneficiary to his wife and child or children.

Hunger can be contacted at Suite 218, Professional Arts Building, 142 West York St., Norfolk.

VIRGINIA BEACH LAWNS & GARDENS

Exclusive in the Sun

Lawns Suffer in Hot Summer Weather

Summer is a critical time for your lawn. The treatment you give your turf during these hot, often dry, months largely determines its general health and appearance year-round. The one thing we want to discuss primarily is insect control in lawns which is of major concern during the month of June.

At this time of year, even if little or no insect damage is visible, grass chewing insects and pests may be attacking your lawn. One of the best ways of insuring against these attacks is to be following a good fertilization and maintenance program. A good healthy lawn can weather small populations of various insects and their larvae with little ill effects.

One of the most serious problems that some Tidewater lawns will experience is the Japanese Beetle or Beetle grubs.

The life cycle of this insect is interesting, and it is described briefly.

During January-February the beetle grub is in a winter cell, varying from 6-14" deep in the soil. In March-April the grub begins to come up to the surface to start feeding. During May the grub forms a cell and prepares to pupate. Right now in June the grub changes to a pupa and then to an adult which emerges from the ground. During July the beetle lays eggs in the ground—preferably in the sod or grass portion of your lawn. In August these eggs hatch, and the young feed on the grass roots. During September-October the grubs continue to feed and grow rapidly. Then in November and December the grubs are mostly full grown and go down again in the soil to pass the winter.

The Japanese Beetle is destructive in two stages of its life cycle: 1) as a grub and 2) as an adult.

As a grub it feeds on the grass roots or roots of other plants below ground surface. Damage occurs as small brown patches or yellowing of the grass area. The turf becomes loose and can be rolled up like a carpet which will expose the grubs and their activity. When you pull this sod up if more than three grubs per square foot are found, there is need for immediate treatment.

As an adult the Japanese beetle is destructive to roses, flowering shrubs, shade and fruit trees. Toward the end of June the adults appear and are active for about 45 days. On sunny hot days their metallic green backs can be observed on the upper parts of plants where they begin to make lace work of the leaves. They will also destroy the rose buds and blooms.

Don't wait for some of this obvious damage to occur. An application now to the lawn of an insect control Turf Food from a spreader will rid your lawn of more than 15 different insects and give the lawn a good feeding at the same time. The insecticides used are generally Sevin and Chlordane in combination and will control others such as army worms, sod webworms, ants, cutworms, crickets, ticks, mosquitos, and others.

Moles are often attracted to lawns that are populated by beetle grubs and other insect larvae. The best way to discourage them from tunnelling through your lawn is to eliminate the grubs which is their food supply. The application of this Insect Control Turf Food also helps discourage other culprits such as field mice. They often use the mole tunnels as access routes to various garden bulbs.

If you desire to make a liquid application, use a 72% Chlordane Spray in a hose-end sprayer. This is for lawns only.

For control of the adult on other plants a good regular dust or spray program is of course the best. If you have a serious infestation, troubleshoot with an Insect Killer with Sevin. This is a wettable powder and can be put through the hose-end sprayer.

QUESTION BOX

Q: I would like to use some liquid fertilizer. Can you advise me on the types and how to use them?
R.P.E., Kempesville, Va.

A: Liquid fertilizers are popular and are designed to be diluted in water and applied with a hose-end applicator or sprinkling can. Most of these plant food crystals are a high analysis such as 23-21-18. They are compatible with most insecticides and fungicides.

They are excellent for supplemental or transplanting solutions.

Follow the dilution table and mixing directions on the label.

Some of these materials will feed through the foliage as well as through the roots. A half strength solution should be used. Supplement liquid feedings with regular dry fertilizer applications as needed.

Q: I have a lot of seed heads appearing in my lawn. What are they?
J.B.K., Alantion

A: These possibly are the seed heads of annual bluegrass (POA ANNUA). However, almost all blue grasses form seed heads at this time of year.

Q: What do I do with the foliage of Spring flowering bulbs that are still in the flower beds? I want to plant some annuals.
G.W.K., Virginia Beach

A: It's a little early to remove the foliage from Spring flowering bulbs. Wait until the foliage turns brown or yellow. It does not present a neat appearance, but it is necessary for the food in the leaves to be translocated to the bulb for next your garden in several ways: 1) reduce soil temperature; 2) prevents soil erosion; 4) reduces the time spent on cultivating. Select a mulch that is not offensive, stays in place, and is easy to apply.

The most popular ones in this area are pine straw and pine bark. Others such as sawdust, cocoa hulls, and black plastic can be used. These materials do not add nutrients to the soil so a complete fertilizer should be applied periodically as required.

PINCH BACK ANNUALS TO INDUCE BRANCHING AND

Use a gravel strip under the drip line of the roof. Many of today's modern and contemporary homes have wide overhangs and no gutters. This provides for a problem planting area beneath the drip line. You can solve this easily with a strip of crushed stone or marble chips which eliminate muddy soil and erosion of plantings. A low ground cover near the house helps the appearance also.

Continue your insect and disease control programs on roses, annuals, and all other areas around the home.

May Farm

Mrs. Arthur Gallagher spoke on fundamentals of flower arranging to members of the May Farm Garden Club last week at the home of Mrs. C.W. McAllen. Mrs. W.G. Overton was co-hostess. The club, recently organized, plans to meet through the summer months.

Birchwood

Candlelight and colorful roses was the setting for the installation of newly elected officers of the Birchwood Garden Club by Mrs. M.J. Swartz, of the Wolfsmare Garden Club, held recently at the Shore Drive Inn.

Mrs. M.K. Kelly was installed as president; serving with her are Mrs. P.B. Marx, 1st Vice President; Mrs. E.W. Leppard, 2nd Vice President; Mrs. J.E. Bissett, Treasurer; Mrs. W.H. Salo, Recording Secretary and Mrs. D.L. Lightfoot, Corresponding Secretary.

Award winners were Mrs. Kelly for Arrangements; Mrs. Edward Tippo for Horticulture and Mrs. Salo for Novice in Arrangements.

Committee chairmen appointed by Mrs. Kelly were Program and Yearbook, Mrs. Marx; Ways and Means, Mrs. Leppard; Budget and Finance, Mrs. Bissett; Remembrance, Mrs. Lightfoot; Beautification, Mrs. H.C. Davis; Judging and Exhibiting, Mrs. N.E. Perry; Chaplain, Hostess and Historyear's flowers. Take off any dead flowers. One good way is to fold the leaves over and tie them with a rubber band. This allows the leaves to continue their function.

Q: How can I keep weeds out of my gravel driveway?
D.B.R., Virginia Beach

A: If you apply a Kill-All product during the early summer, it will keep such an area clear of all vegetation, grasses as well as broadleaf weeds for an entire season.

Military Wives' Club Notes

By Mary Wright

At Little Creek

Amphibious Force Officers' Wives held their last luncheon of the year yesterday at the Little Creek Officers' Club.

Charles Woods, assistant manager for Kraft Cheeses, was the guest speaker at the luncheon, and outlined the history and uses of cheeses for the wives. Woods also provided cheeses for nibbling during the social hour preceding the luncheon, hosted by the wives of Philbait staffers and the independent commands at Little Creek.

Officers for the Wives' Club's coming year were announced. They are: Mrs. Jean Peters, president; Mrs. Kay Witham, first vice president; Mrs. Elaine Cardillo, second vice president; Mrs. Kit Robillard, recording secretary; Mrs. Judy Lyon, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Suzanne Pletcher, treasurer.

Dam Neck

Guided Missile School wives at Dam Neck are planning a June 19 coffee at the home of Mrs. Bunny Bassett.

Mrs. Maxine Trammell will co-hostess the coffee.

On July 24, the wives will get together again for an informal beach party at the home of Capt. A. H. Galvani, commanding officer of the Guided Missile School, and Mrs. Galvani, according to Mrs. Jan Williams, wives club president.

FAAWTC wives at Dam Neck have elected their new officers too. They will be installed at a luncheon, June 19, Wednesday, at Ying's Restaurant on Military Highway.

New Training Center wives club officers are: Mrs. Hester Bacheller, president; Mrs. Marti Bohn, vice president; Mrs. Darlene Woodford, secretary; Mrs. Pamela Crews, treasurer, and Mrs. Anne Peterson, publicity chairman.

The club's advisors are Mrs. Aura Sadler, wife of the Center's Commanding Officer; Mrs. Elsie Petersen, wife of the Computer Center's C.O., and Mrs. Clara Davis, wife of the center's executive officer.

The birthday cake presented to Mrs. Thomas Emery (left) at the meeting last Thursday, June 6, of the Ft. Story Officers' Wives Club drew some smiles of admiration from the club's newly installed officers: Mrs. Robert Amick, president, Mrs. Rodger Cavanaugh, Mrs. Thomas King and Mrs. Peter Bills.

Bible School Is On at Bayside

Bayside Presbyterian Church will hold a vacation Church School for eight days, June 12-14 and June 17-21. Classes for children kindergarten age through grade six will be held from 9:30 a.m. through 12 noon. Evening classes, beginning nightly at 8 p.m., are scheduled for young people from grade seven and up.

The Bible school will close with a picnic, June 21, at 6:30 p.m., at the church. Church members and the families of children attending the school are invited to the pot-luck picnic.

Mrs. Harry Boyce and Mrs. James P. Morgan are the directors of the school.

Kellam Denies Aid For Stant and Howell

Democratic National Committee and 1st Congressional District Democratic chairman Sidney S. Kellam of Virginia Beach twice this week has issued terse statements denying support of one Congressional candidate and one gubernatorial candidate.

The gubernatorial candidate is State Sen. Henry Howell, Jr. of Norfolk, whom Kellam said he has given no indication of supporting. This came about after speculation that he was supporting Howell.

The Congressional candidate is John F. Rixey, seeking the democratic nomination for the 2nd Congressional District, which includes Norfolk and Portsmouth.

Rixey charged that his opponent Frederick T. (Bingo) Stant had made a compact with Kellam and that it appeared that Kellam was moving to influence politics in Norfolk and Portsmouth. Rixey called the alleged alliance an "alliance of cynicism."

He added that Stant was manipulating the forthcoming primary election and had "surrendered" to Kellam.

Stant immediately denied the charges, saying that he and Kellam were "warm acquaintances," but added that they were political opposites. He added that Kellam and Rixey had always been on the "same side of the fence," in the past and noted that most of the former Byrd organization Democrats in Norfolk were supporting Rixey.

He asked, "I have any influence with Mr. Kellam, why aren't they backing me?"

Stant noted that Rixey had been aligned with Kellam last year during the hotly contested races here, but that he is now aligned with Jack Etheridge, regarded as head of the anti-organization forces in Virginia Beach.

Kellam replied to Rixey's charge also concerning "a history of two years of defeat behind him (Kellam)."

The statement issued by Kellam read, "The statement by John F. Rixey, candidate for Congress from the 2nd Congressional District, that I have entered into any alliance with Frederick T. Stant, Jr. is absolutely in error."

"Mr. Stant has not sought my support. I have not seen him since he became a candidate. I have not been in any conference with him or any of his supporters, with reference to his candidacy.

I have not attended any meeting with him or any of his supporters concerning his campaign, and, as a matter of fact, the only candidate for congress from the 2nd Congressional District who has asked for my support is Mr. Rixey himself.

"As to elections which have taken place in Virginia Beach in the last two years, Mr. Rixey apparently agreed with my position in Virginia Beach last year, since he made a substantial contribution to the Administration Ticket which I was supporting."

Princess Can't Visit

Princess Anne cannot come to Princess Anne, that's the word received this week by City officials from Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr.

The 18-year old Princess Anne of England was invited by the City of Virginia Beach and the General Assembly of Virginia to come to Virginia Beach to dedicate the new administration building in the municipal complex at Princess Anne.

A spokesman for Queen Elizabeth wrote Gov. Godwin that Her Majesty appreciated the invitation and that she was moved by the "sentiments of friendship with the people of Great Britain which have given rise to it" (the invitation).

But the spokesman went on to say that Queen Elizabeth regretted that it was not possible for the Princess to accept the invitation because her education is still being continued and she is not yet undertaking any public functions.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett, who originally had the idea to extend the invitation, said yesterday that it was "regrettable" that the Princess could not come.

"I think it would have meant a great deal to both countries," said Hatchett.

He said that realizing she would be 18 this year, it was his idea to invite her at any time during 1968 at her convenience to take part in the dedication ceremonies.

Hatchett added that although he understood the reasons the invitation was turned down he was sorry the Princess could not come here.

"The people here would have remembered her coming for a hundred years to come," said Hatchett.

The county of Princess Anne, now the borough in which the seat of government of Virginia Beach lies, was named for a much earlier Princess Anne of England, and the invitation to the present-day Princess was intended to bring the two countries closer together, according to Hatchett.

Board Adopts Texts

New social studies textbooks were adopted for grades one, two and three, by the Virginia Beach School Board Tuesday to replace texts which have been in use seven years.

Mrs. Mildred Wilson, elementary supervisor on the committee to select the next texts, explained that the series emphasizes "sound human relations." She termed social studies "the most important subject in today's world," because "the technology to put together a bomb is no good unless we know what to do with it."

She said the committee decided on the three-book series because it encourages both self respect and mutual respect for others. There were three groups of texts chosen for final selection. These were evaluated by classroom teachers then tested in classrooms. The final choice was the series published by Silver-Burdett.

The School Board also voted to extend the use of the Roberts English Series to the eighth grade, with hopes of adding one year at a time until it is used in grades 3-12. Presently the linguistic approach series is used in grades 3-7 then in grades 11 and 12. Supt. Brickell said the gap between grades 8 and 11 made it difficult for both students and teachers.

The Board also voted to extend the maximum cumulative sick leave from 60 to 90 days in a 10-year period to coincide with the State sick leave plan.

J.S. Abernathy was appointed clerk of the School Board, a job filled by Supt. Brickell since the death of Miss Frances Brumfield, former clerk, last spring. Abernathy was formerly superintendent of schools in Nansemond County, a job he left to become director of business affairs in the Virginia Beach Schools.

Mrs. Josephine Charles, elementary supervisor, reported on the success of a science enrichment program conducted on alternate Saturdays this winter and spring for 280 fifth and sixth grade children who were academically talented or extremely interested in science.

She said 12 master teachers

Conflict of Interest Unrest Expected at Council Mon.

City Council meets in regular session Monday morning at City Hall amid a backdrop of unrest concerning possible conflict of interest.

After it was revealed that the chairman of the Police and Trial Board, Richard Holland was allegedly in violation of a state conflict of interest law because a firm he headed did business with the city, Holland resigned, and since that time the Board has been dissolved. Council takes final action on that Monday.

At the time of the dissolution, the head of Council's personnel committee, Vice-mayor Robert Cromwell, Jr. made it clear that the board had been under scrutiny for some time, and that the abolishment did not come about as a direct result of the conflict of interest charge or because of pressure from anyone. He noted that the committee had been studying personnel requirements in the city for about a year.

The Yarger report, clearly defining jobs and job classifications, was adopted about a month ago by Council, and Cromwell noted that the dissolution of the Police and Trial Board, in attempts to streamline the personnel department of the city, was merely another logical step.

At the same time Cromwell added that the committee would probably recommend that some sort of grievance board within the personnel department might be set up to handle any problems. Again he made it clear that there were probably other boards and commissions operating in the city which are no longer needed or which can be streamlined.

He recommended to Council in his executive session Monday that another committee be set up to study this matter, saying that he did not have the time to head another such committee.

"But this is definitely not intended to be a 'hunt-kill,'" said Cromwell. "The committee just feels that the entire makeup of the boards and commissions should be examined."

He recommended to Council in his executive session Monday that another committee be set up to study this matter, saying that he did not have the time to head another such committee.

missions should be examined as part of our modernization program."

Cromwell added that he sees this as the next step, and not as an outgrowth of recent bad publicity in the Police and Trial Board matter.

Conflict of interest problems are due to arise in the examination, particularly in light of recent stories which have appeared in a Norfolk newspaper. The stories have named persons who serve on several commissions and examining boards without compensation, but whose companies either have done business with the city as a contractor or subcontractor. The stories have not made any charges, but have hinted at problems.

Included in the list of those involved was the name of Sidney Kellam, whose insurance company holds part of the city's insurance. Kellam was a member of the Civic Center and Ad Boards of the city until his resignation Monday.

He said in his letter of resignation that several weeks ago he had asked for an opinion from the City Attorney concerning possible conflict of interest, although he served on both boards without pay. City Attorney Marshall wrote Kellam on June 7 that it was not clear in the law whether there was any problem, the law might apply.

Kellam then resigned with a statement, "which read, in part," "I have been advised that there is no conflict of interest, but to remove any doubt and in order that the council or myself might not be embarrassed in any way, I think it best that I tender my resignation as a member of the Ad Board and the Civic Center Board."

City Council has authority over the Boards and makes final decisions on any recommendations made by them.

Plaza Wants Transportation

The transportation surveys in Princess Anne Plaza and Windsor Woods requested by the Virginia Beach Development Council are nearly completed and will be presented to the council at a meeting in the near future.

As part of a study concerning the possibility of public transportation in the city, council president Dick Cockrell asked that the surveys be done. Based on the results and on other results of additional surveys in other areas, the council will compile the information and recommend to City Council what can be done about public transportation in the city, both now and in the future.

homes. They were: Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center, the Princess Theatre, Plaza Roller Rink, Pembroke Mall, Oceana Naval Air Station, Dam Neck, City Hall, the beachfront and other.

Both McClannan and Oliver said they were surprised how many said they wanted transportation to the city hall area and to the Plaza Shopping Center. They said the other areas received a large number of votes also but had not been fully tabulated.

In other questions the survey asked how often the transportation would be used, by how many in the family and how many at given times of the year.

"About 98 per cent of those that answered said they would use the transportation year-round," said Oliver. "And there were 234 in those 100 families who would use some type of buses. Most said two to four or more in the family would take advantage of the transportation."

Oliver said that he realizes the cost of such a facility is of prime importance, but that there seemed to be a strong indication that people did definitely want it.

"I think they'd use it to advantage if they had it," he said.

He added that he had been in touch with Bill Potts in Windsor Woods concerning the results there and that they were much the same as in the Plaza. The Windsor Woods survey, however, was made by telephone to residents of selected areas.

Minister Opposes Downing

The pastor of the St. Johns AME church of Virginia Beach has announced his candidacy for Representative of the 1st Congressional district which includes Virginia Beach and Newport News.

The Rev. J. Cornelius Fauntleroy, a supervisor at the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. and president of that peninsula city's NAACP chapter, says he will oppose incumbent Rep. Thomas N. Downing in the general election in November.

Fauntleroy time becomes the first official challenger to Downing, who is unopposed in the forthcoming Democratic primary, and with the exception of saying he is relying on the NAACP for support has not given any details regarding organized backing. According to Fauntleroy his campaign is that of an independent Democrat.

Downing was criticized by Fauntleroy as having negative attitudes toward labor and civil rights legislation; a disregard for the welfare of those in the Negro community, and a lack of concern for American men engaged in the Vietnam war.

Fauntleroy described himself as a "little David about to stand against a Goliath of money, power and publicity."

Governor, Dignitaries Turn Out

The weather remained fairly cool until just after the Governor's Day ceremonies of the National Guard at Camp Pendleton last Saturday, then warmed up considerably during a luncheon on the installation for a large number of invited guests.

Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. spoke briefly during the ceremony, but most of the hour-long program was devoted to the usual military procedure and parading of the 2,400 men from various units throughout the state.

Besides the troops taking part, three National Guard light planes, a helicopter and three Air National Guard jets were included.

Gov. Godwin and other dignitaries boarded jeeps to inspect the troops and later stood in the packed reviewing stands as the troops passed in review. The Governor was also the recipient of a traditional 19-gun salute, while a large crowd watched.

In the reviewing party with the Governor were Maj. Gen. Paul M. Booth, Jr., commander of the troops and Adjutant General of Virginia, Maj. Gen. Victor McLaughlin, Commanding General of Fort Lee, Va.; Brig. Gen. Marvin T. Ball, Jr.; Brig. Gen. Thomas D. Neal, Jr.; Rear Adm. Henry J. Wunch, USCG (Ret); Capt. H.A. Cassidy, USN and Capt. Stuart T. Sadler, USN.

A total of 33 units of Virginia National Guard, including the 192nd Tactical Fighter Group, of Richmond, participated in the review. Others came from Richmond, Suffolk, Onancock, Chesapeake, South Boston and Roanoke.

Col. Carter O. Lowance (center) wears the Distinguished Service Medal just presented to him by Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr., as Maj. Gen. Paul M. Booth looks on. The award was made during Governor's Day ceremonies of the National Guard at Camp Pendleton.

The 344th Heavy Equipment Maintenance Company (HEM) of Richmond under command of CPT Theodore D. Goeke received the Eisenhower Trophy for efficiency in maintenance 1967.

The 90th Army Band of Rossmore, led by Chief Warrant Officer Andrew W. Hull, received the Governor's Trophy for efficiency in training. This is the fifth time in a row for the "Star City" music makers to win this honor.

Carter O. Lowance of Richmond, yesterday was awarded the Virginia Distinguished Service Medal after being promoted to the rank of colonel in the National Guard during the program.

Col. Lowance, who recently retired from the State Guard, was presented the award by Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. Col. Lowance is executive assistant to the governor.

Col. Lowance, 56, joined the United States Army during World War II and served in the European Theatre. He received a direct battlefield commission as a 2nd lieutenant while serving in France.

During Gov. William Tucker's administration, Col. Lowance was named press assistant and later executive secretary to the governor. He has since served Governors Battle, Stanley, Almond, Harrison and Godwin. From 1958-1962 he was assistant president of the Medical College of Virginia. During Gov. Albert Harrison's term, 1962-1966, he became executive assistant to the governor; Gov. Godwin named him commissioner of administration and executive assistant to the governor in 1966.

He has been called "indispensable" by every governor he has worked under.

"In every facet of his activities," read the citation, "Carter Lowance has served with high distinction... unparalleled contribution... and has devoted himself unstintingly to the affairs of government... meriting in every sense the award of the Virginia Distinguished Service Medal."

Bicycles, Etc. Attract Bidders

Several hundred persons gathered last Friday afternoon for a public auction of bicycles outside Virginia Beach police headquarters at Princess Anne Courthouse.

A total of 69 bicycles and 69 other items such as surfboards, radios, musical instruments, recorders, clocks, wallets, hub caps, etc. went to the highest bidders.

Reeves Johnson, chief of the city's traffic safety department, who served as auctioneer for the event, told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN the bicycles brought bids ranging from 25¢ to $20, while a number of surfboards were auctioned off for from $4 to $71. Johnson also said just over $500 was realized from the auction, and that the money will go into the city's general fund. Perhaps one of the most unusual items auctioned off was a portable bar, which was empty of any refreshment. Reeves said this was the first year that no guns were included in the items placed on sale.

The items which are sold in the semi-annual auctions have been turned into police as lost and found, or stolen items, which have not been claimed by their owners. Before any item is placed on sale at the auctions they must have been held by the city for at least six months prior to the sale, and their owners could not be located through public notice.

Bidding during the auctions can, at times, become quite competitive. Johnson pointed to one specific bicycle sale last Friday which saw two young men, about 14 years of age, who continually outbid each other until one young lad placed the winning bid of $16 for a fully equipped bicycle in unusually good condition.

"Auctioneer" Reeves Johnson contemplates the next item to be placed on sale during the public bicycle sale at Princess Anne Courthouse.

Betty McAllen, 6 years-old and an avid reader, accepts the card making her a part of the city's summer reading program for children from Windsor Woods librarian Mrs. Adele Lisenby.

Libraries Are Busy in Summer

Because of the popular demand the Windsor Woods Library will begin a new series of story hours for children from three to five years old, according to Mrs. Doris Flanagan, children's librarian.

The first will be held from 10:30 to 11 a.m., Friday, June 14. Others are scheduled for June 20 and 28.

All city libraries will begin a summer reading program for children in grades one through seven from June 15 through Aug. 1. Children completing the program will receive a certificate suitable for framing.

Each child registering will receive a card to keep a record of their books, plus a list of books according to their grade level.

To receive a certificate, the child must read 15 books during the summer. For further information, contact the Windsor Woods, Bayside or 22nd Street libraries.

Library Changes Schedule

The three Virginia Beach public libraries have released their schedules for the summer months, which will differ from the schedule followed during the winter months.

Beginning Monday, July 1, the libraries will open Monday through Friday: 9:30 a.m. through 5 p.m., Monday and Friday; 9:30 a.m. through 8 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday.

Tuesday, Sept. 3, the regular Tuesday through Saturday routine will resume, with library hours of 9:30 through 8 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday and 9:30 through 5 p.m., Friday and Saturday.

The libraries are located at 302 22nd St. (Virginia Beach Borough Branch) 3612 Plaza Tr. (Windsor Woods) and 936 Independence Blvd. (Bayside-headquarters).

The library's bookmobile will also operate on different schedule for the summer months. The Saturday stop at Princess Anne will be discontinued from June 8 through Sept. 14.

The bookmobile will serve Sandbridge every Monday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., beginning June 24 and ending either Aug. 19 or 26.

Sophisticated LARC Off-loaded at Ft. Story

A supply of the Army's newest amphibian, LARC XV, (lighter, amphibious, resupply, cargo) arrived at Ft. Story Tuesday. The LARC's placed the newly activated 331st Transportation Company on an operational basis.

The LARC's were brought to Ft. Story on board the Military Sea Transport Service ship "The Marine Fiddler" from the Oakland, Calif., Army Terminal by way of the Panama Canal, a voyage which required one month.

Offloading of the LARC's required most of Tuesday. Each of the 45,000 pound self-propelled vehicles were offloaded by stevedores of the 408th Transportation Company, under the command of Capt. D. P. Walter, and deck hands of the Marine Fiddler. Men of the 331st then maneuvered the LARC's to the Ft. Story beaches, placing the equipment through a test of seaworthiness.

Activated at the end of March the 331st is the only Medium Amphibian Company in the U.S. Army, and is under the command of Capt. Arthur J. Collins, a veteran of the Vietnamese conflict. The unit is assigned to the 102nd Transportation Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. E. G. Topham.

The arrival of the 19 LARC's gave full capabilities to the 331st in carrying out its primary mission, that of providing the movement of cargo and personnel from off-shore ships to transfer-points beyond the beach line, and supporting amphibious operations.

The new LARC XV combines the favorable features of its predecessors, the LARC LX and the LARC V, both of which are presently in use in Vietnam. Use of the new 19 LARC's will give the 331st capabilities of transporting daily an average of 1,080 short tons of general cargo per day, or daily transportation of 9,500 combat-equipped troops.

Warren Clark Wins $500 Prize

Warren H. Clark, Jr., of Millissa Street, has been named the winner of a $500 educational award in the fifth Annual Educational Fund Awards program, an international competition sponsored by Great Books of the Western World.

Clark's award includes a 54-volume set of "Great Books of the Western World" to be presented to his school in recognition of his achievement.

Virginia Beach surfboard manufacturer Bob White will begin surfing reports today for WVAB radio. White will be reporting on surf conditions 12 times daily, at ten after the hour.

Men Fight Unconventional War

A Navyman serving with a most unconventional unit in an unconventional war was recently involved in a major battle with Viet Cong guerrillas in Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

Boiler Tender-Fireman Jimmy A. Arnesen, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Arnesen, now of Virginia Beach, is a member of River Assault Flotilla One, the Navy component of the unique Army-Navy Mobile Riverine Force operating in the delta.

On May 8, Arnesen was aboard Monitor gunboat 91-1, one of several heavily armed and armored Navy craft sweeping a vital water crossroads area southeast of the city of My Tho. He was manning the boat's 40 millimeter cannon when the column of river assault craft came under intense enemy fire from both banks of the narrow Ba Lai River.

"We were firing on the bank to divert attention from the boats that were landing troops," Arnesen recalled. "All of a sudden it broke out; they started shooting, and we shot back."

During the 15-minute battle which ensued, Arnesen's boat suffered two recoilless rifle hits, one on the right forward section of the boat and the other on the stern. It was the latter which did the most damage, tearing a gaping three-foot hole and letting water flood into the craft's after compartment.

While Arnesen and his fellow crewmen had seen the explosion of the first recoilless shell, the damage in the stern was not discovered until a battle damage check was made.

At this point, the sailors turned from their new and often unfamiliar role of close combat with the enemy in the tree-shrouded jungle, to techniques of damage control which are much the same for the smallest riverboat or the largest ship. The rule of survival is: Keep your craft afloat.

The crew of Monitor 91-1 knew the rule and they did their job well. They controlled the flooding in their boat, and then tashed a badly damaged assault support patrol boat alongside, towing it from the battle area to a repair ship anchored in the My Tho River nearby. Hero, in less than 24 hours, a major repair job had been performed on the monitor and three other heavily damaged boats and they were again ready for action.

This was not the first time the gunboat, reminiscent of the Civil War ironclad from which it derives its name, was badly damaged in delta action. Providing close gunfire and logistic support for army infantrymen, it has provided hundreds of miles through the narrow canals and streams which interlace the marshy delta. While other river craft carry army troops into otherwise inaccessible areas, the monitors provide heavy firepower.

"I wasn't as scared this time," concluded Arnesen, "although the damage to the boat was more serious than ever before."

'The Common Glory' Begins 21st Season

As the outdoor historical drama, "The Common Glory," opens its 21st anniversary season, it is fitting that one turn his eye on the early history of theatre in Virginia and view the theatre in Williamsburg that nurtured the growth and continued presentation of such a drama.

The wealth of the tradition of the theatre in Virginia is an often overlooked fact. Theatres in Virginia in the 18th and 19th Centuries flourished in Williamsburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk and Fredericksburg. This was the connecting link between the English and Continental theatre traditions and those of the newly developing native drama. A playlet entitled, "Ye Bear and Ye Cub," put on in Accomac County in 1665, is the first recorded English speaking performance in America. By 1716, in Williamsburg, the first theatre of the western world was built and occupied by a troupe of strolling players. The famous Company of Henry Hallam, the first fully professional company with a classical repertory, made its appearance in Williamsburg in 1732.

Historical investigation has shown that there was about the playhouse in Williamsburg something reminiscent of the dramatic contrasts of Shakespeare's theatre. Dirty faced street urchins, yeoman farmers and energetic tradesmen crowded in upon aristocratic planters and ladies, hesitant about their role in such a public place. Students from the College of William and Mary were notorious for hooting the actors and ogling the ingenues. And in the middle of such hurly-burly, Thomas Jefferson and George Washington sat regularly in the stalls, and on occasion men such as Patrick Henry were pointed out and discussed in hushed voices.

Unfortunately, the theatre, like the entire city of Williamsburg, declined when the capitol was moved to Richmond in 1780. With the loss of its position as governmental center of Virginia, the city also relinquished its prominent position as cultural and mercantile leader and became a quiet county seat and college town. Professional theatre in Williamsburg was dead. What little activity there was remained minimal until the late 1920's when Althea Hunt began the William and Mary Theatre at the College.

However, the first professional endeavor of the 20th century began in 1947 with the premiere of Paul Green's drama of the American Revolution, "The Common Glory." Fittingly enough, the play centers around the role of Williamsburg and men like Jefferson, Henry and Washington in bringing the new nation into existence.

This summer "The Common Glory" is still going strong, after 21 years of presenting a theatrical view of the glorious past of Williamsburg and Virginia. It has been said that the theatre is where man goes to see his own image. If this is so, then "The Common Glory" is truly carrying on a great tradition—born in the very heart of the place and time it recreates. "The Common Glory" will play nightly, except Sundays, June 22 thru Aug. 24 at 8:40 p.m.

Look carefully. The new Miss Virginia Beach is among these hopefuls who competed in the semifinals of the annual contest Monday night at the Mariner. The pageant will be held the first weekend in August at the Dome.

Judges Narrow Contest Field

There were 17 applications turned into the entries chairman of the Miss Virginia Beach contest, Jim Hill. He arranged for the eliminations Monday night at the Mariner, and field was trimmed to 12 by a panel of judges.

The 12 semifinalists will now begin long hours of rehearsing, learning to walk correctly and practicing their particular talent selections for the annual Miss Virginia Beach pageant, under the usual sponsorship of the Virginia Beach Jaycees.

The contestants will compete on Aug. 2 at the Virginia Beach Civic Center for the title. They will be judged on talent, beauty and personality and poise. They will appear in swimsuits and evening gowns in the contest, and will answer questions of the judges. The judges are not announced until just before the pageant.

The winner will receive a $500 scholarship grant, a new Dodge Charger for her use during her reign, a new wardrobe and various other prizes. She will also make a number of personal appearances throughout the city on a number of occasions, according to Bill Stewart, general chairman of the pageant for the Jaycees.

The applicants who competed Monday night ranged in weight from 102 to 135, for an average of 121 1/4, and in height from 5'3" to 5'10", for an average of 5'5 1/2". Their ages ranged from barely 17 to 20, for an average of 17 1/2. Their composite measurements averaged out at 35-24-36. Except for one redhead, the girls were mostly brunettes, with only a few blondes.

Each girl was interviewed at length by a panel of five judges, especially about the talent portion of her entry. The judges were Frank Mackay, Mrs. Carol Willner, Mrs. Kay Carment, James Leach and H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr., managing editor of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN.

The 12 semifinalists are: Debra Schwartz, 18, (sings); Ann Cherryman, 17, (folk guitar and singing); Carol Renkvis, 18, (dramatic reading); Marlon Miller, 18, (dramatic reading); Bonnie Burbage, 17, (hillbilly skit); Marilyn Skelton, 20, (dramatic reading); Sherry Turley, 17, (design and construction of clothes); Valerie Ryan, 17, (ballet or modern jazz); Sandra Merritt, 18, (design weekend wardrobe); Alice Daniels, who was 17 Tuesday, (skit); Linda Phillips, 17, (impersonations); and Marilyn Thompson, 17, (piano selection).

Recreation, Water Are Topics

Clean water and outdoor recreation will be the topics of two institutes at the Civic Center, June 23-25, sponsored by the National Association of Counties and the Virginia Association of Counties.

Bernard F. Hillenbrand, Director of the National Association of Counties and George R. Long, Executive Director of the Virginia Association of Counties, have announced that their organizations sponsor the institutes, along with the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, State Water Control Board, Virginia Municipal League, Department of Conservation & Economic Development, Commission of Outdoor Recreation, Commission of the Industry of Agriculture, Division of Planning, Department of Health, Soil Conservation Service, Cooperative Extension Service, V.P.I., and City Planning, School of Architecture, University of Virginia, and other State and Federal agencies.

The two working sessions will begin at 9 a.m. each day at the Civic Center. Monday will be devoted to an action program for clean water. Topics to be covered include planning and organizing Virginia's clean water program; financing anti-pollution programs at the local level in Virginia, and State and Federal technical and financial assistance, and regional programs for anti-pollution.

Participants will include Richard Webber, of the City of Virginia Beach.

Part of the afternoon of June 24 will be used to give participants in the institute a chance to observe the treatment facilities of the Hampton Roads Sanitation Commission, and the garbage disposal facilities of the City of Virginia Beach.

The institute is open to all interested citizens of Virginia, and registration may be made at the Civic Center on Sunday afternoon or Monday morning.

The institute on outdoor recreation will begin with a reception and social hour at 5:30 p.m., on Monday afternoon, June 24, with a banquet at 6:30 p.m., at which the speaker will be Dr. Sal J. Prezioso, executive vice president of the National Recreation and Parks Association.

Tuesday, the general session will begin at 9 a.m., under the chairmanship of former State Sen. Fitzgerald Bemiss, chairman of the Commission on Outdoor Recreation. The general theme will be Virginia's outdoor recreation plan in action, and the topics to be covered are State parks, local and regional parks, planning for parks, Richmond Radio

Is Broadcasting At Va. Beach

Twelve members of Richmond radio station WGOW are vacationing at the beach this week, broadcasting 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. from a location at the Norwegian Lady.

The idea of WGOW advertising salesmen, the Beach-to-Richmond broadcasts are amplified so that listeners on the beach near the Norwegian Lady's makeshift radio studio can hear the music and live commentary simultaneously with Richmond.

One ground-rule for the broadcasts is that no specific business can be mentioned over the air, but with a week gratis advertising for the city, the restrictions hardly begin to approach the benefits.

Beach Man Is State Chairman

A campaign to raise $350,000 for the establishment of an endowed chair of Hellenic Studies at P.M.C. College has been announced by Dr. Clarence R. Moll, president.

An executive committee of 14 business, professional and religious leaders is headed up by Dr. Dimitri Stakopoulos, national chairman. Other members include Virginia chairman, Constantine James of Virginia Beach.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Two members of the police youth bureau staff were in Arlington, Va., this week for a law enforcement seminar. Sgt. D.G. McCloud and Detective W. W. Baker, Jr. attended sessions of the International Juvenile Officer Training Conference.

Although the formal fund raising drive by the volunteer fire and rescue units of Virginia Beach is over, many of the envelopes are still unreturned. Give your support to these men who stand by to protect you and yours by mailing your contribution to the department which serves your neighborhood.

A proposal is expected to be placed before city fathers in next Monday's Virginia Beach City Council meeting regarding the color of fire fighting equipment in the city. The proposal is that white will be the color of all new equipment purchased in the future, as well as equipment which would require repainting. The reasoning behind the use of white is the equipment would be more visible when in use and promote safety while it is traveling roadways of the city.

The last few games for the Princess Anne F.O.P. Lodge #8 softball team were won by the weather. The team's standing remains at one win and two losses, with their next game scheduled at 7 p.m. next Monday when they face men of the Norfolk Police K-9 Corp on the Industrial Park field. Efforts are now underway to arrange games with men of the Portsmouth Police Dept.

says the unit is beginning to move into their new "station house". Completion of the move depends on final connection of water lines in the station, which is expected to take place in the near future.

Lt. Archie R. Nobles has returned to duty at the 3rd police precinct following a few days leave due to the death of his father-in-law, G. E. Webb. We join others in extending our sympathy to his family.

Standard and advanced first aid classes have just been completed at the Blackwater Volunteer Fire Dept. station house. The classes were attended by John Contos, unit chief, James Snyder, Joe Peasek, Hillary Whitcraft, Albert Fure, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bunting, and Devona Gilbert all of whom are from Blackwater, and Royal Humphrey and Bud Lighter from the Creeds Volunteer Fire Dept., Floyd Waterfield and Jamie Carroll, both from the Creeds Dept. served as course instructors.

Men of the Tidewater Police Academy held a "mock trial" yesterday in the Virginia Beach Municipal Court at Princess Anne Courthouse.

The "trial" was based on a hypothetical traffic accident case designed to give Academy students practical court room experience. Lt. Alfred E. Smith attached to the 2nd police precinct, was in charge of the "trial" arrangements. Municipal Court Judge P.B. White presided over the "trial", while Assistant City Attorney Dale Bimson acted as prosecuting attorney.

Brother Dave Revisits

Brother Dave Gardner, will be presented June 23, at 8:30 p.m. by the City of Virginia Beach under the "Domes". It has been said that Brother Dave's way-down-south-on-the-farm accent inevitably has brought him comparison to Will Rogers, but his peculiar brand of humor is all his own.

Dave Gardner was born in Jackson, Tenn., on June 11, 1926. His first inclination to show business came at age 13, when he started studying drums. By the time he was 16, he won second place in the Gene Krupa Drum Contest in New Orleans—but at that point his stage career was interrupted by a two-year hitch in the Navy, during which time he was stationed at Norfolk for approximately six months.

After his hitch in the Navy, he entered Union University at Jackson, and then transferred to Terry Art Institute in Miami. Throughout his monologues are chock-full of the kind of mockery which will appeal to almost three different kinds (and capacities) of mentality.

When, for instance, he describes the penchant of someone of his victims for "Haw-meat" and "Arrer-Cee" (apparently a reference to Royal Crown Cola, which, along with Dr. Pepper is drunk continually in the heat-thirsty south) he is funny to those who simply want to laugh. The dialect of the illiterate southerner, to those who find his caricatures devastatingly accurate, and to those who believe that the capacity for self-indulgent gluttony is one of the curses of the modern world. He has a down-home philosophy which he offers to his audience.

lences as in "Man cannot live by bread alone, he must have peanut butter," and "Life is too long to be bugged all the time."

Brother Dave has made appearances on the Jack Paar Show and also the Gary Moore Show. Admission prices are: Reserved Seat, $3.50; Reserved Section, $3.00; and General Admission, $2.50. Tickets may be purchased at the following ticket locations: Virginia Beach Civic Center, Ward's Corner Record Shop, Clayton's Men Shop on the Peninsula, Red Barn on the Peninsula, and Clothes Horse in Portsmouth.

Also, there is the addition of a new ticket location The Ticket Stall at Pembroke Mall.

Flyers Are At Seaside

"The Flying Albatrosses," who spin, tumble and somersault atop a 150-foot trapeze rigging, have been the new circus attraction, appearing free at Seaside Amusement Park at 8:30 and 10 p.m., daily, since Monday, June 17th.

Seaside Park has started another season of "Teenage Dance Nights" held every Monday and Tuesday evenings during the summer months. On these nights, Seaside Park opens its "Frolics Room" to the younger set for dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight, with live music by "The Second Look," local rock and roll group, and only soft drinks are served.

It's bluefish time in Virginia Beach, and these two proud fishermen follow their fish ashore at the Virginia Capes Marina at Rudee Inlet for official weighing and a citation if the fish weighs over 12 pounds. These did.

Record Broken on First Day

The Virginia Beach Bluefish Tournament began last weekend in grand style. Generally the elusive blues come by coming a few miles closer to shore on their northward swim.

Although their number was nothing to brag about most charter boats and private fishing craft were hauling in a few. Some boats brought in more than others, and the number of "citations", or over 12-pound blues was surprising.

The charter boat captains say the bluefish season has not reached its peak yet and should be getting better all the time. And for any angler who misses the blues on their northward swim, they'll be coming back in the early fall as they swim toward warmer waters.

On the second day of the tourney, the old state record was broken by Richard S. Stephens, Jr., assistant classified advertising manager of the RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH, fishing about 25 miles off Cape Henry aboard the Shady Lady II, out of the Virginia Capes Marina at Rudee Inlet.

His big blue weighed in at 18-pounds, 11-ounces, eclipsing the old record by one ounce. The fish was 37 3/4 inches long and 20 1/2 in girth at the head.

The world's record for a bluefish, incidentally, is 24-pounds, 8 ounces, caught off the Azores, according to Capt. Ray Richardson of the RICHIE at Rudee Inlet. Fishermen believe the blues may be larger this year than usual, and they'll be fishing off Cape Henry this summer to break that world mark.

In the boys division, the lead was taken Monday by David Pinkston of Portsmouth who boasted a 12-pound 12-ounce blue on another boat out of Rudee Inlet. The leader in the women's division is leading by default at the present time. Mrs. P.D. Gwaltney IV's 12-pound, 4-ounce catch is the only entry so far in that division. And so far there are no entries in the girl's division.

The pace has been set early in the tourney this year, but this should not deter the serious or the occasional angler from trying to set new records.

The smaller Taylor blues and flounder are expected to continue their excellent pace during the next few weeks, as well as trout and tautog.

Local Skaters Do Well At Tidewater Contest

Skaters from Plaza Roller Rink in Virginia Beach have placed in a number of top spots in Tidewater States Championships held June 15-17 in Salisbury, Md.

Competing were top skaters from Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Washington, D.C., as part of the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association Championship eliminations.

Winners of the top four spots in each of the various events will compete in the RSHOA regional championships in Concord, N. C., June 29-July 2. Winners of the top spots there will be entered in national competition in Lincoln, Neb., the first week in August. Besides the same states as in the Tidewater States elimination, the Plaza skaters will compete in Regionals with skaters from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and North Carolina.

Skaters from all over America compete in the National Championships. There is also a World competition, which last year was held in England.

Plaza Roller Rink captured only one first place award in the States meet, but won 11 second place awards, as well as six third place and five fourth places.

Don Yontz and Irma Dennis won first place in the Senior Pairs event.

Second places were taken by Gareth Mayo, Men's Singles; Ronald Compton, Intermediate 880 yd. Speed; Pat Mulcahy, Juvenile "A" 440 yd. Speed; Juvenile "A" 1/6 mi. Speed; Susan Carr, Juvenile "B" Girls 1/8 mi. Speed; Jay Zachary, Juvenile "B" 1/6 mi. Speed; Douglas Scholemer, Jr. Boys Figures; Gareth Mayo, Theresa Compton, Don Yontz and Irma Dennis, Senior 4's; Douglas Scholemer, Jr. Boys Singles; George Swado and Kathy Ball, Novice Dance; and Pamela Scholemer, Sr. Ladies Singles.

Third Place awards went to Debra Broyles, Theresa Compton, Susan Carr and Janet Compton, Juvenile Girls Speed Relay; Debra Broyles, Juvenile "B" 1/6 mi. Speed; Richard Durden, Jr. Boys Figures; Brian Mulcahy, Juvenile "B" Boys Singles; Stephen Niles and Cindy Coleman, Juvenile Pairs; and Susan Carr, Juvenile Girls Singles.

Fourth place awards went to Gareth Mayo and Pamela Scholemer, Free Dance; Jay Zachary, Chris Blount, Richard Durden, Pat Mulcahy, Juvenile Boys Speed; David Dellaterza, Juvenile "D" Boys Speed; Janet Compton, Juvenile "A" Girls 1/6 mi. Speed; and Gareth Mayo and Holly Leach, Novice Dance.

Coaches To Instruct In Tennis

Two area varsity tennis coaches will conduct instruction in tennis. John Roberson of First Colonial and Harold Wheeler of Princess Anne High School will instruct at the Princess Anne Courts. Instruction will begin June 24 and continue every Monday through Friday evening from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. for the following seven weeks.

This instruction is open free to the general public and offers a tremendous opportunity to learn new skills, tactics, and techniques at any level of mastery.

Police Hunt 'Nice' Thief

At last reports the search continued for a thief who made off with two paintings from last Sunday's art show at the Studio Gallery on Norfolk Avenue. Police quoted Gallery owner Ruth Laakso, with saying the man took two paintings, one an oil, the other a watercolor, from a display area, placing them in his car then driving off without paying for them. The value of the two missing works of art was placed at $75. The description of the thief included his having very nice manners.

Body Found

The body of a 14-year-old youth was found in Great Neck Lake four days after he disappeared while swimming with friends. Divers found the body of Rodney F. Gray, III, lodged beneath a floating island. Friends told those searching for young Gray the youth said he was going to attempt to swim through a tunnel which he had found beneath the surface of the lake and failed to re-surface. The youth's parents are Mrs. Miriam Gray of North Lake side Drive, and Dana F. Gray, Sterling Point, Portsmouth.

Youth Faces Adult Trial

A 17-year-old Virginia Beach youth facing a murder charge has been denied the right to be tried as a juvenile. Approval of the defense attorney's request would have meant the accused, if found guilty, could not have received a prison sentence or the death penalty. Police have charged the Great Neck Road youth with the fatal shooting last December of Jack P. Simon, 47, of Mediterranean Avenue, as he stood in front of a Christmas tree display at London Bridge. A technically first court appearance ending in a mistrial.

Juvenile Fined

A Florida juvenile, 17, has been fined $50 and given a suspended 30 day jail sentence on charges of disorderly conduct, after entering court on charges of possession of narcotics. Judge Mary Speight rendered the decision when the juvenile appeared before her after being charged in a police raid on a room in the Edgewater Hotel on Atlantic Avenue.

Court appearances are pending for two others charged with frequenting a disorderly house. Police identified them as a 17-year-old juvenile and Michael L. Shank, 18, both reportedly from Florida, who police say were arrested during the raid.

Marijuana Found

Municipal Court hearings are scheduled next Monday for two men charged with alleged possession of narcotics. Police said Ernie M. Firkin, 20, and Henry F. Wolf, 21, who both listed their addresses as Alexandria, Va., were arrested at a 17th Street apartment when a small quantity of marijuana was found in the dwelling.

Lt. Henry Capps, director of the Virginia Beach police youth bureau, told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN that it is possible more arrests will be made in connection with the case.

Club Members Charged

Two members of "Satan's Slaves", a Fairfax motorcycle club similar to the "Hell's Angels" of California, are scheduled to appear in Virginia Beach Municipal Court next week on charges of burglary. Police said Gordon P. Hingle, 21, of Holly Hill, Fla., and David W. Charles, 18, of Fairfax, are charged in connection with burglarizing of R-K Chevrolet on Virginia Beach Boulevard and Duncan's Cigo station on Shore Drive.

Petit larceny charges against another "Hell's Angel" member, identified as David O. McCann of Mountain View, Calif., were dropped following payment of court costs. McCann had been accused of the alleged theft of a leather hair band.

Thieves Take $500

Thieves took more than $500 during a break in early Monday morning at the Hoffman Beverage Co. on Greenwich Road. Police said the money was taken from a petty cash box in the firm's office. The thieves forced open one safe which contained only records, however, their efforts to open a second safe containing money failed. Investigators said there appeared to be a similarity between this break in and a burglary Sunday night at the Princess Theatre where more than $200 was taken.

One Man Apprehended

Court appearance is pending for a suspect in the Monday robbery of a Back Bay grocery store owner. Police identified the man as Beggie Selby Jr., 31, of Gum Bridge Road, Mrs. Lisa Whitehurst told police two men, one armed with a pistol, took $20 from her at her Nanny Creek Road store. Selby was apprehended, according to police, as he and the second man fled on Indian River Road with police patrolman Robert F. Stange, Jr. in pursuit. The getaway car went out of control and was wrecked, and Stange took Selby into custody as the second man fled. The search continues for the second man.

Settlement Reached

An undisclosed settlement was reached in a traffic fatality suit before the case entered Virginia Beach Circuit Court Tuesday. The suit grew out of the death of Mrs. Nancy M. King who was fatally injured in March 1966 in an accident on the beach below Sandbridge in Currituck County, N.C. Although the accident occurred in North Carolina, the law provided for the suit to be filed in Virginia Beach where Mrs. King had lived. However, North Carolina provisions for settlement applied in the case.

2 Suspects Arrested

The director of a high school band from Newton Square, Pa., was reportedly assaulted on Atlantic Avenue Monday night. Police quote William R. Smith with saying two assailants jumped and beat him for no apparent reason as he was marching with his band unit. The group is in Virginia Beach for the Seventh Annual Music Festival. Police arrested two suspects shortly after the attack. They were identified as Russell R. Ryan and William I. Davis.

Virginia Beach Fire Chief E. B. Bayne accepts delivery of Gyro Matic Safety Control units to be installed in emergency vehicles from Joseph A. Gilliland, Jr., manager of Gyro Safe Ltd. for Virginia and North Carolina, distributors of the revolutionary new safety device. The units are designed to assist drivers from losing control of vehicles in any emergency, such as skidding, blowouts or hitting holes.

Others on similar boards say they are "concerned", but are waiting to see just what will happen and if the law really applies in their cases. One high city official said he does not see that they or the city have any problem, and that the law is not specific. He added that it was ambiguous and hastily written, and could easily embarrass a number of highly respected individuals who only wish to serve their city without any compensation.

The text of the law reads that any paid officer engaged in regulating or governing a city shall not do business directly or indirectly with that city while they are in office.

Council will be asked Monday to undertake a complete study of the matter.

Other matters expected to come before Council will be a change in the recently adopted specifications for all future fire equipment in the city. Council met Monday unofficially with representatives of all fire departments in the city to discuss those who were dissatisfied before the original specifications were drawn. It will also be recommended that all future fire equipment in the city be painted white for the sake of more safety day and night.

The possibility of another fire and rescue department to serve the rapidly growing Kempsville area is also under discussion.

Zoning matters will again concern Council Monday, including several items deferred at the last meeting.

An application for a restaurant to serve a new motel on Atlantic Avenue will come up again, providing on-site parking problems have been resolved. The application of Herbert Kramer for a large subdivision adjoining Thoroughgood will come up also. This matter has been heard a number of times and residents and Councilmen have been working with Kramer to resolve difficulties.

Jaycees' Signs

Saturday, June 22, the Virginia Beach Jaycees will hold a promotion at participating Humble Oil Stations for the sale of "Promote Virginia Beach" license tags.

Building Increases

Construction activity in Virginia Beach during the first five months of 1968 is up over last year just about the same amount that building in Norfolk is down, according to figures released by the Builders and Contractors Exchange.

The total in Virginia Beach through May was $30.4, including all types of construction. That figure, the highest in the state, is up $10.1 over last year at the same time.

Norfolk, on the other hand, shows a total of $16.3, down $9.5 million. Portsmouth is also down $8.7, with a total of $8.2. Chesapeake is up slightly with $10 million, up $2.1 million.

Residential construction accounted for $17.9 million of the building in Virginia Beach. Building permits for Virginia Beach in June have been moving at a rapid clip, and a new record could be set this month on the way to an almost certain new yearly total for 1968, according to a city spokesman.

A sharp decline in construction starts by the federal government showed up this year but did not affect Virginia Beach as badly as other Tidewater cities.

Schools

taught the three-hour classes on earth science, which she said is not usually taught. She said the material taught and areas covered were left up to the teachers. Field trips, she said, were the heart of the program.

The program was evaluated by students, parents, supervisors, teachers and one bus driver. She said the one criticism was that classes should be scheduled at a time not to conflict with other activities. She said attendance ranged from 95 to 99 per cent until the last few weeks of school when it dropped. Total cost was $1,335.64, which was paid from $2,000 remaining in a State science enrichment grant.

J.H.J. Owens, administrative assistant, reported that 300 children are registered for Headstart in eight centers, and that more children are expected by the end of the week. He said that the program, with a budget of $101,000, has a staff of 24 teachers, 24 aides, two social workers and two nurses.

They contain only the words VIRGINIA BEACH. The cost is only $1 and proceeds will be used for the support of a Boy Scout Troop for handicapped boys which is maintained by the local Jaycees.

Kellam

"He may think that I should have made a contribution to his congressional campaign, but I have not contributed one penny to any campaign in the 2nd Congressional District, and do not intend to do so."

Kellam has also issued a statement that he has never indicated he would support Henry E. Howell, Jr., of Norfolk in the 1969 gubernatorial race.

The statement was issued because Kellam said there had been speculation in the press that he was supporting Howell, following an appearance a week ago by Howell at the Virginia Beach Democratic Club. The club is considered to be strongly aligned with the Organization faction of the Democratic party in Virginia Beach and in the state.

Howell was invited to speak to the club at a regular meeting last Wednesday. His speech concerned Democrats vs. Republicans.

Kellam and other Virginia Beach leaders were in attendance at the meeting, held four days before Howell formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor next year.

The text of Kellam's statement read, "There has been a lot of speculation in the press recently as to my position in the coming gubernatorial campaign. The fact that Sen. Henry Howell was invited by the chairman of the program committee to address the Democratic club, a club of which I am a member, has led to speculation that I am supporting him for governor."

"Senator Howell has never discussed with me his candidacy for governor. He has never solicited my support and I have never indicated to him that I was supporting him. The fact that he and I may have different political views does not make us personal enemies." Kellam would not elaborate on that statement except to say that Lt. Gov. Fred Pollard had addressed the meeting a month ago and that there was little such speculation at that time about whom he would support.

Pollard and William C. Battle of Charlottesville are also both considered candidates for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, but neither has formally announced his candidacy.

At the same time State Sen. Edward T. Catton III of Virginia Beach denied that he took part in Howell's announcement party Saturday, as had also been published in a newspaper. He indicated that if Battle runs he will support him.

The Marple Newtown High School Band from Newtown Square, Pa., directed by W. Ronald Smith, steps out in white spats for the Grand Festival Parade.

Festival Concludes Tonight

The Honor Band in the Virginia Beach Music Festival must think it does nothing but rain in our fair city.

The band, from Boyertown Area High School (Pa.), last year's winner, was to have participated in the Grand Festival parade in 1967—only it was rained out. The performance (or lack of it) was almost repeated Monday night when the parade was delayed more than a hour because of rain again. However, crowds, including many small children, kept their places along Atlantic Avenue until the parade finally began after 10 p.m., although many others became discouraged and left.

The seventh annual festival, which began Monday, will conclude with an awards ceremony beginning at 8 p.m. tonight, June 20, at the Virginia Beach Junior High School stadium. Included will be a concert by the Honor Band and a special show by the School of Music Navy Show Band. The public is invited.

The 17 competing bands (the Honor Band does not compete) are judged on concert performance, sight reading and marching.

Bike Riders Are Project

Safety is a year round project. And members of the Virginia Beach Safety Council have definite plans under way to continue promoting safety during the summer months.

Mrs. J.W. Clemens, chairman of the School Safety Committee, works directly with the officers of the Virginia Beach PTA to set up programs for elementary and high school students. One of the programs most urgently needed is bicycle safety, which was introduced to 12 of the elementary schools this spring.

Lt. Mickey Bailey, of the Virginia Beach Police Dept., showed a film to three classes per morning in order that all students would be included. These bicycle safety films are ing exhibition, Charles H. Forbes Jr. is general chairman of the Chamber of Commerce sponsored festival.

Plans were made to include instructions in safety measures in the recreation centers throughout Virginia Beach during the summer. The children coming to the centers would be riding their bikes and would be the most receptive to this special training.

Since most centers have limited facilities for showing films, one of the local theatres will be asked to show a film during their Saturday morning features. "The school safety committee is not only concerned with bicycle safety, but is also most interested in working with the PTA to set up general safety programs in all the schools," Mrs. Clemens said.

"All the principals I talked with are delighted that the Virginia Beach Safety Council is so deeply concerned."

Several local companies have been approached to donate the funds to purchase reflecting tape to be distributed to all children with bicycles coming to the recreational centers. "Step by step," said Mrs. Clemens, "we will gradually get these necessary things done."

Naval Air Station Oceana is one of the world's largest master jet bases, located in the world's largest resort city, and is 25 years old this year. Home to approximately 20 aircraft squadrons plus a sizable training detachment, Oceana, along with its naval air landing facility, Fentress Field, located 15 miles away in the city of Chesapeake, provide a permanent home-base for attack carrier landing practice.

Aboard Oceana are some of the Navy's newest jet aircraft such as the A-6A Intruder, an all-weather light attack bomber and the F-4J, Phantom II, the Navy's fastest operational fighter interceptor.

Spectacular jets such as these can be seen in the skies over Virginia Beach daily as they fly to and from Oceana. An excellent vantage point to observe these jets as they take off and land from the field is the Jet Observation Point. Located on Route 615, adjacent to the air station, it is an area set aside by Naval Air Station Oceana especially for the general public.

Also on permanent display at the Jet Observation Point are three Navy jets. It presents a fine opportunity to view side-by-side, close-up, planes similar to those you see in the skies overhead. The Jet Observation Point is equipped with benches for those who enjoy a picnic-type outing.

In celebration of its Silver Anniversary, Oceana is planning a week of festivities, July 14-20, climaxed with an open house on the last day.

July 20 will also be the date for an air show—open to the public—by the Navy's precision flying team, the Blue Angels.

More details of Oceana's Silver Anniversary celebration will be published in this paper soon.

"Dialing For Jobs" Needs Jobs to Offer

What could perhaps have been Virginia Beach's own version of the Job Fair ends this week. As we go to press, the "Dialing For Jobs," sponsored by the Mayor's Council on Youth Opportunity in cooperation with STOP (Southeastern Tidewater Opportunity Program) is less than an overwhelming success—due to lack of job opportunities for lack of job applicants.

One of the Dialing For Jobs staff, a volunteer from the Va. Employment Commission, said that the project had received approximately 110 calls from job applicants as of Wednesday noon. At a ratio of 11 to one, only ten job openings had been called in to the program workers from city merchants.

The Dialing For Jobs is a part of the Mayor's Council and STOP effort to get young people off of the streets and into paying jobs this summer. Formed in part as a clearing-house for unrest involving racial tension in the city, the 11-member council is bi-racial. Council members are Harold Whitehurst and Donald Morgan, co-chairman; Albin Mahlie; Dean Lee; Rupert C. Davis; E.A. Culverhouse; J.J. Owens, Jr.; H.L. Batts, Robert Barco; Irvin Cox and Russell Ricks.

Officers representing the city's three police precincts and youth bureau were present at a meeting of the Council Thursday, June 13. They attended the session to answer any questions about recent "racial" incidents. It was decided to request the Mayor to appoint a police representative to the Council. The Council plans to apply for Federal operating funds next year. During the interim, local merchants will be asked to make donations to the group.

Council member Dean Lee announced at last week's meeting that, as a representative of Sadler Materials, he had been given the authority to pledge $500 from that firm toward the Council's expenses. Co-chairman Morgan said that he believed the city government supported the Dialing For

The Hydro-Mite "Go-Go Boats" are a new form of entertainment in Virginia Beach this summer. The "drive-em yourself" boats are completely safe and much fun. They are operating in front of Duck-In on Shore Drive at the Lesner Bridge.

Boats Are Almost Too Popular

There's something new on the Virginia Beach waterfront in the way of entertainment. In front of Duck-In on Shore Drive at the Lesner Bridge one can skip merrily along over the waves on a little hydroplane.

The little boats, known as the "Hydro-Mite Go-Go Boats," are governed to make them safe for anyone to drive. And it really takes a lot of horsepower, not conduced by the owners, to turn one over.

The boat drivers don't a life belt, straddle the boat, hold the throttle down and off they go amidst showering spray of salt water. The area to be used is plainly marked by buoys, and the riders can make all the turns and twists they wish.

The problem is the boats have become a bit too popular.

The swimmers in the area have complained about the boats, and owner Ollie Odom is considering moving the boats into Rudee Inlet just across a sand bar from the new temporary Virginia Capes Marina. The area has been offered for this use, and Odom says he can have more water area and parking space there.

Odom is a manufacturer's representative, and is out of the city a good part of the time. His son, Richard, is managing the operation for him.

"He's a great mechanic," said Odom. "Besides that, he wants to make enough money to go to college and study oceanography."

Richard has his problems keeping all eight boats running. One rather large fellow tried hard to turn a boat over, and was successful. Richard had to get the salt water out of the motor. Two fellows involved in too much horseplay had a collision. Richard had to repair a four-foot gash in the fiberglass hull.

But he says he is enjoying his work. He has a system of flags set up on the beach to call the boats in when their time is up.

"Sometimes they pretend not to see the flag to get a longer ride," he said, "but I just jump in another boat and tell them it's time to come in."

The sport has caught on rapidly and men and women alike of all ages have been hopping aboard the "Go-Go Boats" to go for a ride. Whether it's the Chesapeake Bay or Rudee Inlet, the Hydro-Mites have a following now and promise lots of fun to all who try them out.

Pembroke East Still Awaits Settlement

Plans for the building of Pembroke East, another large mall-type shopping center adjacent to the existing Pembroke Mall Shopping Center, are still being delayed by legal cases.

When plans for the new shopping center were revealed, it was also announced that Thalhimer's, a large department store home-based in Richmond, planned to build a large store on one end of the mall. It was later announced that Woolco, the discount store arm of F.W. Woolworth and Co. would build on the other end. Both still plan to be part of the center.

Since that time cases have been filed claiming that certain property on which the present center is built, property on which Princess Anne High School is built and property where Pembroke East would be built belongs to an estate because certain streets contained in an old plat were never officially closed and reverted to the estate.

Spokesmen for the Terry Corp., developers of both centers, and spokesmen for the city have not commented on the matter, but the case is scheduled to be heard later this year, perhaps in late fall.

Original plans for the construction of Pembroke East called for groundbreaking this fall, which has been delayed. A number of smaller stores, which had planned to become tenants of the center, have been reluctant because of the suits, according to a Terry Corp. spokesman. He said that a number of substantial leases from strong out-of-town interests are still being negotiated, however, and that their announcement of intention to be in the new mall could be forthcoming shortly.

There is some speculation that the final settlement of the case could still be as much as a year away, and there is no definite date set for the start of construction.

Meanwhile on the other side of the existing mall, plans are moving ahead for the development of Pembroke West, a system of high-rise office buildings. A Terry Corp. spokesman said that there is a possibility several tenants who had planned to be in Pembroke East may locate in Pembroke West temporarily.

The first commercial venture to open there will be a branch of the First Colonial Bank, scheduled to open in a temporary building in Pembroke West on July 15 of this year. The bank opened its home office in Malibu Towers recently.

Law Students Get 1st Hand Experience

A group of 40 young men are serving as Summer Policemen in Virginia Beach.

The men are law students from various colleges who are spending their summer vacations from classes by familiarizing themselves with "in the field" police work in order to gain a practical application of what they learn in the classroom. This marks the fourth year the program has been used in Virginia Beach.

The majority, 35 of them, are working out of the 2nd police precinct, while one of the men has been assigned to the traffic bureau, another to the 1st precinct, with the remaining three having been assigned to the 3rd precinct. The reasoning behind assigning the bulk of the men to the 2nd precinct is the increased workload in police duties each summer with the large number of persons who concentrate in the Beach Borough during the summer months.

Capt. R. C. Davis, 2nd precinct C.O., told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN a number of the men are married, and their families are living here with them. Several of the men working here this year have also served in the same capacity in years past. Those men with past experience, whenever possible, are assigned to patrol car radio units, while the majority of men who have joined the program for the first year are assigned duties of walking a beat or on special assignments along the ocean front of the city. A number of the men, according to Capt. Davis, are also working as plain clothesmen on special undercover details or on surveillance details.

Each of the men receive the salaries which are normally paid a new police officer during his probation period of employment. Before assuming their duties the men receive at least 20 hours of classroom instruction on the functions of the Virginia Beach Police Department, training in the use of firearms on the police special weapons range, and attend briefing sessions which will familiarize them with the various work they would encounter on each of the beats to which they may be assigned during a normal work day.

Those who are serving as Summer Policemen this year in Virginia Beach are D.H. Blaett, III, C.M. Bradley, C.B. Cooke, W.M. Cole, A. Copeland, III, R. L. Cosby, Jr., L. P. McClanan, Jr., P. S. Davis, J. W. Dean, W. J. Dockery, J. B. Donnelly, J. P. Eichler, M. E. Galloway, S. F. Garrett, III, T. H. Garrett, Jr., P. M. Glenn, Jr., K. B. Hipp, J. R. Hughes, H. D. Jones, Jr., C. C. Lester, J. H. Locke, K. E. McCoy, D. E. McDonald, Jr., M. M. McEntire, R. C. McLaughlin, L. A. Outlaw, C. E. Payne, W. W. Pritchett, Jr., E. M. Schara, J. P. Smith, J. A. Spruill, P. K. Stackhouse, M. L. Steele, S. A. Symanski, Jr., J. E. Wall, E. E. Wells, Jr., S. W. White, R. W. Wolf and D. H. Wood.

A number of states are represented in this year's Summer Policemen in the various schools they are attending, which include the University of Virginia, the University of North Carolina, Duke University, the University of Richmond, Wake Forest College, Memphis State University, the College of William and Mary, the University of Florida, Washington and Lee University, the University of South Carolina, and The Citadel.

Officer Stacey Garrett radios in as he leaves the 2nd precinct making his rounds to check traffic and vehicles which may be illegally parked in the business district of the Beach Borough.

Cavalier Comedy Is Successful 1st Try

Cavalier Dinner Playhouse has a new director, and Woody Eney has turned in a superior production in his initial effort.

"The Impossible Years," by Bob Fisher and Arthur Marks is reminiscent of "Life with Father" or "Take Her, She's Mine," but both highly updated.

The fast-paced comedy is a laugh-a-second type of play, full of very funny gag lines. The authors are overly generous to the father with the funny stuff, and fortunately Eney has as the father Del Driver, a master of comedy-timing, facial expression and vocal control. It's really a one-man show, and Driver, being as fine an actor as he is, makes the most of that.

The play concerns apocalyptic who can handle his patients well but cannot cope with his teenage daughter, her sloppiness and her boyfriend. While he attempts to write a book about how to handle the problems of a teenager, he has to cope with his daughter wanting to go to Fire Island, being a parade of Kooks and being asked to "go all the way."

She settles the entire matter herself by running away and getting married, but the folks do not know to whom. Thus some of the funniest comedy material ever seen anywhere. If the plot is thin, it's all right. There are enough laugh lines and funny situations to make up for that. Although Driver overshadows everyone else in the cast, he definitely has some outstanding support.

Sue Bailey does a nice job of underplay as his almost always understanding and sympathetic wife. Occasionally she has a little tendency to laugh at the show herself, but this can be chalked to inexperience. All in all, a nice job.

As the daughter, Theresa Stallings, a teenager, does a great job of playing a not always typical teenager. And besides that, director Eney must have realized how good she looks in a bikini. She is in it a good part of the show.

Debbie Jackson, as the precocious little sister, is just as obnoxious and lovable as little sisters are supposed to be.

Mike Byrns, Gay Hobbs, David Dexter, Oscar Richardson, Warren Dedrick and Jim Noel turn in nice performances as the other teenagers, with particular accolades to Noel, as the "Hippie."

Hugh Williams smiles a lot as the intellectual who is helping the doctor write the book. His age is hard to determine, however. He is sometimes pleasant, other times sarcastic, but not terribly consistent.

Bernie Breman as the hypochondriac doctor and Charles Richman as the publisher also turn in nice performances.

Sherry Loving, as the gym teacher overdoes it a bit, but this is probably Eney's fault. The role does not need overdoing. It's hilarious on its own. The same is true of the teenage scenes where too much overdone action is substituted for quality.

This production, however, has to be the finest thing in Tidewater in a long time. HJL

No Witch-Hunts, Please

Please, let us not be hasty. There was once a witch-hunt in Princess Anne County, and Grace Sherwood ended up getting dunked. Let us not go looking for witches again in this day and age, where cool heads are supposed to prevail.

If it is the pleasure of political factions or newspapers other than this one to hunt witches to create unrest or to satisfy peculiar political ambitions, we cannot stop them. But it would be a shame for innocents to get hurt in this matter of alleged conflict of interest charges at such expense.

We have a number of highly qualified businessmen on appropriate boards and commissions in this city. Most serve without pay in the best interests of the city. While they are dedicated to the goals of their city, they must also make a living, and prohibiting their companies from doing business with the city through competitive bidding while they are in office, seems to be a stranglehold on private enterprise and a penalty they must pay to serve.

We do not believe the General Assembly of Virginia adopted any conflict of interest legislation to such an end. We would hope not, because then a witch-hunt is in order statewide in every nook and cranny of every hamlet and its government, perhaps beginning in the State Office Building.

We would hope the legislation was meant to keep any flagrant violation and personal gain from public office out of our government.

The law, it would seem, is ambiguous, and because it is not clearly drawn, has the tendency to contradict itself in separate sections. Before the witch-hunt gets underway perhaps the place to start would be with the law itself...to see if it really covers all those that have been indicted by printed and spoken intimation. If the law is not a good one, it should be changed, or at least made specific, and understandable by all in the same way.

We know that City Council would not undertake any witch-hunt in its calm and deliberate reappraisal of boards and commissions, but will study the matter logically and correctly. But about those political factions and publications we are not so sure. Too often those involved are quick to criticize for their own personal gain.

The city of Virginia Beach must not lose its professional and businessmen who help regulate and operate this city. It would be shameful and irreparable. Already it is doubtful that it will be easy to get them to serve in the future.

Just how far this mess gets is up to the cool heads of all. If wrong is found, it should be ended and punished, but guilt through publicity is no way to handle such an important matter.

Please, let's everyone take one step back...pause...then do what should be done, before Grace gets dunked again.

Don't Forget Local Option

July 1 is rapidly approaching. That's the date that the new local option liquor-by-the-drink law goes into effect. That's the date when the signatures being collected by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia Beach Jaycees will be turned into the court to ask for referendum on the matter in November.

More signatures are not necessarily needed. There are already enough to call for the referendum, but more are still wanted. The petitions are still being circulated and are on display in prominent public buildings and in business establishments.

Qualified voters are urged to sign to show a vote of confidence and a show of strength. If one is not qualified, he is

Building Still Going Up

Virginia Beach has to be a great place to live. Residential building during the first five months of 1968 has accounted for $17.9 million of the total $30.4 million in construction. And that total is up $10.1 million from a year ago.

A new record in building will most likely be set this year here. Construction is expected to soar even higher in the next few months.

It is interesting to note that Norfolk reports $16.9 million in construction in the same period, down nearly $10 million from a year ago. Virginia Beach leads the state, and is obviously well on its way to becoming the largest city in Virginia...as well as a great place to live.

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:

I've always been proud of my city, but I think it's terrible when a visitor is attacked by other visitors, I'm talking about the visiting band director who was assaulted Monday night. Is this the way to welcome guests? What was worse was the teenagers who were arrested for the attack. I wonder what their parents think--or if they even care, or for that matter if they even know where the boys are?

This is supposed to be a family resort city. If I was an outsider, I wouldn't want to bring my children to a place where it's not even safe to walk down the street. With the income the city gets from tourists, we can't afford to drive them away.

And things will probably become even worse if we get liquor by the drink. Beer is bad enough. I hate to see Atlantic Avenue become nothing but a row of bars. I don't care what they say about liquor control. I bet we get drunks all over the place. This will be quite a place when the adults sit in bars while the teenagers smoke pot in some of the "choice" establishments around here. Is this the kind of image we want?

Help For Hard-Pressed Police

The following editorial, concerning a recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court, appeared in a recent issue of the Newport News daily newspaper, the DAILY PRESS, and because of the timeliness of the subject is reprinted here.

The Supreme Court of the United States, which in recent years has found various ways to handcuff law enforcement, has now made a move in the opposite direction. The "stop and frisk" decision handed down this week will enable policemen to act decisively, when the occasion demands, in coping with individuals who act in a suspicious manner, and thus prevent violent criminal activities.

The 8-1 ruling doesn't permit indiscriminate "patting down" of citizens in a random search for evidence. It simply states that a limited quest for guns and knives is proper and constitutional if questioning leads an officer to fear that a suspect is armed and might harm someone.

The majority opinion covers 27 pages detailing how and when police can frisk for weapons, and goes on to declare that the ruling will be refined on a case-by-case basis, according to "concrete, factual circumstances," and "the courts still retain their traditional responsibility to guard against police conduct which is overbearing or harassing...." This is as it should be.

But reasonable leeway has been left: "The officer need not be absolutely certain that the individual is armed; the issue is whether a reasonably prudent man in the circumstances would be warranted in the belief that his safety or that of others was in danger."

It is an unfortunate fact that guns and knives as well have come into the hands of many members of the criminal element; statistics on crimes committed by these weapons have grown to staggering proportions, and law enforcement officers in large numbers have been among the victims. By setting forth the terms under which police may protect themselves and society the high court had belatedly moved to alleviate a major problem. The fact that the ruling, coming from this particular tribunal, is surprising, doesn't make it any less welcome.

The New Mental Health Laws in Virginia

The following editorial appeared in the spring 1968 issue of MENTAL HEALTH IN VIRGINIA, a publication of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Dr. John L. Bowman, Jr. of Virginia Beach is a member of the State Hospital Board.

Virginia will take another forward step in the care, treatment and protection of the mentally ill or mentally retarded patient on October 1, 1968, when the new mental health code becomes effective. Because the vast majority of the readers of Mental Health in Virginia are associated with or have an interest in mental illness and retardation and because the changes and revisions in the new law are so important, this Spring issue of the magazine is devoted entirely to the publication of Title 37.1 of the Code of Virginia.

One of the main thrusts of the new code is that it represents a shift from judicial to medical emphasis the care of mental patients. Another is to modernize the phraseology and eliminate archaic terms.

Gone are such words as "inmate," "detention," "commitment" and "furlough." Instead the terms "patient," "retention," "admission" and "convalescent leave" now appear. The admission laws are rewritten so as to encourage more voluntary admissions. Elopement is eliminated as a cause for admission to a mental hospital.

In February, 1967, Virginia's mental hospitals were assigned a geographic service area and patients were admitted regardless of race. Therefore, the new code carries no designation of a patient by color.

And something new was added. Virginia can now join a compact of about 35 other states for cooperation in the transfer of mental patients. The language of this chapter calls for a system that recognizes the importance of the welfare of the patient, regardless of his prime residency.

There is also a new chapter on community mental health and mental retardation service. Implementation of this will strengthen the Department's mental hygiene clinic program in that when this portion of the code is funded, there will be money for construction grants as well as for staffing for mental health centers in which in-patient services will be added to the consulting services and out-patient treatment.

Dr. Hiram W. Davis, commissioner, calls the new code with: "It dignifies mental illness."

SPOTS

By H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr.

"I don't think it's at all funny," he said. "You know it could be very painful and very dangerous to anyone my age." "I know all that," she said as she stifled a giggle. "But I thought you had had mumps when I told you our older one had swollen up on the right side of her face. That's why I smiled."

"Well, I haven't," he pouted. "And with my luck, I'll get it on both sides and in the middle of my upper lip."

"Now the doctor said there was a good chance you wouldn't get it at all," she tried to console him. "You may have natural immunity."

"The only thing I have natural immunity to is making money," he grumbled. "And to think that this very morning I played with her for a half-hour and hugged and kissed her a lot. Then this afternoon the doctor said I don't really have to worry unless I've had extended close contact with her while she is contagious."

"So stay away from her now," she said simply.

"Oh, sure. Lock the barn door after the whole herd is gone," he said. "And besides we have a sadistic five-year old there, you know. She keeps creeping up behind me saying, 'I'm gonna breathe on you and give you the mumps.' Who taught her that, I wonder?"

"Don't look at me. I told her you hadn't had the mumps, that's all."

"Thanks."

"She just loves you and likes to be near you," she said. "And I told her to kiss her little sister often so she'll get it now and get it over with."

"Fine," he said miserably. "Then I'll have another kookie kid chasing me around the house while I'll catch it from her too."

"If you get it, you get it," she said firmly.

"Thank you for that charming bit of philosophy," he said. "The doctor said I'd have to stay in bed flat on my back for a week or more if I get it. How would I get two papers out and who'd take care of me?"

"Don't look at me," she said sweetly. "I'll probably go to the hospital just about the time you come down with it, that is, assuming that you will."

"That kind of assumption I can do without," he said. "You just go to the hospital, relax and have a baby while I suffer. See if I care."

"My mother will come to take care of you."

"That's what I mean...suffer."

"My mother is very nice to you," she said. "It's all your fault. You have to stop ignoring her when she's here. I know she tells the same stories over and over, but at least the stories never vary."

"Sure," he said. "That's a fine consolation. I tell you what. If I get the mumps I don't care who takes care of me as long as somebody does...Even your mother. I might as well be in all kinds of pain at once."

"You know..." she stopped short. "That's funny, your neck looks sort of puffy."

"What?" he yelled, as he bolted out the chair and headed for a mirror. "My throat has been sort of hurting today and this whole feels too tight."

"Come back," she called. "I was just kidding."

"That's nothing to kid about," he said as he came back and sat down. "Besides, my throat does hurt a little and this collar is a little tight today. Take a close look. Do I look swollen?"

'Reaction Fashions' Are Style Keynote for Fall

See it in texture, shape, color, details... a look that proclaims the quieter, shapelier, more womanly woman. Conservative by day, exotic by night, she's the woman of values; intelligent, thoughtful, assured of her appeal, relaxed with her responsibilities.

Gone is ultra-bright, hard color, stiff fabrics, uni-color and texture. The total about-face stresses classic fabrics, muted day-time colors, lush evening and body-conscious shaping... no gimmicks, no put-ons... the reaction is refined... subtle.

lined waist, to the easy widened hem... fashion is fluid.

Signature of today's separates look—the waistline—boldly emphatic or lightly suggested, appears everywhere. With choice the by-word for the Reaction season, waists are natural, raised or empire... suggested with shaping, belted, tied or wrapped. Waists are emphasized with wide, wide-set-in midriffs, double-buckle belts, with sinuous stripes of leather, self-banding, detail seaming, extravagant buckles, tied bows... or simply in the two-part dress or superbly fitted jacket.

Bodices tend to be small, pared down, fitted, with raglan, set-in or tucked puff shoulders, while skirts are any way you like them. Freshest when cut on the bias, the newly fluid skirt may be pleats, gores, trumpet flares, gathered at the hem or blossom. Even the slimmer skirts flare slightly, with deep inverted pleats, front panels or kick pleats.

The length?... A matter of choice. From the well-bred just-above-the-knee... to the floor... and anywhere in between. Midi's and Maxi's make their move, usually on the evening scene... or in storm coats. The Midi length is 14 inches from the floor; the Maxi, 11 inches from the floor.

Hard on the heels of the separates look—The Ensemble—strong for both day and night. Coats, following the general narrow-top, flare-hem shaping, adapt best to the Midi length (some Midi skirts but no dresses). Capes look great again, especially in classic fabrics, flaring shapes. Jackets move in two directions—down and very fitted a la riding jacket or Nehru-flavored tunic, double or single buttoned and back-vented... or short, somewhat less clearly waisted, or shorter still to the newly returned bolero which hits both the day and evening scene.

Elegance (poor lost word of seasons past) defines the look of evenings, a look of multi-influences. We find the neo-Thirties vamp returning, all slim, slinky and plunging... Juliet of the deeply sculptured neck over high empire waist... the prim Victorian, with neck and sleeve cover-up... or the opulence of the Middle East, bared but heavily trimmed, encrusted or re-embroidered with jewels.

Sleeves and cuffs are some of this season's hottest news... with a multitude of shapes. Ranging from the long and skinny... full-blown bouffants, gathered or lightly cuffed at the wrist... trumpet and bell sleeves... diagonal cuts with a Medieval flavor... tight single cuffs elongated and buttoned two, three, even four times... giant turned back Beau Brummel gauntlet cuffs, smaller ones accented in velvet or leather, or straight sleeve ends muffled in opulent, luxurious fur.

Special fashion excitement is being made by necklines, too. From the deep plunge to the highest turtle, necklines are new. Two of the newest are the extravagant V (for day or night) and the muffled-up look of scarves. (Scarves are THE new accessory as triangles, long or short stoles, tied or wrapped... but always at the neck.) The collared neck is back, part of the shirt influence, from over-sized notch to tiny stand-ups like the Nehru or Mao, all seen most often faced with contrast color, velvet, leather, jewels or fur. (For evening... watch collars heavily beaded or furred.) Bows are an important new accent, appearing at the waist as well. The plain neck is dead... if it's not plunged, collared or bowed, you can just bet there's a scarf around it... if our gal is in the fashion swim. (Important projection; watch the stock!)

The story is Texture... the headline Classic. Always on the fall scene, the classic elegance takes over as never before as the pendulum swings completely the other way... to total refinement.

Tweeds, (the Donegal) plaids, tartans, worsteds, Shellands, Meltons, camel's hair and fleece dominate the daylight scene with all the traditional menswear fabrics... glen plaids, herringbones, pin-stripes, houndstooth... in equal strength. Amazingly softened in texture, softer still in today's shapes, looking best when mixed in a costume... as plaid on tweed. Body-clinging silk and wool crepes appear with flannels and challis, especially printed challis. Touch these with fur, velvet, leather trims, top them with silk, crepe or knit... and you've got today's "fashion bag."

For evening, classics turn lush and costume-y... a luxuriance of velvets, moires, brocades... followed by floaty chiffons and crispier peau de soie and taffeta. Classics of the day appear for after-five when teamed with dressy fabrics, or cut very bare. Thus... we find plaid/velvet/satin combos... or wool/taffeta... or knit/satin. Even gabardine turns up as casual finery with wool and silk crepes holding their own as perennial favorites.

Leather has gone "no-season".... Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter... you name it, you'll see it. Gaining strength as it goes, it hits a new high for Fall/Winter '68, especially the "cut savage" and ever-popular suede. Sportswear sees it everywhere... skirts, pants, jackets, even shirts... ready-to-wear finds it as dresses and coats, with new emphasis on trims, placing leather all over dresses, coats, suits... you name it.

Startling to an eye accustomed to vibrant, brash brights is the muted, well-bred look of Fall color. Hand in hand with the texture picture, Fall tones come on very classic, very reserved... greys, navy browns and tans lead off... followed by whites, off-whites, nude, champagne, beige, camel, putty and forest green. Contrast colors include palest pinks... mauves, celery, blue... all subdued... all terribly elegant.

The Fall "bright" is red... red in fabrics, as accessories... and white, particularly on collars and cuffs, sometimes as shirts, adding a flavor of quaintness... looking prim and proper.

As evening goes lush in texture, so it goes in deep, rich (See 'Fashions' p. 2B)

The luxury and elegance of chinchilla was never more evident than in this city costume from the Fall '68 collection of Barberini (div. of Originals). The taupe wool dress is all fit 'n flair beneath the short cropped jacket. Chinchilla spotlights the neckline and hem.

Amandine green satin span into a sumptuous gown from Nat Kaplan's Fall '68 collection.

County Calicos abbreviated and molded overalls to fit the feminine figure and paired them to a denim shirt.

It starts with separates... a place here, a bit there... multifaceted, totally individual... the unorthodox combinations of pants under dresses... velvet and satin with tweeds or leather. It's all a question of choice. Mix with accessories, patterns, colors, textures. To create the "right" look, pick with discretion, mix with flair.

The body is back. Not the bony body of adolescence, but the womanly body... full of curves, movement and softness. Everything moves... it curves, wraps, plunges, swirls or puffs... from the fitted bodice, de-

McAllen's ALLEY

By Carolyn McAllen

Hey, Mommy, Can We Pet the Jaguar?

Everybody's heard of a lion loose in the streets.

Would you believe a jaguar—or even two jaguars? And I don't mean the kind you can drive.

Memphis, Tenn. has a very modern zoo which the brats insisted upon seeing from the time our car backed out of our driveway in Virginia Beach on vacation. Three days, 1,000 miles and endless reminders from the kids later, we actually reached the gates of the Memphis Zoological Gardens.

Just as we were about to walk in, everybody else came running out screaming that, "the lions are loose, the animals are loose, etc." Undaunted, and still not very frightened, we entered the gates, six strong, including Grandma. (Grandpa had sense enough to stay home and take a nap.) A few minutes later we all agreed that he might have had the best idea in the first place.

A few minutes later, after a side trip to the refreshment stand to buy the brats round of ice cream cones, we found out that two jaguars of the wild variety really had decided to take a stroll through the park themselves. One was soon recaptured and returned to his home in the carnivorous (how's that for spelling without a dictionary?) house while the zoo keepers literally beat the bushes for the other, which, to give them due credit, was soon found and returned to her cage also.

Our brats, meanwhile, toured the less dangerous areas of the park. All they were interested in anyway were rides on the miniature train and chasing the peacocks all over the place. The high point of the day was when they discovered a squirrel they wanted to look at while their parents viewed the giraffes.

All in all it was quite a day, even if the monsters didn't get to tame a lion, if they had I'd have laid odds on the kids.

Juniors Win National Prize

Cavalier Junior Woman's Club won a $500 first prize in a national Movie and Youth program contest sponsored by the Motion Picture Association.

Receiving the award in Boston last Friday were Mrs. Robert M. McCall, president, and Mrs. Walter H. Harper, project chairman.

The Cavalier Juniors were among the five finalists from 700 entries. Other finalists were from Pennsylvania, Missouri, South Carolina and Colorado. Presenting the award was Margaret Twyman, director of community relations for the Motion Picture Association.

In addition to the cash prize, the club won a five-day, all expense trip to Hollywood for two. Mrs. Harper and her husband will make the trip in August.

The prize-winning entry centered around a panel discussion on Movies and Youth to which parents and civic leaders were invited. Panelists included Mal Vincent, critic for the Virginian-Pilot; John Dawson of WTAR, and James Wannell, manager of the Princess Theatre.

Clubs were judged on the quality of their programs. The basis of the Cavalier program was to show how the public can take a responsibility for the quality of movies.

Virginia Graham, well-known television hostess, was speaker at the awards luncheon. Other guests included Actress Tippi Hedrin and Janis Paige, and Julian Riskin, president of the National Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association.

The club has already received a congratulatory letter from Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association.

Although a definite project has not been decided yet, a club spokesman said the prize money will be used in a community improvement project.

Duffy Davis' Line: Children, Music

In a secluded area of Bird-neck Point Mrs. George Davis and her family enjoy a peaceful, happy existence inspired by nature. Their two-story home which overlooks Linkhorn Bay seems to blend into the landscape while the shade from the trees conveys a feeling of tranquility.

A family of wild ducks enlivens the premises as do the family pets, a Welsh Corgi and a guinea pig named Chatty Patty. The Davises have resided here for 14 years.

Duffy, as her friends know her, is an attractive, auburn-haired woman who gracefully combines the qualities of charm, intelligence, and efficiency. She and her husband, who is associated with United States Lines, have four children: George, Tegwen, Rhys, and Jennifer.

Outside of the family Duffy has found time for her community. She has been the librarian at Friends School for almost 10 years and is presently the membership chairman of the Friends of Music.

She was one of the original founding members of the latter group which has as its objective the development of a winter and summer music program in Virginia Beach. Their most recent project concerns the initiation of the Friends of Music Arts Festival which will begin Aug. 3 through 17.

In her conversation Duffy displays her vital interest in children and in music. She discussed the fact that so many children are never exposed to classical music or to any of the other arts. This summer many will have their first opportunity. The festival can be the beginning of something really worth while for Virginia Beach. Duffy hopes the community will respond with excitement to the appeal of good music.

Mrs. George Davis keeps a restraining hand on Serliu, dog, while daughter Jenny, 12, hangs onto Beep, one of the off-spring of the wild ducks who make the Davis home theirs, too.

Try Tender Loving Care

Whether you're mini-planting a window box or farming the biggest garden since Eden, green-thumb tactics will help you win the crabgrass confrontation and the war of the roses.

The field manual of do's and don'ts covers the ground from lawn layout to seed spacing, from fertilizer formula to pruning prudence.

Take this study-in-depth: an inch of soil is plenty for topping off most seeds, and smaller ones need no more than a bare cover-up. Deeper burial will retard germination.

As for fertilizers, beware the shotgun approach! The element that produces splendor in the grass may cause bleeding-heartburn in your flowerbeds. Nitrogen, for instance, builds strong stems and leaves—but in excess, at the expense of fruit and flowers. However, if it's the test you're after (as in lettuce, spinach or cabbage), you can be more open-handed with the nitrogen supply.

For most flowers and such vegetables as beans, squash and tomatoes, the best bet is a high-phosphorus formula.

The amount of fertilizer a garden needs depends on the soil composition. Most state colleges are equipped for soil analysis, but there is one basic rule-of-thumb: too much fertilizer can kill plants by dehydrating the rootlets. In general, 4 pounds of a commercial mix per 100 square feet will do for daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and similar bulbous plants. For lawns, the amount is 1,000 square feet ranges from 40 to 80 pounds, depending on soil fertility.

The tricks of transplanting start with the lesson that it's impossible to dig up a tree or shrub without some root injury. The secret is to trench around the plant far enough out to keep down the damage. The size of the magic circle varies, but for deciduous plants the minimum radius is equal to the widest-spreading branch. Evergreens can usually be worked closer to the stem and levered out with the rootencasing ball of earth intact. If the protective soil tends to fall away from the roots, it can be bundled in place with burlap.

While you're pampering your plants, don't neglect the man with the hoe—yourself. There are no Purple Heart awards for garden gallantry. Old hands know, for instance, that the right kind of gloves are sure-fire armor against a battlescarred green thumb. Experts at Edmont-Wilson, a leading glove manufacturer, point out that the gardening gauntlet you pick up depends on the challenge. A vinyl-impregnated, dirt-repellant cotton glove that launders without shrinking is the hands-down all-purpose favorite. But for liquid-fertilizer handling and other extra-grubby chores, something like the throwaway priced Ambi disposable is in order.

For vanity's sake, you can even combine the functional with the fashionable. Gloves this season are as smart as Courreges and as "in" as Carnaby Street. Take Edmont-Wilson's Fancy Plants model for women with the gay floral print of the other stylings that bear that hallmark of the 24-carat gardener: the green thumb. They may not help you to grow begonias on a billiard ball, but they're great conversation pieces.

Next to the hands, the head is probably the summer gardener's most vulnerable spot. Skin specialists warn that it's wise to take the early-season sun in small doses until your protective tan blooms. Until then, and even afterwards, a suntan lotion and a broad-brimmed hat are standard armor against overexposure. And during the July and August dog days, stay out of the noon-day sun altogether.

One of the main rewards of all this planning, puttering and personal protection is, of course, the harvest. Here, timing is important. Cut flowers keep longer when snipped just as they're coming into bloom. For maximum flavor, such vegetables as the tomato and such fruits as apples, pears and peaches should be picked a little on the green side and allowed to ripen off the branch. Corn is trickier. Because the natural sugar changes quickly to starch once the ear is picked, the elapsed time from stalk to pot should be short—ideally no more than half an hour!

Buck Teeth May Correct Themselves

Not all protruding teeth need braces. Sometimes they correct themselves. This comforting (and economical) news comes from Dr. LaForest D. Garner, associate professor of Orthodontics at Indiana University School of Medicine.

In a recent paper Dr. Garner reported that sometimes "mixed dentition" occurs in youngsters between seven and 14 years of age. That is, baby teeth remain in the dental arch while the second teeth are coming in. This sometimes causes a flared or bucked tooth appearance. However, this may be self-correcting, providing there is no underlying skeletal problem, or if persistent fingersucking, tongue thrusting or lip biting don't interfere.

Spaces between various teeth also often close up as these second teeth come in and develop.

Summer Meals Can Be Simple

When June comes, can summer be far ahead? And summer-time means a season of heavy exercise and light, nourishing foods, to supply the vitality needed for outdoor activities. Meals are a breeze to make with versatile dairy foods, nature's own convenience products.

One menu might include Fancy Franks for a picnic lunch anywhere. Just heat 'em and eat 'em and taste buds will flower under the tang of Cheddar cheese combined with chili sauce. For a go-alongside dish, why not try a Snappy Salad easily made with greens and bacon bits complemented by sautéed pecan pieces. Dessert could be a Frosty Apple Pie, a tasty crumb crust lined with melted chocolate and filled with Cinnamon-spiced apples with a vanilla ice cream topping.

Set a meal for a crowd in a lonely place quickly and easily from a toted refrigerated cooler and a portable barbecue grill. And, don't forget to include milk to cool that warm weather thirst. Take it easy this summer—rely on dairy foods.

It's fun to eat outdoors, especially in the kick-off summer month of June. The weather is right for casual meals and the family's in the mood to pack a basket and have a happy time.

How about planning a meal you can tote along to the park, or pack for teenagers to take to the beach? There's a minimum of fuss involved in serving Fancy Franks; just heat 'em and eat 'em. No sand in the sandwiches with this recipe. (Sounds funny—no "sand" in sandwiches.)

All you do is mix the delicious cheese filling. It home, wrap the filled franks in aluminum foil and heat them later over the charcoal grill. The filling is simple to make. Just combine shredded Cheddar cheese, chili sauce, pickle relish, and a dash of oregano for zesty Italian flavor. Heat the foil wrapped sandwiches over glowing coals until the cheese melts and the franks are piping hot.

Take along a vacuum jug filled with ice-cold milk to drink, and for an easy dessert, pack Carry-Out Cupcakes in sturdy paper cups. They're a breeze to make with today's convenient prepared mixes. Use a yellow cake mix for the cupcakes and split them crosswise after baked and cooled. Then stir up a batch of chocolate pudding and pie filling mix; when slightly cooled, spoon a couple tablespoons into a paper cup. Top with the bottom half of a cupcake, add more pudding and then the top portion of the cake. A swirl of chocolate pudding crowns each individual dessert. Cover with transparent plastic wrap and they're ready to travel.

Try this tote-along menu soon. When you do, you'll agree that Fancy Franks, Carry-Out Cupcakes and milk make a relaxed, enjoyable meal for the entire family.

FANCY FRANKS
8 sandwiches
1/4 C. chili sauce
2 C. shredded Cheddar cheese
1/4 C. pickle relish
1/8 tsp. oregano
8 frankfurters
8 sandwich buns

In a mixing bowl combine chili sauce, cheese, pickles.

Here's a carefree menu for a family cookout or teen-age beach party. Fancy Franks have a zesty Cheddar cheese filling, and Carry-Out Cupcakes are easily made with mixes. Milk is the perfect beverage.

lish and oregano. Slit frankfurters lengthwise—but do not cut through. Fill with cheese mixture placing about 4 tablespoons in each. Place frankfurters in buns. Place the sandwiches on rectangles of aluminum foil. Wrap and seal edges carefully and twist the ends to give the ponytail look. These may be stored in the refrigerator or carried to the beach or picnic grounds. Place on grill and heat 10-15 minutes until cheese melt and sandwich is hot.

For a more elaborate dessert, make a Frosty Apple Pie. It's as easy as pie to do! Prepare a crumb crust and line it with a thin layer of melted chocolate, a pleasant flavor surprise for the cinnamon-spiced apple filling that hides it. Now the "frost" is added—vanilla ice cream spooned over all...ready for the freezer, and waiting dessert lovers. For garnish, bedeck your pie with amazingly realistic chocolate leaves. These are made by brushing real plant leaves with melted chocolate, letting them harden in the refrigerator, and peeling away the original leaves. Try it!

During periods of wet weather or extremely high humidity, those who have apple trees planted on their grounds need to be on the look-out for apple scab. Scab can usually be seen first on the leaves, but most often is not noticed until it is actually on the fruit itself.

This disease resembles a "scab" appearance, and is dark gray in color. It appears on the skin of the fruit, harming only the appearance of the fruit, not affecting the meat of the fruit.

Apple scab is caused by a fungus. To control it, and protect your trees against it, a good fungicide should be used. Three that are quite frequently used with good results are captan, folpet (Phaltan), and ferbam. Directions on the container should be followed for their application.

One of the most fun parties to give during warm weather months is a seafood cookout. Everyone loves the informality and they're easy to stage if you use one of the specially designed steamers made by United States Stamping Company. Their large capacity permits steaming of everything from lobsters to corn-on-the-cob at one time.

VIRGINIA BEACH Garden Club News

Linkhorn Park

The Linkhorn Park Garden Club met last Friday, June 14, at the Holladay Point home of the Patrick Kavanaghs for a pool party and salad buffet.

Mrs. Kavanagh decorated her home with magnolia blossoms and fresh summer daisies for the party. The salads and pastries brought by the club members supplied the rest of the decoration.

Mrs. Jack Harvey's contribution to the feast was a cake topped with artificial violets, in keeping with the flowers-theme.

Publicity chairman Mrs. Margaret Davis provided the table decorations for the screened room over-looking the pool where the garden clubbers sampled salads and cakes they had brought. Mrs. Davis halved water-melons as baskets to hold melon balls.

P.A. Plaza

The Princess Anne Plaza Garden Club ended its 1967-68 year with an installation luncheon held on June 8 at Biggs Restaurant on Military Highway. Mrs. Malcolm H. Todd installed the following officers for the 1968-69 year: president: Mrs. Rosalyn Boxley; 1st vice president: Mrs. Alford W. Walker; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Glean B. McClanahan, recording secretary; Mrs. Cora Moore, corresponding secretary, Mrs.

Jean Dunn, and treasurer, Mrs. Gloria Roche.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. I.E. Copenhaver for the highest number of points in the horticultural entries for the year and to Mrs. Rosalyn Boxley for the highest number of points in the floral arranging. The club also presented Mrs. Roslyn Stallcup a silver tray in appreciation of her service as president of the club.

Mrs. Frances Briley, club historian, gave a summary of the year's activities.

Arrangements were judged by the Wolfson Garden Club. Receiving the Tri-Color award was Mrs. Rosalyn Stallcup, and blue awards for arrangements went to Mrs. Beverly Wahl and Mrs. Cora Moore. Blue awards for specimens went to Mrs. John Froehner, Mrs. Sally Copenhaver, Mrs. John McIntyre, Jr., Mrs. Mattie Sneed, and Mrs. Roslyn Boxley.

African Violet

The Lynnhaven African Violet Society held their June meeting at the Pine Tree Inn, following the luncheon, these awards were presented:

Specimen plants: Mrs. Nelson Charlton, 1st and Mrs. Carl Sallaud, 2nd; arrangements: Mrs. Win Green, first place.

The meeting date was changed for the coming year to the fourth Wednesday of each month.

Then, there's that once a month when a girl could use a good old-fashioned medicine.

Maybe you feel just plain bad then. Or maybe a little lolly and sad, like you could use a pair of arms around you.

Well, we have just the thing for this once a month time. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle, natural ingredients, including one that works to help relax tightened muscles that give you cramps. Plus a little iron that a girl could use at a time like this. And, you don't run any chance of the kind of unpleasant side effects you could get from some of the newer drugs.

With an old-fashioned problem like this, couldn't you take an old-fashioned medicine.

Contest Inspires Cookbook

Inspired by the National College Queen Pageant is a colorful new free party book written especially for college students—but packed with so many party themes and ideas that any party-minded man, woman or child will find it fun to read and useful, too.

There are recipes for half a dozen punches, cookies, cakes and candy. For around the world supper parties there are simplified recipes for such classic treats as Sukiyaki, Paella, and Choucroute Garnie.

If you're scheduled to give a shower, you'll want the book just for the shower ideas, if you're on a fund-raising committee or the food committee for a tea, the book is invaluable. There are events for the Great Outdoors including new games as well as old favorites.

There's a benefit party for needy children, a Pick a Year Party. All together there are over 50 party themes. For a free copy of the "Swingin' Party Book" send your name and address to Swingin' Party Book, P.O. Box 307, Coventry, Conn. 06238.

Couple Wed at Academy

Miss Betsy Louise Peery and Ens. Stephen H. Ries, USN, were married in a ceremony in the Chapel of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. on June 5.

The bride is the daughter of Cdr. and Mrs. George G. Peery, USN, of Fairfax, Va.

Ens. Ries is the son of Capt. and Mrs. Herbert H. Ries, USN, of Virginia Beach.

The wedding took place shortly after Ens. Ries received his commission and a B. S. degree from the Academy at graduation and commissioning exercises held in the Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium in Annapolis.

Mrs. Bates, Cdr. Bates, Mrs. R. G. Moore, R. G. Moore, Merrill Cournoyer, Mrs. T. W. Duke and Mr. Duke were a few of the partiers at a recent Point of View Civic League dance at the Commodore Country Club. (McIntosh Studio)

Wedding at Charlottesville

University Chapel, Charlottesville, was the setting June 16 for the marriage of Miss Byron Louise Luna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Luna of Hampton, to Samuel Sims Tyson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford L. Tyson of Virginia Beach.

The Rev. George Telford performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of peau de soie with brocade trim and long tapered sleeves. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. David Crutchfield of Hopewell was matron of honor and Miss Patricia Lenora Smith of Lexington and Charlottesville was bridesmaid. The attendants wore floor length gowns of net over blue taffeta with empire waists. Their headresses were Dior bows of taffeta with veils. They carried white daisies with a yellow mum center.

Tyson was graduated from the University of Virginia with a Bachelor of Civil Engineering degree and will resume studies in September for his Master's Degree.

Two residents of Virginia Beach, Virginia, were among the nearly 3,800 students who are candidates for degrees at the University of Wisconsin's June commencement at Madison this year, held June 10.

They and the degrees for which they are candidates are: Donald J. Krejcarek, Regina Lane, and Spencer L. Lott, Bobolink Dr., both Bachelor of Arts.

Sherry B. Lam (Mrs. Gary Leslie), of Virginia Beach, received her bachelor of science degree in health and physical education, from Old Dominion College at commencement exercises Sunday, June 9.

Mrs. Lam is teaching physical education at First Colonial High School and has begun work towards her master's degree. She is the 1968 recipient of both the ODC Student Education Association award for outstanding major in health and physical education and the departmental award for outstanding senior.

Mr. and Mrs. Lam live at Goodspeed Road.

Ceremony Unites Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Lee Toler of Delaware Avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Ann Reid, to Charles Edward Parker, son of Mrs. Charles Cary Parker and the late Mr. Parker of Norfolk.

Their vows were exchanged Sunday, June 16, in a 2 p.m. double-ring ceremony at Galilee Episcopal Church with the Rev. John Jordan officiating. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Galilee's Tucker Hall.

The bride wore an A-line gown of silk organza and Alencon lace gown embroidered with seed pearls and crystals at the high, funnel neckline. Her veil of white illusion fell to chapel length from a crown of embroidered crystals. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, miniature carnations and baby breath.

Serving as best man was Joseph F. Owens, Norfolk Ushers were George Dozier, Jr. and James Hall, both of Virginia Beach, and Eddie Lee Toler, brother of the bride, of Springfield, Va.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the Parkers will live at Norfolk.

Wedding Planned Sunday

Miss Nanci Sue Newell and Enos Preston Burgess III, both of Virginia Beach, will be married at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, June 23, at Bayside Christian Church.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Greer Newell and Thomas Casselman Newell.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Enos Preston Burgess Jr.

Miss Newell, a graduate of Frank W. Cox High School, works in the central files of the Virginia Beach police department.

Mr. Burgess is a graduate of Princess Anne High School.

The new "pulled-together" look is topped by a hat...a hat of the Thirties. The flavor is casual, the influence timely. Biggest looks are the cloche, beret, and brimmed hat...all with a soft, crushable air about them in felt, jersey, knits.

Gloves join this "neo-total look"...THE glove, straight from the Thirties, is the longer gauntlet in pig, kid or suede, best in neutral. Newest is stitching, especially forchett stitching. Also seen are a variety of trims and cut-outs.

Bags are bigger...is soft, squishy shapes or smaller boxy ones. A strong influence—the luggage look—buckled and strapped, continues with large amounts of hardware. Here, as in shoes, antique leathers, shiny patents, are all over, with a good showing of "our savage," tapestry patterns, as well as alligator, turtle, lizard.

Strappy is the by-word for evening in a strongly romantic Thirties feeling...while boots may someday and at the neck.

Toy Design

Wins Award

Honored for designing an original model of an old timer plane from Tinkertoys is a ten-year-old Michael Brewton of Ferry Plantation Road.

The award, a Junior Engineer Certificate from the Toy Thinkers, division of A.G. Spalding & Bros., Inc., reads: "In recognition of creative imagination, ingenuity and skill, the Toy Thinkers offers this certificate in evidence of this achievement."

Along with the certificate, Michael received news that the model automatically will be entered in the 1968 Scholarship Award Program to find the most imaginative creation of the year.

Each of the fifty state finalists, to be selected at the close of the 1968 program, will receive a handsome-mounted, personally-engraved wall plaque. From the state finalists, one national winner will be chosen. Awards for the national winner, the Toy Thinker of the Year, include a $1,000 Savings Bond Scholarship and an expense paid trip to New York for both the winner and his or her parents.

Judging of all models is on the basis of imagination and creativity of design. The awards program, now in its fourth year, is in keeping with our line of creative and fun toys, says R.A. Christensen, president of Toy Thinkers.

State finalists will be named in February, 1969.

Dealers

Get Awards

Nearly 300 Ford dealerships car and truck salesmen in Ford Division's Richmond sales district will be honored for outstanding performance during 1967 at a banquet at the Hotel Roanoke in Roanoke, Saturday, May 25.

J.S. Straub, district sales manager, said the salesmen will be presented with Ford 300-500 Club membership awards. The 300-500 Club was instituted in 1960 to recognize "excellent retail sales performance" by Ford dealership personnel.

James R. Stanley, of Beach Ford, Inc., and J.E. Thompson, of Bruce-Flournoy Motor Co., will be presented Top Hatter awards.

An 18-year award will go to Thomas J. Marsha, of Bruce-Flournoy Motor Co.

WRVC FM Has Changed Format

The Virginia Good Music Corporation (WRVC-FM) began broadcasting in full time stereo June 1 with a new program format, another step in a series of changes being made by the station's new trustees and board of directors and management team of Jerry Frericks, account executive and Thomas M. Chilton, general manager, both of Virginia Beach.

Basically, the new format will bring to Tidewater listeners a greater variety of classical and light classical favorites in an attempt to meet community needs and keep pace with Norfolk's cultural explosion.

Frericks, Norfolk Neptune Club, a graduate of Southern Illinois University majoring in Marketing and Advertising, joined WRVC in April as an account executive. Prior to that time he represented the Dictaphone Corporation on the peninsula and later WAVY-radio.

Chilton, a graduate of Craddock High School attended V.P.I. concentrating in electric and industrial engineering. Prior to joining WRVC as general manager in 1966, he worked for several radio and TV stations in Roanoke.

The board of directors of First & Merchants National Bank today declared a second-quarter dividend of 40¢ per share. A payment date of July 12 was announced, payable to stockholders of record June 28.

The Seventh Tarzan Visits the Beach

Butler Crabbe, the seventh Tarzan who swung through Hollywood jungles in the late 1930's and early 40's, sat watching himself on a temporary movie screen set up in the northern part of Pembroke Mall last Friday afternoon.

The children for whom the old movie was being shown are restless: the lighting and the sound are bad, pale images flickering on the screen, every once in awhile a trace of an English-accented voice or part of the famous Tarzan-cry is heard.

"It's a strange sensation watching yourself," says Crabbe. "You become very objective, as if the person isn't you at all. You watch what he's doing, looking for things you don't like."

"I never see much of what I've done that I like," he goes on, almost to himself.

Two teen-age boys approach him hesitantly. "Hey, sir, is that you up there on the screen?"

"Yes, a long time ago."

They push pieces of paper at him. "Will you sign this? Say 'To Billy.' It's not for me; it's for my little brother."

Crabbe signs the papers. After the boys leave, he says "They always say 'It's not for me.' I guess it embarrasses them to ask."

He watches the screen while longer, not speaking, smoking cigarette after cigarette.

"I never inhale. I don't think it hurts me. The swimming balances it out. When I'm in town (New York) I swim every day."

He leaves the wooden benches, set in a circle, "Let's go get some coffee." He leads the way to Lindy's, takes a booth in the back; sun glasses hide his eyes.

"I was born in Oakland, California. Was never really interested in acting. It was a way to make money while I was in law school. There were times when I didn't know if I'd have money at the end of the week to pick up my laundry."

"I never really expected them to pick up my option, didn't care if they did. But having the money to go to school was nice."

He smiles. "But the company did take up the option, and by then I'd decided that this was the way to do it. I heard about all these people making $5,000 a week—and that was a lot of money then. Later, of course, I wanted to do it well, the acting."

Crabbe, who is probably best remembered for his roles as Captain Gallant, Buck Rogers and Tarzan, "always enjoyed playing the heavy. But I guess the comic always wants to play the tragedian and vice versa," he says.

"Playing a heavy, you don't have to speak to the audience. The meaner, nastier you look, the better. There was one part where I slit a fellow's throat—great! Just great!"

Now a resident of Westchester, N.Y., Crabbe, in his sixties, has three grandchildren, and aside from his family, the stock-market is his love.

"I get into it by the backdoor," he says. As water-sports director at New York's Concord Hotel, he became the friend of a bellhop who later passed his brokerage exams and set up shop as a broker.

Now having passed his own brokerage examination, Crabbe says that the "breaks" which enable a young man to rise quickly to the top are not a thing of the past.

He pointed out one case of two brothers who now head a successful, and growing computer operation. "They sank all their money into a second-hand computer and set up shop. They were intelligent, had something on the ball. They trusted themselves."

Clarence Linden Crabbe, who was nicknamed "Buster" by his father, made his last film, to date, two and a half years ago. He talked about the changes in the film industry.

"Look at what they get away with today—the violence," Crabbe thinks that the student unrest all over the world can be attributed, at least in part, to the steady diet of blood and thunder the young people of the world have seen on the movie screen.

"But the film-makers are businessmen. And the public buys tickets."

Crabbe shakes his head. "At Columbia, and in Paris. But there will be a swing back, I think. There has to be."

An executive of Cascade Industries, Inc., manufacturers of vinyl-lined, customised swimming pools, Crabbe was at Virginia Beach two days as part of a promotional campaign for Home Recreation Equipment Corp. at Virginia Beach, sole distributors of Cascade pools in this area.

Torok Opens New Club

Ted Torok, former Norfolk Neptune and operator of The Sandbox, opened a new club for young adults Monday, June 17.

The air conditioned club, called Rogues' Gallery, covering an entire city block, features the largest dance floor in Tidewater, live music and will serve food from a specialty menu.

Located in the old RK Chevrolet building at 616 17th Street at the end of the Expressway, Rogues' Gallery will be open from 7 p.m. until 1 a.m.

The Marvelettes, nationally known recording artists are assisting Torok during his opening week June 17 through Sunday, June 23. The Marvelettes have made popular recordings such as "Here I Am Baby," "Playboy," "Please, Mr. Postman," "Too Many Fish in the Sea," and "Don't Mess With Bill."

Rogues' Gallery will feature decor from the 1930's centered around a "Bonnie and Clyde" theme. Waitresses will wear short, double-breasted uniforms copied from clothing worn by Faye Dunaway, "Bonnie," featured in a national news weekly recently.

Torok will apply for a beer license in order to increase his trade to adults and to enable him to book nationally and internationally known dance bands.

Golden Aged To Have Picnic

The Nemo Golden Age Club of Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church held its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. E. Britt, Princess Anne Station with Mrs. Sara P. Cason presiding. The group sent donations to several clubs and discussed the Philadelphia trip, and the annual picnic to Red Wing Park on July 6.

The Lynnhaven Club met in the home of Mrs. C. Tucker; prayer was offered by the chaplain, Mrs. Lola Morgan; the scripture lesson was by Mrs. Annie Perry. Many members plan to be in the picnic group at Redwing.

The Blackwater group met in Oak Grove Baptist Church. Mrs. Elnora Winston presided. Prayer was offered by the chaplain; scripture lesson was read by Deacon Jessie Mason, Jr. Plans were made for the anniversary to be held the fifth Sunday, June 30 at 3 p.m.

Leaders to Attend Workshop

Fifty Girl Scout leaders from Virginia Beach and Norfolk will attend a three-day Art and Craft Workshop this week (June 19, 20, 21).

Sponsored by Binney & Smith Inc., manufacturers of Crayola crayons and school art supplies, the workshop will be conducted by Mrs. Jane Callaway at the Church of the Ascension, Norfolk.

The participants will spend 15 hours learning about modern creative art education and some of its materials and tools. They will learn by doing: rolling up their sleeves and trying out the techniques presented by Mrs. Callaway.

These techniques will include some of the uses of crayons, water colors, poster paints, finger paints, colored chalks and modeling clay. Simple craft techniques will also be shown giving the participants an opportunity to work with paper, paste and other materials to gain three-dimensional effects.

Locally, workshop arrangements were made by Miss Edith McRobbie, executive director, and Mrs. W.M. Mettler, Jr., program services advisor, of the Girl Scout Council of Greater Tidewater.

Hatchett's Last Meeting Is Brief, Uncomplicated

In sharp contrast to a meeting earlier this month, City Council moved with dispatch through a short and not terribly controversial docket in 38 minutes, then adjourned.

But in that time Council authorized the sale of $1.25 million sewer bonds already approved by voters last January. At that time $18.5 million in various types of bonds were approved, mostly for schools.

In addition Council awarded contracts for two sewer projects. A.C. Pinkston Co. was the low bidder for trunk lines to serve one section of Lakeville Estates, with a $152,722 bid and a Stuart Bolling Co. was low with a bid of $151,360 on another project in the same area. Hampton Roads Sanitation District is expected to pay $200,000 toward the two contracts.

Only one zoning matter came before Council, and it was again deferred. The application of Judy Lowe Miller to operate a restaurant in a new motel on Atlantic Avenue was deferred until a parking facility permit for the restaurant could also be considered in 45 days.

Retiring City Manager W. Russell Hatchett, at his last official meeting, told Council that it would be necessary to appropriate funds for the purchase of Green Run Farms property that the city had hoped to get federal funds for. The application for those funds was withdrawn when it became apparent the city could not get the money with the use it had in mind. Hatchett said he hoped Council could get the money in the future, possibly through a bond issue. The money was appropriated.

The same thing happened to the city when its funds for beautification were cut off. But city officials said the city was prepared to handle both projects alone in the first place before federal funds were dangled before them.

Council also approved a loan of $2,000 to Blackwater Volunteer Fire Dept. for a building addition; a $1,000 loan from the Pungo Improvement fund to Creeds Volunteer Fire Dept.; and a loan of $51,000 to Kempsville Volunteer Fire Dept. for a new engine to be delivered in about a year.

House to Consider Impact Cut

Debate on the cutting in half of federal impact funds should reach the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington within the next few days.

The House Appropriations Committee has recommended halving the funds by placing a national ceiling on the amount that could be received for education of children of parents who work for the federal government but do not live on federal property. The funds for federally-connected students whose parents live on federal property would not be touched.

If the committee's recommendation passes, Virginia would suffer nearly a $15 million loss in impact funds, about $5 million in Tidewater along Virginia Beach has a large number of federally connected students, and has long-counted on the impact funds for education.

Until recently the state had been taking half of the amount given by the federal government for statewide distribution, but this was struck down recently so that localities affected would get all coming to them.

The impact funds were set up about 15 years ago to offset tax losses suffered in localities because federal property is exempt from local taxes and because service-connected families often pay taxes elsewhere.

First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing is fairly optimistic, however, that the full funds can be restored before the bill is passed. He said that last year efforts to restore the funds were successful when major cuts had been recommended. He expects the debate to be lively on the floor of the House.

Retiring City Manager of Virginia Beach, W. Russell Hatchett, long an advocate of full impact funds, fired off a long letter to Virginia's two senators and ten Congressmen last Friday objecting to the cuts and urging their support for obtaining the full funds when the bill reaches the floor.

Scott Moves with City

Monday, July 1, is the day that Roger M. Scott officially takes over his new duties as City Manager of Virginia Beach, although he was named several weeks ago by City Council.

The only major change that Scott plans for that first day is a sweeping one. He will sweep out of his old office at Princess Anne into his new one, the one being vacated by retiring City Manager W. Russell Hatchett. Actually the office is just next door to his present one, so except for his present secretary and his new one, few people will even be aware of the move.

His old office will be utilized about July 15, when David B. Norman, who has just resigned as City Manager of Norfolk, Va., takes over as Scott's assistant.

where also. His new house in Larkspur Forest was just finished, and the family, consisting of wife, Beverly, and two daughters had that move to think about too.

The Army Corps of Engineers will participate on a 50-50 basis on all new material dredged in the trap, depending upon surveys to be made. The commission has authorized plans for a new booster station nearby to handle more material and to pump sand as far north as 28th Street.

The commission's small dredge will continue maintenance work in Rudee Inlet for at least another year, while the large dredge will work 20 hours a week through October to finish cleaning out the sand trap. There is still an estimated 73,000 cubic yards of material to be pumped out.

After the trap is once completely cleaned it is hoped that small shoals will stop forming in the area.

Council accepted the resignation of Sidney S. Kellam as a member of the Ad Board and Civic Center Board with regret. The resignation of L. Stanley Hodges as a member of the Civic Center board was also accepted with regret. No successors were named.

Hatchett turned over the completion reports of the Rudee Inlet projects to Councilmen, which stated how much material had been removed in the dredging project and at what cost.

Then Hatchett thanked Councilmen for their cooperation with him while he served as City Manager. He expressed his appreciation to all department heads and their staffs, whom he called "dedicated people."

"I have nothing but the highest hopes for the future of this city," said Hatchett. "Some have criticized us for not having all the plans necessary, but maybe if we had waited until we had all those plans we wouldn't have gotten everything done we have."

He called his tenure as City Manager a "rewarding experience," and said that he knew he was leaving the job in the "capable hands of Roger Scott."

Mayor Dusch responded on behalf of Council, and wished Hatchett "smooth sailing" in his retirement.

Marina Permit Sought

The Lighthouse Point Corp. has applied to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to construct a marina in Lake Rudee just west of the General Booth Boulevard bridge.

The Virginia Beach Planning Commission and City Council have already approved the marina to be constructed there, along with a large motel, Wayne McCleskey, speaking for the corporation told Council at the time of approval that the marina would be constructed as soon as possible, but that the motel depended on future financing. He hinted that adverse publicity concerning the dredging there had not been helpful.

The Army has sent a notice to all who might be interested in the marina project, and the permit is expected to be issued depending on any effects it would have on navigation, fish and wildlife, conservation, pollution and the general public interest.

Although no public hearing is contemplated on the matter, the engineers have asked that District Engineer no later than July 24.

Meanwhile dredging in Rudee Inlet has received a boost from the federal government. The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission was told at its meeting last week that some federal funds will be available, ending a long wait for that information.

The Erosion Commission receives federal funds for all sand replenishment materials it places along the oceanfront resort area and is pumping this material currently from the Rudee channel and an adjacent sand trap area set up to gather material being pushed in by tides.

The Army Corps of Engineers will participate on a 50-50 basis on all new material dredged in the trap, depending upon surveys to be made. The commission has authorized plans for a new booster station nearby to handle more material and to pump sand as far north as 28th Street.

The commission's small dredge will continue maintenance work in Rudee Inlet for at least another year, while the large dredge will work 20 hours a week through October to finish cleaning out the sand trap. There is still an estimated 73,000 cubic yards of material to be pumped out.

After the trap is once completely cleaned it is hoped that small shoals will stop forming in the area.

Col. Emery Gets Legion of Merit

The Legion of Merit was presented Tuesday to Fort Story's commander, Col. Thomas D. Emery by Maj. Gen. W.N. Redling of the U.S. Army Transportation Center and Fort Eustis-Fort Story.

Col. Emery received the nation's second highest award for outstanding service during the period of August 1965 to July 1966 while serving consecutively as Commanding Officer, 394th Transportation Battalion; Deputy Commander, 4th Transportation Command; and as Chief of Port Operations of the 4th Transportation Command in Saigon.

Col. Emery took command of Fort Story in April 1967. He had been the Secretary of the Army Transportation School at Fort Eustis since his return from Vietnam.

In the Army for almost 25 years, he served in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater during World War II and later with the German occupation forces. Other assignments have been planning officer with the Military Traffic Management Agency in Washington, D.C., with the Navy in water operations at Oakland, Calif., and operations officer for a Nike battalion in Berkeley, Calif.

Friday Is Festival Kick Off

Tomorrow is the big day for the Friends of Music Summer Arts Festival.

Friday, June 28th they will have a day-long ticket "kick-off" at seven locations around Virginia Beach. The Summer Arts Festival, the first sponsored by the group, will run from Aug. 3 through 17.

The campaign will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and orders will be taken for reserved and general admission seats at the following locations: Rose's, Princess Anne Plaza; BaySide Pharmacy, BaySide Shopping Center; Colonial Stores, 31st Street; Hofmeiers, Laskin Road Shopping Center;

Dunes Motor Lodge Reservation, 21st Street and Atlantic Avenue; Clydes Market, Great Neck Road and Shore Drive; and Ingram's Pharmacy, 25th Street.

This first Friends of Music Arts Festival has an impressive array of musical talent featuring international stars Carlos Montoya, Veronica Tyler, William Warfield, and Gary Graffman. They will appear as soloists with the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra. Odette, world renowned folk singer, will be featured in concert.

Outstanding local musical group performing during the Festival are: The Feldman Chamber Music Society, the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus, the Recorder Society of Virginia Beach and the Recorder Consort of Colonial Williamsburg, the Armed Forces School of Music Faculty Band, and for

Council Bypasses Action On Conflict of Interest To Await Developments

It was expected that Vice Mayor Robert Cromwell would suggest to City Council at its meeting Monday that a new committee be set up to study the numerous boards and commissions that operate at the will of City Council.

The matter was not brought up, although it was discussed earlier in executive session. Cromwell had said that he could not find another person on the committee, but that he thought the boards and commissions needed an overhaul. Cromwell was the chairman of the personnel which recommended the abolition of the Police and Trial Board, which has now been done.

Cromwell said that charges of alleged conflicts of interest concerning members of any boards was not the reason he had suggested the study and possible overhaul. He added that many of the groups had been set up before or at the time of merger and may have outlived their usefulness.

Cromwell said after the meeting that his recommendations would come before Council at the next regular meeting, and that some action would probably be taken then.

Meanwhile several Councilmen indicated they are adopting a wait-and-see attitude on published reports in Norfolk newspapers hinting that there may be conflicts concerning members of a large number of boards in Virginia Beach.

The newspapers have not to date named any names, and have not discussed any conflicts in the city of Norfolk on its various boards or conflicts in any other neighboring areas.

Privately some board members in Virginia Beach say they are waiting for a full interpretation by Attorney General Robert Y. Button, several say they are not sure just what the law really intends.

At his request Sidney Kellam was advised that the City Attorney was not certain that he could be judged in conflict of interest for his service on two city boards while holding part of the city's insurance. He resigned to spare any embarrassment.

Councilman Murray Malbon's Jeep agency sold parts to the city amounting to a little over $500 in two years. After this was published in the Norfolk newspaper, he offered to return the money if the matter constituted conflict of interest. His Jeep agency is the only one in Virginia Beach and in some cases, the same parts would have to be ordered from Richmond to avoid using Malbon's agency.

A number of persons, on both political sides of the fence, are waiting to see just how far the matter is going to be pursued, but most feel they are not involved.

No executive session of City Council is scheduled this Monday and several Councilmen have indicated they need more time to study fully the conflict of interest matter before making any comments, possibly at the next regular meeting.

Industrial Growth Keyed to Promotion

The latest information that could help lure industry to Virginia Beach was compiled in 1965, according to a spokesman for the State of Virginia. That information, regarding sites and water and sewer improvements, he said, is outdated, and should be gathered immediately and sent to the state offices.

George D. Delo, director of community development for the State Division of Industrial Development was one of the speakers at the recent meeting of the Virginia Beach Development Council, where the promotion of industrial sites in Virginia Beach was discussed.

Delo, said he feels Virginia Beach has much to offer industry, especially with the amount of open land still left, but added that the image of being merely a seashore resort has to be changed.

He said that advertising and promotion statewide and nationally has prompted this attitude, and that outsiders do not realize the vastness of the city or its potential.

He added that unless the city is ready to develop a full-time staff for promotion and prepared to budget enough money for advertising and entertaining, the wooing of industry would have to rely on such groups as the Tidewater Virginia Development Council and the updating of information concerning the city, to be passed on to prospective industries.

Development Council President E. R. "Dick" Cockrell said later that he will suggest at the next board of directors meeting that the earlier studies be updated.

Another speaker at the meeting, J. Randolph Perrow, manager of the area development program for Vecco, said his company has a full-time staff which bids regularly for new industry in the state. He said the city needs a large budget to promote professionally industrial development, and that ample land should be set aside for industrial sites.

Both publicly and privately city officials have said a number of times recently that the tax base of the city is not large enough when only residences can be counted on for revenue. They have noted a renewed interest in industrial development in the past few months in efforts to bring more money to the city.

Band Festival Names Winners

The Davenport-West High School band from Davenport, Iowa, won out over 16 other high school bands to take first place in the Seventh Annual Virginia Beach Music Festival.

They were invited to return next year as the Honor Band. In addition they received a trophy, medals and arm patches for band members and $10 per band member to help pay expenses.

Second place winner was the Wheeling High School Band from Wheeling, Ill. Blacksburg Warrior Band from Blacksburg, Va., placed third.

'Cool' Crooks Take Cash Instead of Ice

Comstock joined by a security guard Roger Cornett went outside to copy the auto's license number as the car left the parking lot.

Virginia Beach Auxiliary Police chairman William T. McFarland, a federal alcohol and tobacco tax agent, driving past witnessed the taking of the license number and decided the men must be wanted for something and followed them in his car. McFarland heard a broadcast over his police monitor telling of what took place at Miller's as he followed the car through the Thalia section of the city and along Virginia Beach Boulevard.

As the men turned down Independence Boulevard, McFarland decided the time was near at hand to make his move. When the fleeing trio approached the 3rd police precinct McFarland stopped the vehicle and ordered the men from the car.

Police Lt. E. L. Knowles

witnessing the stopping of the car left the precinct building to assist McFarland in taking the men into custody. Police identified the men as Everett Lee Johnson Hayes, 21, William Webster, 22, and John Edward Lee, 25, all of Washington, D. C. Court appearance is pending for the suspects on a charge of grand larceny.

Police officials said the money was recovered and returned to officials of Miller's Department store.

Mrs. Eleanor Hall had just left her register when thieves opened it, took out the money and fled. Later, as she explains what happened, it was business as usual, although she admitted to being a little nervous.

Beach Rescue Squad Honors 3 Members

Three members of the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad were honored for their service during a banquet meeting of the squad at The Cavalier.

John W. Dickens was presented with a plaque honoring him as the "Squadman of the Year." Dickens, who has served with the squad for three years was cited for his contributions to the squad during the past year. Dickens responded to 209 of 2,049 calls received by the squad last year for emergency medical and/or ambulance service; spend countless hours equipping the squad's new medium-duty crash truck which provided emergency lighting and served as a command post for members of the Beach Rescue Squad who were at Great Neck Lake on the night of Sunday, June 9, searching for young Rodney Gray II who drowned in the lake; and was on scene for several hours at the accident in Southern Points resulting in injury to children riding a Frere-Jacque Private School bus.

A large number of men from the Beach Rescue Squad responded to the May 15th Southern Points accident, and by use of two ambulances and the crash truck transported 13 persons, most of them children to regional hospitals, as well as providing first aid to a total of 17 persons who were injured.

Two other members of the squad, O.O. Wade and E. A.

Dickens

Langhorne, were also honored at this meeting for 15 years of active, faithful service to the squad.

The meeting also saw the installation of the newly elected squad officers for the coming year, which included C. Talbot Dickson, capt.; William C. Eagan, 1st lt.; J.M. McDonald, 2nd lt.; D. Wilmont Owens, plans and training; L. Ray Meekins, sgt.; R.A. Hodges, Jr., sec.; Richard G. Tilghman, treas.; Peter A. Agelasto, III, public relations; Meade G. Stone, chaplain; Frank J. Gallagher, Dr. W.A. Dickinson and J.R. McKenry, advisory officers; John H. Burt, D.L. Warren, Jr. and F.K. McCrene, as medical officers; and Dr. J. F. Charlton, H.F. McNeal, Jr., and B.G. Murphy, members at large.

Sailor of Month Named

Yeoman J.C. George D. Duvall, attached to the Naval Air Station Oceana/Air Operations department has been chosen Sailor of the Month for June. YN3 Duvall was selected on the basis of his outstanding performance evaluations, military and professional knowledge, training and advancement accomplishments and ability of self-expression and off-duty achievements.

P.O. Duvall was graduated from Churchill High School, Portsmouth, Va., in June 1965. The following September he enrolled at Old Dominion College as a business administration major. After completion of his first year, he decided to join the Navy.

He reported aboard the station on May 11, 1967 and began work in the station Administration Building as a yeoman striker. Last October he joined the staff of the Air Operations administration department.

Circus Imports Act

Imported from South America exclusively for the 1968 edition of the all-new Hamid-Morton big three-ring circus are the Fartans, a flying act which will be opening with the circus June 27 at the Princess Anne High School Stadium.

The circus, which runs through June 30, will include two performances daily: matinees at 2:30 p.m., with evening performances starting at 8:30 p.m., with the exception of Sunday, June 30, when the evening show will begin at 6:30 p.m.

With a repertoire of passovers, double somersaults, full twisters and other tricks, the Fartans are unique among flying trapeze performers in that they have a clown working European fashion with them, interspersing comedy with the flying routine.

The Hamid-Morton circus includes an international line-up of talent, with the Les Block family of France performing on the high wire, George A. Hamid's group of trained elephants and Miss Gee Gee Engesser's trained Alaskan huskies among the several acts that will perform at each showing.

Students Tour

Students from the Virginia Beach area were welcomed to the Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center last week by Commanding Officer, Capt. Stuart Sadler.

The 14 students are participating in the Youth Opportunity Campaign (YOC), recently launched in the Tidewater Area. The campaign places youths in part-time summer employment positions with the U. S. Civil Service.

Wesleyan Announces New Dean.

Dr. Garry D. Hays, asst. vice president for academic affairs at St. Cloud State College, Minn., has been named dean at Virginia Wesleyan College.

A native of Dodge City, Kan., the new Virginia Wesleyan dean received his undergraduate degree from Southwest College in Kansas and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in history from the University of Kansas. His major research area at Kansas was American history to 1829. Dr. Hays has had teaching experience at Southwest College, at the University of Kansas, and at St. Cloud State College.

Dr. Hays, 32, is the author of a number of articles in professional journals and has presented papers at several national and regional conferences.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Hays, Pres. Lambuth M. Clarke said: "We are very pleased to have secured the services of Dr. Hays who has had valuable experience in the field of academic affairs. We feel that he has the qualifications to build on the foundation which has been established here and to develop innovative and experimental programs within our liberal arts curriculum."

Dr. Hays will assume his new duties in July. He will teach one class in history in addition to his administrative duties. In his new position, he succeeds Dr. Douglas T. Holden.

In his announcement concerning the new dean, Pres. Clarke indicated that Douglas E. McIntyre, assistant professor of mathematics at Virginia Wesleyan, will assume additional duties as Director of Student Activities for the 1968-69 academic session.

Working with the dean's office McIntyre will coordinate student activities and will serve as chairman of the faculty-student discipline committee. He will direct the freshman orientation program and will work closely with the student government. McIntyre is a retired Naval officer with degrees from the U. S. Naval Academy and Duke University. He has been a member of the Virginia Wesleyan faculty since the College opened in September 1966.

Pres. Clarke has also announced eight other fulltime faculty appointments for next fall. Seven of the eight have Ph.D. degrees, or are currently candidates for the doctorate.

Dr. Robert S. Hufstader has been appointed professor of chemistry; Dr. Lucile K. Delano professor of Romance Languages; L. Anderson Orr joins the English department as an assistant professor; Dr. William R. Shealy, Jr., professor of Religion and Philosophy; Dr. D. Barry Lipscomb associate professor of psychology; Dr. Stephen Mansfield, assistant professor of history; Samuel K. Gilmore joins the biology faculty as an assistant professor; and Frederick W. Patterson becomes associate professor of mathematics.

The new faculty appointments are effective Sept. 1.

Virginia Wesleyan College is now offering freshman and sophomore level courses, Junior level work will be added in September 1968. A total enrollment of approximately 350, including about 100 evening students, is expected in September.

Phones to Take Over Work in Future

Two more pushbuttons are being added to the Touch-Tone telephones to get ready for the world of tomorrow, according to L. Floyd Patrick manager of the Virginia Beach office of Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia.

There will be 12 pushbuttons instead of 10. The additional two buttons are marked with an asterisk (*) and the others with a number signature (1). For the time being, they will have no function. However, when some of the future Touch-Tone services become available, the two new buttons can be made operative.

The twelve pushbutton Touch-Tone phone set will eventually replace all the ten button sets now in use. This new pushbutton set was designed by Bell Telephone Laboratories and manufactured by the Western Electric Company.

Touch-Tone calling, because of what engineers term its end-to-end signaling characteristic that will make possible such things as banking by phone, querying distant computers and getting answers and remote control of electrical appliances in the home.

By punching out a code on a Touch-Tone telephone at his office, for example, a businessman will be able to check computerized inventories of his merchandise, or a bank clerk can adjust accounts by tapping out information that his Touch-Tone set will feed into a centralized store of bank data.

Some of these things can be done now. Many more custom-designed services will be available in the future. The two new buttons will be used to operate these new services. The shopping housewife, for example, might dial her home number and then push the asterisk button to start her electric oven.

Eventually, optional Touch-Tone service will be available to all telephone customers. The equipment necessary to make Touch-Tone operative is gradually being added to long established communications centers and all new centers where practical.

Gail Romangnolo, service representative for the Virginia Beach office of Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. holds one of the new 12-button pushbutton phones, soon to replace the 10-button models.

New Wedgewood Tragedy Has Possibilities, Needs Cutting

Wedgewood Theatre in Tacon is presenting a new and untried tragic vehicle by a young writer, Anthony Grabowski. The play, "The Warmth of Winter," while it has a lot to say and while it bares much raw emotion, is often too wordy and leaves something to be desired, possibly because it is too crammed with unnecessary details.

The story of a young couple, immigrants from Poland, and before their time, the play appears to be largely autobiographical and contains too much detail. The woman, Marysha, was a young, life-loving farm girl when a wealthy, aristocrat married her because she was going to bear their love-child.

The Count was immediately disowned by his family, but only through their apparent love for each other, they survive the horrible times and immigrate to America where he dreams passionately of returning home to his family, his title and his social position.

His adjustment of the mental jobs he must accept in the 1930's is poor and often open to ridicule of his neighbors, and the audience is aware from the beginning that he will never make it home, even before his brother arrives with the news of the demise of the family and its position in aristocracy.

It is at this point that the play finally gets around to its true plot. His dream smashed, he tells his wife he never loved her and only married her because of honor. This obviously changes her vivaciousness and often demonstrative show of love to bitterness and hate. The problem seems to be that the playwright repeats the love-hate relationship scenes over and over, long after the audience is aware of what he is trying to say about the theme.

On opening night the play was about 30 minutes too long, but director Paul Iddings, cut it somewhat after that. Actually it could use a great deal of judicious cutting, not only of extremely wordy scenes, but of a good deal of the action with some of the minor characters. Sheared to proper length, it is more likely that this story of a family destined to suffer tragedy and indignity upon indignity would be more poignant and have more to say. If the author and Wedgewood plan to take this play on to larger venues, it must be reworked. Some comedy relief may also be needed because of the emotion-laden scenes.

Fortunately the Wedgewood production is blessed with the marvelous acting of Claudine Iddings as Marysha. Her sensitive characterization of the immature, deeply passionate woman turned disillusioned and bitter is outstanding, especially in the final scene where the love-hate theme culminates.

Larry L. Claster, as the disillusioned, daydreaming count turned mental laborer gives a good performance of the sometimes cruel and bitter, sometimes protective and loving husband and father, but falls short of creating the imposing character the Count must be.

Ron Reid and Carolee Silcox portray her brother and sister-in-law and both do workmanlike jobs with unclear written character. Reid makes the most of the emotion-laden scenes he has, but Miss Silcox is forced by her role to underplay. Her age is never quite clear, but her walk is like a woman of 80.

The three children in the play, Kyle Iddings, Johnny Ward and Terry Hutchens, shine and their roles are well-written. Young Iddings does an excellent job with a beautifully written and poignant role.

Roby Brown, as one of the uncouth neighbors deserves special mention also for his all-too-clear characterization so reminiscent of "A Streetcar Named Desire," Paul Iddings, as the Count's club-footed and bitter brother also does a fine job in a cameo role.

Rounding out the cast are Sherri Reid, Billie Gene Lager, Bob Hutchinson, Leroy McFarland and Bruce Walker.

The author has the beginnings of a fine play here, and after it is tightened considerably he will long remember it had its world premiere in the capable hands of the Wedgewood players, HJL

Brazilian Mayor Visits Beach

Edmar Fetter, mayor of Pelotas, Brazil, one of that country's largest cities (with a population of 240,000), and the principal owner of the newspaper "Diario Popular," paid a visit to Mayor Frank Dusch's office this week to talk over forms of city government and fishing, among other things.

Pelotas, located at the mouth of a lake in the extreme south of Brazil, is similar to Tidewater in its harbor facilities, and is close to Norfolk in population.

Fetter, an official guest of the state department, was accompanied on his trip by John Mein, a department of State escort-interpreter. The purpose of his United States visit was to examine at first hand the efforts, being made in the United States to improve working relations between the local, county and state governments in solving common problems.

One of his chief interests was in seeing how municipal problems are treated and overcome, and the administrative techniques utilized in that process. An avid fisherman, Fetter compared pictures of prize catches with Mayor Dusch and admitted that the fishing and boating in the Beach area were two of the things that drew him to the area.

Mayor Dusch explained the 11-man City Council and City Manager administrative system in Virginia Beach, while Fetter explained that in Pelotas, his council consists of 18

The finals of the Virginia Jaycees Tennis Tournament today at Princess Anne High School, with the final matches for the four singles divisions expected to be completed by early afternoon.

Local tennis tournaments have been sponsored in this city by the Jaycees since 1959. This year for the first time, the state finals have been brought to the Beach for play, largely through the efforts of Virginia Beach Jaycee Jack Garnett, chairman of the tournament.

The tourney attracted netters from Roanoke, Richmond, Lynchburg, Suffolk, Danville, Williamsburg, South Boston, Arlington, Norfolk, Charlottesville and Portsmouth.

Virginia Beach young people entered in the four competitive divisions of the tournament are Talbot Jordan, 18, entered in the 18-and-under; Sylvia Baldwin, 14, in the 16-and-under; Linda Koch, 17, in the 18-and-under; John MacDonald, 17, in the 18-and-under and Ray Garrison, 15, in the 16-and-under.

Miss Jordan was first runner-up in last year's Jaycees' 18-and-under division. Her teammate from the Norfolk Academy team Mary Hotchkiss, is another tournament entrant

NORFOLK PORTSMOUTH VIRGINIA BEACH

Council Concerned About Pedestrians

From the time you begin to walk, you're a pedestrian. Not everyone is able or wants to drive; but you are a pedestrian. And Thursday, June 20, at the luncheon meeting of the Virginia Beach Safety Council, members learned there is more to being a pedestrian than just walking across the street.

E. Wallace Timmons, director of traffic safety for the Tidewater Automobile Association and guest speaker, said that most pedestrian fatalities do not occur in the Beach Borough; instead, the accidents are prevalent in the quiet residential areas. These accidents do not happen while children are either going to or returning from school; rather, after they come home, then go out to play.

Unfortunately, they choose the streets to play in and not the local recreation areas. Timmons continued that the National Safety Council declares that the few weeks preceding the Christmas holidays are the most disastrous concerning pedestrian fatalities. This is true in our area, although one would think the summer when both residents and tourists spend time at the beach would be much more hazardous.

Timmons gave six steps necessary for a successful pedestrian safety program in Virginia Beach.

1. Identification of pedestrian accident data. Percentages from pedestrian interview reports are needed. The only city now doing this is Hampton.

2. Land-use planning. The zoning and planning commission should initiate a plan of separation for vehicles and pedestrians, possibly using overhead walkways.

3. A program of driver education concerning pedestrian safety by utilizing the news media to alert drivers of pedestrian limitations and problems. As an example, a Federal grant was allocated to Georgia kindergartens to instruct pedestrian safety. Timmons added a note, "Virginia Beach has driver improvement schools, but nowhere is there a pedestrian safety school. Pedestrians violating laws would be sent to one as part of the sentence."

4. News media should be employed to make drivers and pedestrians aware of laws and responsibilities.

5. Greater protection of children at play. This will be accomplished only when children play in supervised recreation areas, not in the streets.

One step forward is being made now by the Green Run development. This is the first area where Planned Unit Development (PUD) is in effect, allowing the separation of vehicle and pedestrian movement. This feature in good planning should be a requirement for all residential areas.

A lot is heard about drinking and driving, but few realize that drinking and walking don't mix either. In California in 1966, 66 per cent of the pedestrian deaths had been intoxicated. In addition, urban deaths have increased. The highest number of fatalities occur during the dark hours; fewer accidents happen only when street lighting is improved.

Highlights: Mrs. Philip L. Russo made a motion that the water safety committee begin studying proposed legislation requiring small boat operators to be licensed by the state. Mrs. Russo also displayed the Award of Merit presented to the eight clubs in the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs for their 1968 Symposium on Safety. Projects committee chairman Richard Gormley presented the sketch for the double-faced sign showing high-way fatalities for past and current years with reflective and removable numerals to be placed at a corner on Independence and Virginia Beach boulevards.

Rep. Downing Favors Some Gun Restraints

First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing said his mail had been extremely heavy concerning gun control legislation.

He said that it had been overwhelmingly for controls at first, but later turned into "baskets-full" stating that present laws are adequate. Downing added that he thought a good deal of the later mail came in response to the National Rifle Association request to its members to give Congress their story.

While Downing said that the "Constitution gives the right to own a gun, he did favor some form of restrictive legislation, but did not to the point of confiscation or other harsh measures.

Downing was also in favor of closing Resurrection City at the deadline last Sunday night.

He said that it had served its purpose and that he did not see how the deadline for moving out could be extended. While on the way out of Washington Thursday night by car, Downing and a large number of motorists were held up for sometime by rioters from the plywood city, which was finally cleared Monday.

Downing did not take part in the "Solidarity Day" parade of the "poor people" last week, although all members of Congress were invited by Sterling Tucker, head of the event.

The Congressman noted he had been very busy with committee meetings and House matters.

WVAB Returns After Repairs

Technical difficulties forced Radio Station WVAB of Virginia Beach off the air Monday and Tuesday of this week, but operations were resumed yesterday.

The frequency modulator had to be replaced, and the closest spot where it could be purchased was in Quincy, Ill. It was ordered immediately after the failure.

The first replacement part arrived Tuesday morning, but was broken. Another was sent and was installed late Tuesday night shortly after it arrived, according to Jack Harris, general manager and executive director of the station.

Harris said he regretted the inconvenience to regular listeners of WVAB.

Sales Tax Up

Effective July 1, the general sales and use tax for the state of Virginia goes up to 3 per cent. Combined with Virginia Beach's one per cent local sales and use tax, a total of four per cent sales and use tax will be effective as of that date.

BADGES & BANTER

The annual Virginia Beach "Policemen's Ball" will be held the night of July 19 at the Virginia Beach Civic Center. This year's dance will feature entertainment by "The Main Street Singers" from California. Admission to the dance is $5 a couple. Tickets may now be obtained from any police officer or at any of the police precincts, as well as at the door the night of the dance.

Tuesday's game for the Princess Anne F.O.P. Lodge softball team was a big one for the team as they defeated men of the Norfolk police precincts by a score of 14 to 2. Lt. Clyde Hathaway, Jr. hit home runs in three of his four times at bat. The team had five home runs for the night with Sgt. Carl West and officer George Ball each collecting one homer. The team also won Monday's game by defeating the Norfolk police K-9 Corps by a score of 10 to 9. These two wins give the team standing of three wins and two losses, and places them in a tie for first place with the Norfolk K-9 Corps team. The next game is scheduled for Monday, July 1 at 7 p.m. on the Industrial Park diamond.

While Lt. E. L. Knowles, attached to 2nd Police Precinct, may be a neophyte at the game of golf he is fast becoming a "pro" when it comes to selecting equipment. Reliable sources say Knowles has outfitted himself with a new set of "matched-registered" clubs. Although secrecy surrounds the price Knowles paid for his "steel," we understand the figure has left several of the precinct's seasoned golfers in a shocked state of disbelief.

Several new names have been added to the Virginia Beach Police Department roster this week. J. G. Malesky has been assigned to the 3rd precinct along with W. L. Deanes, who was formerly with the Norfolk department. A. E. Snow has returned to duty with the department after a short absence and has been assigned to duty in the communications center.

A member of the Virginia Beach Shore Patrol Detachment, who for obvious reasons has received the title of "Ships Carpenter," Senior CPO George C. Queen says the "carpenter" offered to replace several guide line eye bolts which came loose along the upper railings of his boat, and wanting to do a good job he secured them to the bottom of Queen's craft with several, good sized nails. Queen says he is sure his craft should not be dry docked too long for the patching and sealing of the holes to make the vessel water tight again.

Concert Is Tonight

"A Military Salute to Tidewater" will be held for the public today, June 27 at Fort Monroe at 8 p.m. and July 3 at the Norfolk Civic Center Plaza at 8:30 p.m.

The two musical concerts will feature a combined band from those of the Atlantic Fleet headquarters, the Continental Army Command, and the Tactical Air Command. This concert is unique in that it will feature musicians from each of the three units in one large concert band.

Although the basic theme is patriotic, the program will highlight concert band literature including Hector Berlioz's "Roman Carnival Overture" and the Finale from Dvorak's "Fifth Symphony." On the lighter side, there will be selections from Jerry Herman's Broadway hit "Mame."

Clash Rehashed

John F. Rixey and Frederick T. "Bingo" Stant are seeking the Democratic nomination for the 2nd Congressional District seat vacated by long-time legislator Porter Hardy. The 2nd District encompasses only Norfolk and Portsmouth, but deny it or not, a prominent Virginia Beach citizen seems to figure in the campaign.

After both Stant and Democratic National Committeeman Sidney S. Kellam denied that Kellam was supporting Stant, Rixey continued to hammer away at Kellam's alleged "interference" in the 2nd District race.

Kellam issued a statement saying that he had not been contacted by Stant or any of Stant's forces for support, but said that Rixey had asked for his support a year ago and had made a substantial contribution to a team of candidates Kellam was supporting. Rixey allegedly now is supporting the political efforts of the anti-Kellam forces in Virginia Beach.

Stant said he never asked for Kellam's support and noted that they had most often been on opposite sides of the political fence.

All of this occurred more than a week ago, but was brought out again on a televised debate between the two candidates on WAVE-TV, Channel 10 last Sunday. Rixey again charged that Kellam was "interfering in the 2nd District race," and said he had not sought Kellam's support at all. He added Kellam's statement on that matter arose over Kellam's "confusion" when three of Rixey's friends asked him to stay out of the matter.

Stant then hit at Rixey to name the three friends. Other matters, including national and international affairs were also discussed in the debate.

Two more debates between the same two men are scheduled, the next on July 9, on Channel 3, WTAR-TV.

Following the first clashover Kellam, Stant charged that the two local newspapers in Norfolk were "editorializing against him" and were "covering up for his opponent."

Traffic Doubles at Ends of Expressway

Traffic on 21st and 22nd streets in Virginia Beach Borough has more than doubled now that the summer season has officially opened in the resort area.

Reeves Johnson, the city's traffic safety director, said that traffic on the two streets combined between December and May averaged between five and six thousand vehicles a day.

Last weekend, an average of 6,433 came into the borough on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway into 21st Street and 5,233 left the borough on 22nd Street onto the expressway, for a total of 12,956.

Johnson had predicted that about 10,000 cars would use the two streets during the summer, but his estimate has proved to be low. Nearly 20,000 vehicles a day are using the expressway at some points.

"And with the weather like it is, there's no reason that July shouldn't be a lot better, especially with more and more people finding out about the expressway," said Johnson.

Traffic has been so heavy in fact, that a new traffic signal had to be added at 21st and Atlantic Avenue to help motorists just coming into the borough in addition warning signal lights were added at Arlette Avenue.

Speed has not been a great problem on the two streets, according to Johnson. He said most motorists were respecting the limits there. Meanwhile no major tieups have been reported on Virginia Beach Boulevard on weekends, in contrast to the past two years.

Rotarians Hold Annual Meeting

Virginia Beach Rotarians will host their annual dinner meeting tonight, June 27, at the Capes Motel, beginning with a social hour at 6 p.m. Dinner will follow at 7 p.m.

T. Roy Grubbs, district governor of Rotary, will install the officers for the coming year: James Williams, president; John Krueger, vice president; Waldo Mowen, treasurer; and George McGuire, secretary.

Three new directors will also officially begin their one-year terms tomorrow night. They are William Brown, Pat Ridges and Dean Lee.

Surfers

From Camp Pendleton to Rudee Inlet there is no surfing authorized between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. from May 15 to Sept. 1. It is open the rest of the year.

In recent weeks an increasing number of violations of surfing have occurred. Members of the Virginia Beach police department are doing everything possible to keep swimmers and other persons from areas designated for surfing to allow those of you who wish to surf to do so in safety. However, police officials request the same courtesy be shown to those who just wish to swim or enjoy the beach, and therefore will necessarily issue summons to those who violate existing surfing boundaries and/or other regulations governing the sport in Virginia Beach.

July 4 Fireworks Planned

The biggest fireworks display of the season will mark the Independence Day observance at Seaside Amusement Park, on Thursday, July 4.

Presented on the park's oceanfront at 10 p.m., the display will feature the latest creations in breath-taking aerial shells and brilliant animated ground displays.

"The Great Lamar," high trapeze acrobat, is currently the free circus act at Seaside Park, with free performances of tumbling, swinging, somersaulting, pole-swinging and other daring acrobatic accomplishments, twice daily at 2:30 and 10 p.m., on the park's outdoor stage.

During the holiday week of July 1-7, there will be only one "teen dance night" at the park's "Frolics Room."

That will be held on Monday, July 1, from 7:30 p.m. to 12 midnight, with only soft drinks sold that night.

The dance spot will not hold its regular twice-weekly "teen dance night" Thursday, July 4, due to the large number of tourists expected at the resort area during the holiday.

"The Soul Hustlers," will be on the bandstand at the "Frolics Room," for the entire week of July 1 to 7, playing for continuous dancing from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. closing on Thursday, July 4. Saturday, July 6, and Sunday, July 7. They will alternate with a second band during these three days of 14-hour holiday dance sessions. Regular hours, 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., will prevail on Friday night, July 5.

All beach activities, refreshment stands, and free sheltered picnic area will be in operation at 8 a.m. daily from July 4 to 7. The park's ride mid-way will open July 4 at 11 a.m., and July 5, 6 and 7 at 12 noon.

Admission to Seaside Amusement Park is free.

Russell Hatchett: A Man Dedicated to a City

By Joseph Lowenthal Jr.

History will probably prove that William Russell Hatchett, Sr., was actually ahead of his time.

Long before Lady Bird ever thought about planting trees, he worked diligently to beautify Virginia Beach and tried to interest officialdom everywhere to join in.

His anti-litter campaigns of years past came long before the problem was ever fully recognized.

He is extremely proud of a citation on his wall from Hampton Roads Sanitation District for his efforts in getting anti-pollution legislation through baring oil being dumped near beaches...many years before water and air pollution were ever considered a real problem.

He wrote to Sen. John Kennedy in 1960, saying that he expected him to be the next President, and that he should consider a system of two-year junior colleges across America to meet the increasing demands of education. Another suggestion in the letter was for a system of limited access arterial highways across this nation. The letter went unanswered, one of the few times "Cap'n Russell" did not get an answer to his many letters to the greats and near greats, but Interstate highways and junior colleges came into being a few years later.

Russell Hatchett almost pulled off one of the greatest coups ever heard of for Virginia Beach. He almost brought the United Nations Headquarters to Cape Henry. Site of the first landing by English colonists in this country.

He still has a file of correspondence several inches thick on the matter. He was working with the State of Virginia to give up part of Seashore State Park, with the U. S. Army to give up part of Fort Story, with the governments of the Tidewater cities and counties, with the State Department and the Secretary of State, and with notables from all over the world.

He almost did it, but when things were looking really good, suddenly New York won. But Russell Hatchett had brought national recognition to Virginia Beach and he had almost pulled off the trick of the century. Russell Hatchett was born 65 years ago in Yanceyville, N.C. He was educated at Trinity Park Preparatory School and Trinity College now called Duke University.

He moved to Norfolk in 1925 where he was in the shipping business. In the early 1930's he moved to Virginia Beach, which he loved immediately after coming to the area. A friendly man, several people suggested he might be interested in politics, and in 1938 he defeated the incumbent, Edward Woodhouse, for the job of treasurer of the town of Virginia Beach, then a tiny hamlet on the oceanfront.

"It was a slow-moving small town then," he said. "And it was just a nice place to live. I remember that first budget I worked with was about a quarter of a million dollars." (The budget this year is about $36 million.)

He had another reason for liking Virginia Beach too. In 1925 he was stationed at Camp

Ing because of "political reasons."

"The political pot was really boiling at that time, and I ran against the Organization for the State Senate," said Hatchett. "I lost when Jack Etheridge was elected in 1951."

He went into private business in Virginia Beach with real estate and insurance, but was too late; politics was in his blood.

In 1952 he announced for Governor of Virginia. Although he

From 1955 to the consolidation of Princess Anne County and the city of Virginia Beach he served in that position, then became the first City Manager of the giant city, with all its giant problems of growth.

It has been said many times that Sidney Kellam put the merger together, and Russell Hatchett made it work. He chuckles every time he hears it.

Russell Hatchett is really a modest man, but he considers himself a professional City Manager, having served in so many elected and appointive positions before taking over the large city of Virginia Beach.

He never played favorites in his tenure of office. He even gave up his poker, gin rummy and bridge games with "the boys" while City Manager so that he couldn't be accused of any favoritism. He admits the job can sometimes be "the loneliest job in the city."

He faced many problems in his time, from whales washing up on the beach, too many pigeons flying over, the tragic Ash Wednesday storm, and too little money for improvements but his door was always open. His phone rang often, and he answered a lot of mail, always fully.

He is greatly concerned for the future of Virginia Beach with the continuing growth but he is happy to see the city in the "capable hands of my friend, Roger Scott."

"Probably my greatest concern has been in trying to effect a good and fair water contract with Norfolk. I hoped to work it out before I retired, but it didn't work out that way," said Hatchett. "A fair proposal is now being considered, but it won't be consummated in the newspapers. Everyone will hear about it when it's settled."

The Hatchetts plan to relax a lot and travel a little, even back to Norway where he had so many happy memories representing the city of Virginia Beach at the dedication of their own Norwegian Lady.

He signs his letters... "For peace". And that's just what Russell Hatchett stands for.

His successor, Roger M. Scott takes over the reins on Monday. He had this to say about his former boss:

"It's going to be a really tough job to follow as dedicated, capable and vivacious a man as Russell Hatchett. His guidance, training and leadership over the past three years will be invaluable to me beginning Monday and for the rest of my career. It has been an honor and a pleasure to work for and with such an outstanding gentleman and public servant."

What finer words could bring to a close a third of century of service?

"Miss Lucy" has been at his side ever since. "Nobody ever had a nicer gal," he said with a broad smile.

The Hatchetts had three children, two sons and a daughter. William Russell, Jr., is assistant district manager of the Ford Motor Company at Chamblee, Ga., near Atlanta. Ambler, also with Ford, lives in Virginia Beach, as does daughter Martha, now Mrs. Hugh E. Owens, Jr. There are nine grandchildren.

His wife said, "You could call Russell Mr. Virginia Beach. He's got sand in his shoes. He loves Virginia Beach. It's been my only rival since we've been married."

Hatchett was re-elected for another term as treasurer without opposition and then was elected Commissioner of Revenue for two terms of Princess Anne County and the town of Virginia Beach. He resigned to become the first Town Manager of Virginia Beach in 1950 when the town adopted the Council-Manager form of government.

He served in that capacity for a short time before resign-withdrew before the primary he became known statewide.

It is ironic that the majority of his platform planks have now been adopted. He was against the poll tax. He wanted increased teacher salaries. He proposed a commission to attract industry to Virginia. He opposed a toll system of highways. He proposed a broader mental health and hospital program. All have come to pass. He says he was never really a crusader, but that things affected him more intensely when he was young.

"Age has a lot of compensations," he said. "Even ten years ago I might have gotten more involved and blown up more about some things. Time is on my side now."

While he had been town manager he had been active in charities too. He organized the first Community Chest for Virginia Beach and was its first chairman. When he was out of politics he had more time to devote to scouting, where he had always been quite active, and to bowling. He was once on a championship bowling team and won several trophies.

He stayed in private business until he resolved his differences with the Organization and in 1955 became the City Manager of Virginia Beach, then large enough to be a city.

"I was glad to be back," he admitted. "I had really been like a fish out of water."

Letters to the Editor

Crime Will Be

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

It seems that nearly every day we read about the innocent public, and police being accused and on trial, and, not, not, repeat, the criminal element??

One question that always seems to be bypassed when asked, is this when a man discovers an intruder, criminal, would be rapist, attacking members of his family, inside, repeat, inside of his home, what should this man do? Should he protect his family by using any means at his disposal? Or, should he let the criminal do what he may? Then tell him about his rights? Then pick-up the phone and call the police? Sounds ridiculous doesn't it? But, can anyone say this is not coming to pass?

There is so much emphasis on the control of "guns" all of a sudden, but, the truth of the matter is, that, for years now "people" have been murdered in their homes by criminals without "guns" in their hands. Criminals will be what they are, no matter what they use to do their dirty work.

Sincerely

Walter Farrar
New York, N.Y.

The courtesy and consideration by the Virginia Beach Police shown motorists who require emergency service on our streets and highways deserves special praise by our local citizens.

The Virginia Beach Police are doing a fine job in this busy tourist season and I feel it only deserving to praise them since all the newspapers seem to stress police brutality and print only the faults of the police.

Law and order will be enforced but courtesy and consideration are big factors in getting citizens support and I feel the Virginia Beach Police are entitled to full support by our citizens.

George B. Harper

In Praise of Police

Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN:

This letter is to express my appreciation for the excellent police department that we have here in Virginia Beach, Va. Charges of police brutality are heard in our neighboring cities but we have no such complaints here.

A Cheering Report

The following is part of the NEWS REPORT FROM THE UNIVERSITY, published by the University of Virginia. It discusses a timely problem and what has been done so far in Virginia about it.

For most Americans summer is traveling time, whether it means transporting children to camp, taking an extended family vacation or just heading for the nearest beach or lake for a week end.

They are aware that the pleasures of summer travel are tempered with the chill of statistics recounting highway mishaps, and they sometimes wonder if it's wiser to buckle your seat belt and hope for the best, or just stay home.

Safety-minded Virginians should be cheered by a report from Hiram M. Smith Jr., director of public information for the Governor's Highway Safety Committee. It is probable, says Smith, that the 1968 General Assembly produced more effective highway traffic legislation than any of its predecessors.

His report appears as the current News Letter from the Institute of Government at the University of Virginia. Smith feels that the important legislation was inspired by three factors: The U.S. Highway Safety Act of 1966 which offered more than 100 recommendations for traffic safety action; the report of the Virginia Traffic Safety Study Commission of November, 1967; and Virginia's record death toll on the highways in the same year.

Spurred on by these examples, the legislators introduced 57 bills to carry out the traffic study commission's proposals, dealing with topics ranging from the drinking driver and the habitual offender to bills dealing with truck and motorcycle safety.

The result is a general tightening up of traffic control in Virginia. Smith comments on changes governing the use of radar, the new automobile safety requirements and provisions for a trial period for the use of studied tires on Virginia highways. As of 1969 all commercial driver schools must be licensed. He outlines the "extensive" changes in laws relating to the licensing of drivers:

"Under the new statutes, the renewal of a license will require a personal appearance, an eye test and a written test of the rules of the road."

Changes made in one existing law now make the statute a "True Good Samaritan act," says Smith. It now "provides that no one acting in good faith and without compensation who renders emergency aid at the scene of a crash or while enroute to a medical facility can be held for civil damages."

Other important action by the General Assembly, says Smith, "was the establishment of a Highway Safety Division in the Governor's office to take over the existing duties of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee." The new division is authorized to apply for aid benefits under the Federal act and to initiate highway traffic safety research.

Smith is encouraged by the General Assembly's contribution to the State's safety program, "with two major exceptions, these being failure to act on the very serious problem of driving while intoxicated and to put strength into a rather weak improper driving law."

The 1968 General Assembly failed to grapple with the controversial implied consent law that was passed in 1962 and was "riddled with so many loopholes for defendants that it proved to be almost completely unworkable," writes Smith. He acknowledges that the amendments of 1964 and 1966 did strengthen the law. But he emphasizes there is a need to reduce to .10 per cent the presumptive level of intoxication (the per cent of alcohol by weight in the blood considered to indicate intoxication).

The legislators retained the presumptive level at .15 per cent. "The state of Utah and Great Britain, in fact, use .08 per cent as the presumptive level," says Smith. Most medical authorities, he says, feel that the Virginia level is too high.

SPOTS

By H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr.

"I never thought you'd get here," she said, obviously quite irritated. "Do you realize we've been waiting nearly two hours for you?"

"I'm sorry as I can be," he said in his best apologetic tone, "but we were 25 miles out in the ocean and I couldn't get out and walk on the water like you think I should be able to, even if it was smooth as glass out there. And incidentally I..." She cut him off with, "We'll, you should have started in sooner. You said you would be here at five and it's seven."

"I'm sorry," he said again. "But those bluefish out there don't tell time too well and we couldn't come back with no fish. The first one didn't bite until after three. And you should see..."

She cut him off again. "It's been terribly hot here, and there's no shade. Both the children had to have water, and there's no drinking fountain here. And both of them had to go to the bathroom, and there's no rest rooms here."

"Okay, I won't do it again," he said. "Next time I'll swim in without regard to personal safety. You know there are sharks in those waters. Now, come on over here, they have to weigh..."

She did it again. "And to make it worse I thought the baby was coming this morning with you out in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean."

"Did it?"

"Of course not, but it could have and you out there relaxing," she said.

"It's not all relaxing, you know, especially when you try to pull in one of those big blues, and the one that I..."

"Well, since you're back now, all I can do is fuss, I suppose. The damage is already done," she said in her most tragic manner.

"What else is new?" he asked.

"We're getting company over the Fourth of July...six people... your friends," she said.

"How nice," he said sarcastically. "Why don't we feed them part of that beautiful big citation bluefish I caught this afternoon?"

"Oh? You caught a fish? Why didn't you tell me?" she asked.

"Well, I started to mention it a couple of times," he said, "but I didn't think you'd be interested."

"Is that it there?" she asked, looking at the fish lying on the ground with a little blood still leaking out where the gaff went in.

"Yes," he said proudly. "Isn't it beautiful, all 15 pounds of it."

"Who's going to clean it?"

"We are."

"Who's we?" she asked.

"You and me" he said. All we have to do is scale it, slit it down the middle gut it, wash the bloody mess away and fillet it."

"I think I'm going to be ill," she said. "If you think I'll touch that thing, you've lost your ever-lovin' mind."

"How will you cook it?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," she said. "I've never cooked fish, and besides the kids and I don't even like it."

He picked up his prize catch, looked at it lovingly, then tossed it in the trunk of the car.

"Let's go home," he said. "Next time I go fishing, I'll try to catch a chicken."

Russell Hatchett, City Manager

As of this Sunday, the city of Virginia Beach loses the official services of W. Russell Hatchett as City Manager. Not only does this end an era for this city but it also brings to a close the particularly brilliant career of a dedicated public servant.

In his retirement we have little doubt that Mr. Hatchett will never be able to relax completely, so strong is his feeling for this city and his intense desire to see it flourish.

No doubt every time he hears of a complaint about his city or the denial of federal funds or even about a much-needed improvement he will still feel like dashing off a letter or a telegram telling those involved just how he feels about it. He is that kind of man—quick to react and quick to take action.

His public service career began as the treasurer of a small city and ends as the City Manager of one of the most rapidly growing cities in America, besieged with growth problems that have had to be met squarely. This alone is a great tribute to a man who worked so hard for so long with a singular dream in mind—that of a magnificent city.

Certainly a large part of this dream has been realized and Russell Hatchett is certainly one of those largely responsible. Through the years he has earned the respect and admiration of those who worked with him both in this city and elsewhere.

A southern gentleman in the finest sense of the word, he is mostly mild-mannered, and gracious, but let a problem bother him and he will follow it through intensely.

With just a week left in office he fired off an angry note to Virginia's Congressional delegation when it looked like federal impact funds would be cut sharply. It contained a plea for restoration of any cuts, and if the bill passes intact, it will be due largely to the efforts of people like Russell Hatchett.

Virginia Beach has been fortunate to have his services for a quarter of a century. While we wish him the best of everything in his well-earned retirement, we shall miss him.

The Surfing Plight

The sport of surfing has grown by leaps and bounds on the east coast in recent years, and Virginia Beach is fast becoming the surfing capital of this coast, particularly with the championships being held here each year.

More and more novices and serious surfers are flocking to our tiny surfing areas to take advantage of the tiny waves. The two areas restricted to surfing during the summer months are far too small for the present number of surfers, and the problem will never get any better. Obviously it will get much worse.

The problems are certainly many and complex. Novices are surfing with accomplished surfers. Accidents are frequent and are taking a heavy toll on surfers and boards. No additional areas are available to the city because of swimmers in front of motels and hotels, and that will get worse when more are built at the main surfing area. The city has been stymied in efforts to get land from the Army or Navy on either end of the beach. The surfers don't like the waves at the surfing area at Sandbridge. Seemingly these problems are insurmountable.

But something must be done soon. While we have no solutions, we do suggest a meeting of cool heads on the matter between all concerned to attempt some solutions. If something cannot be worked out soon, surfing will have to be banned everywhere in Virginia Beach to prevent further injury and danger. We do not want this, but the problem will not go away if we ignore it. It must be dealt with now thoroughly with some solution as the outcome of constant study and work.

No Cuts, Please

How can Congress, in good faith, even recommend any cut in federal impact funds to areas like Virginia Beach especially at this time?

Congress is certainly aware at the needs of education. That has been evident in recent years in legislation to aid education. But then the House Appropriations committee, in its zealous desire to cut federal spending has recommended a halving of federal impact funds given to areas with large federally-connected populations to offset the loss of taxes to that area caused by them.

The program is 15 years old and has not really been adequate since that time, but now, at a crucial time in the education of our youth, moves are afoot to chop this needed money in half. The loss to Virginia Beach would amount to an important million dollars or so that City Council will have to find somewhere. We can guess that the Virginia Beach taxpayer would be somewhere, which is not fair.

Our Congressman, Mr. Thomas Downing, is fairly optimistic that the recommended cuts can be restored. We certainly hope so. In this day and age where the federal government is supposedly putting such emphasis on education it would be a shame to see a real crimp put in it in a fast-growing city like Virginia Beach.

New Technique Simplifies, Revives Old Art of Decoupage

Museum masterpieces make themselves at home when you hypage your favorite prints. Even starting a personal art gallery in the living room is easy with this fascinating technique.

First things first: Sand down your board or plaque so it will be smooth when you place the print on it. Staining, antiquing or distressing should be done after the picture has been applied.

Easy does it: Hypaging is simple for beginner or old pro. Merely apply one coat of Hyplar Acrylic Polymer Gloss Medium and Varnish to the print and let dry. After about 30 minutes, apply a second coat and immediately place the print face down on the board.

Get those bubbles! As soon as the print has been placed on the board, take a wooden roller and, starting from the center, begin rolling out the air pockets.

Thanks to modern technology, the ancient art of decoupage is now enjoying one of the biggest revivals in centuries. Decoupage is the technique of applying a print to wood and varnishing it until a porcelain-like surface is achieved. It's a fascinating craft that goes back to the days of the earliest civilizations.

Hundreds of years before paper even existed in Europe, Chinese peasants were cutting intricate designs representing animals, fish, landscapes and folktales. In 16th Century Italy, decoupage was known as l'arte del uomo povero—the poor man's art. People who couldn't afford painted furniture achieved the same lavish effect with decoupage.

The French developed decoupage even further and gave it its present name in the 17th Century. It became a favorite pastime in the 18th Century French court and a fashionable hobby in England in the 19th Century. One of the most famous examples of decoupage is a floor screen done by the great poet, Lord Byron. Pictures of his favorite authors, actors, and actresses are on one side, while prize fighters adorn the other.

As lovely as its results were, the 4,000 year-old decoupage was a difficult and time-consuming procedure. It meant applying a print to wood and varnishing it as many as 25 times until the edges seemed to be part of the surface. But today, the miracle of plastics is responsible for a new technique called hypage. With this method, the print looks as if it were actually painted on the wood, the wood grain shows through the picture, and the satins-like surface remains.

Try this delightful new way of achieving fine works of art by first going through newspapers and magazines for interesting pictures. The ones you choose depend on your own taste and on where you'll want to display the final piece. Portraits and landscapes are right for the living room or other formal areas, while pictures of tempting foods brighten up a kitchen, and illustrations of nursery rhymes fit in perfectly with the baby's room.

Even a newspaper print on very thin paper with printing on the reverse side will hypage beautifully, so just trim or tear the print the way you want it to appear. Then take a wooden board and sand it down. Do not stain or antique it. If you want to "distress" the edges to make the board look old, wait until the picture has been applied.

Now apply one coat of Hyplar Acrylic Polymer Gloss Medium and Varnish to the print and let it dry, about 30 minutes. Apply a second coat to the print and immediately place it face down on the board. Using a wooden roller and, starting from the center, begin to roll out the air pockets. It's very important that you remove all the air bubbles; their presence will prevent the print from transferring.

Placing a heavy object on the board for an hour or so will help set the print and keep it flat. Let this dry thoroughly, about 24 hours. This is the deciding step because polymer (a water soluble material) becomes waterproof when it is completely dried. If you don't wait until it's thoroughly dry, you run the risk of losing the print.

Now all you have to do is stand back and admire the beautiful work of art you created. Hypage's possibilities are unlimited. Consider preserving the kid's first drawing by hypaging it on a toy chest or other piece of furniture, or start a personal art gallery by mounting small reproductions of famous paintings on wooden plaques for your own copy of the Mona Lisa.

After the print has dried, soak the back with water and slowly remove the paper. Here, be very cautious that you do not remove the print.

And gift giving becomes a pleasure—rather than chore—when you can present something that's truly lovely, truly unique—and created by you.

The Fergusons Plan to Stay at Beach

Born and raised in San Francisco, since her marriage she has lived all over the United States from the New England area to the Florida Keys, yet Gloria Ferguson likes to call Virginia Beach "home."

Her husband, Roger, is a career Naval officer, now attached to an Oceana-based fighter squadron. This is their third tour of duty here, and eventually they plan to make Virginia Beach their permanent home.

"We've owned our home here at the Beach since 1960, and our neighbors today are the same ones we had then, so there is no question but that people are attracted first to the beach itself and then stay because of the opportunities available to them here. This is why I volunteered to help with the publicity for the Friends of Music Arts Festival coming in August," states Gloria. "This Festival will give the whole community an opportunity which can only add more enjoyment and stature to the Beach and its residents."

The Fergusons have three children: Jeanine, 11; Teresa, 9, and Richard Randolph, 3, who was named for two of his father's favorite aircraft carriers. Their daughters have taken piano lessons for three years, and Gloria feels their exposure to live accomplished musicians, such as Gary Graffman who will appear with the Norfolk Symphony during the Festival, will serve not only to educate them but to stimulate their own interest in music.

In order to interview Gloria, it was necessary to do so at a fast gallop. She plays tennis, is active in the VF-33 Wives' Club, the Lutheran Women's Missionary League and writes a weekly newspaper for her church, Prince of Peace.

"Both Roger and I were born under the Gemini sign of the Zodiac, and Gemini's are notorious for seeking variety in their lives. We share each other's interests, actually. For instance, as Leo Rosten says of himself, 'I'm a Foo Foo for Facts' and so am I," said Gloria.

"If there is something to be learned about anything at all, I want to hear it or read about it, and then I can't wait to share all this trivia with Roger, who usually through his own curiosity has something more to add to my own information. Not long ago I was looking for a book to give a child who was born with a crippling defect. I couldn't find a suitably encouraging book regarding her own handicap which would help her adjust to it in a natural way through a story close to her own.

"I told Roger, and he asked me why I didn't write one myself. So I now have written two such books stressing the seeking of other gifts within themselves with the hope of encouraging children with handicaps. As soon as the illustrations are completed, they'll be ready to go."

Regarding the Friends of Music Arts Festival, Gloria thinks community enthusiasm for this endeavor will help to stimulate the development of a school of performing arts for area young people.

"Virginia Beach offers so much in just pure living enjoyment, and now it's time for us to become organized, at least to the extent that the best presentations of classical as well as contemporary entertainment are available to all of us and to our children."

First Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Halcyon Webster Brown Jr. announce the birth of their second child, first daughter, Rutland Elizabeth, on June 11 in Virginia Beach General Hospital.

Mrs. Brown is the former Miss Doris Davenport of Greenville, N.C. Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Halcyon Webster Brown Sr. of Virginia Beach.

By Carolyn McAllen

Let's Try Taffy

In the last two weeks, the five and seven year old have gone through innumerable pieces of bubble gum, bananas, corn on the cob and even one round of barbecued ribs in hopes of pulling loose teeth. So far nothing has worked.

The seven-year-old is an old hand at the business. This is the five-year-old's first, although she has wanted a loose tooth ever since her sister lost her first one two years ago.

The competition is keen. Each is determined to pull her tooth first. Their father won't do it and, I simply haven't enough nerve to do it.

The mercenary monsters have already planned how much they will get from the Good Fairy and how they will spend it. The big problem now is how to keep their four-year-old brother from knocking one of his out. He can't stand for them to get ahead of him on anything.

Of course, the loose teeth are also a good excuse for not eating anything they don't happen to like. "Oh, Mommy, I can't eat that. It hurts my tooth."

The five-year-old is the funniest, though. She's not the oldest of the four five-year-olds in the neighborhood, but she is the first to get a loose tooth. She's Queen of the Block right now. And does she hold it over the others.

Steps Can Stop Burglaries

One method of correcting this is by the use of a timer which will turn selected indoor and/or outdoor lights on and off at a preselected hour. Never leave valuables lying around, but rather protect them in a safety deposit box.

Records on file at Virginia Beach police headquarters indicate that last year witnessed 874 burglaries in the resort city, and accounted for 56 percent of the major crimes which were committed in the city. These crimes were committed by juvenile as well as adult offenders of the law.

While police Chief Moore points out there is no such thing as a burglar proof home, following the given suggestions will assist police in their efforts to protect your home and property whenever you are away.

Shrine Circus Opens Here

The three-ring Hamid-Morton circus comes to Virginia Beach today, with two performances daily scheduled through Sunday, June 30, at the Princess Anne High School stadium.

Matinees will be performed daily at 2:30 p.m., with evening performances scheduled for 8:30 p.m., with the exception of Sunday, when the evening show starts at 6:30 p.m.

Sponsored by Norfolk's Khe-div Shrine Temple, tickets to the circus are $1 for children age 12 and under; $2 for adults and children 13 and over.

Internationally-known talent will be performing in the three Hamid-Morton rings: the Les Block family of France on the high wire; the Flying Farfars on the flying trapeze. The Farfars work European fashion, in that a clown performs with them, interspersing comedy with their repertoire of pass-overs, somersaults, full twist-ers and other feats.

CURE Meets at Church Tonight

Citizens United for Redemptive Enterprise (CURE) will hold their first formal meeting tonight at 8 p.m., in the Lynnhaven Baptist Church.

The group, which first met informally shortly after the death of Martin Luther King, Jr., is forming in the hopes of improving community relations. Some of the chief areas CURE hopes to help improve are housing, job opportunity, job retraining and transportation.

Interfaith and interracial, CURE invites all interested clergy and laymen in the city to attend tonight's meeting.

Kelton Gets Unnamed School

Kelton

Charles J. Kelton is a principal with problems. One of a number of elementary school teachers appointed this spring by the Virginia Beach School Board for the 1968-69 school year, Kelton does not know the name of his school, which incidentally, has not been built yet.

The situation is not as bad as it first appears, however. The school is presently under construction in the Windsor Woods area. Since there is already a Windsor Woods Elementary School, another name must be selected by the School Board.

Kelton, who lives in Alantown, settled in Virginia Beach after retiring from the Navy in 1961. He was last stationed at NAS Oceana. He was originally from Jersey City, N.J.

He graduated from Old Dominion College, with a degree in elementary education, then received his M.A. Ed. in supervision and administration in August 1967. In between he taught seventh grade at Linkhorn Park Elementary for three years, seventh grade at Sealeck one year, and seventh grade at Kingston this past year. He was also director of the summer playground program at Cooke Elementary for two years.

Hobbies include fishing, golf photography, hi fi music and cooking.

He and his wife have two sons, Robert Charles, who recently returned from Vietnam where he served with the Marines, and Richard Alan, who just graduated from Cox High School and will attend Chowan College this fall.

There are nearly 1.5 million Americans alive today who have been cured of cancer.

Police Chief James E. Moore looks on as Mayor Frank A. Dusch signs proclamation marking this week as Burglary Prevention Week in Virginia Beach.

This week is being observed as "Burglary Prevention Week" in Virginia Beach by official proclamation of Mayor Frank A. Dusch.

Virginia Beach officials thus join with Leonard G. Lawrence, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc. in requesting citizens to aid police in preventing burglaries, and loss from burglaries, by taking a few simple precautions.

The crime of burglary involving private homes, business firms, and public buildings is a constant one which confronts law enforcement officers throughout the year. However each Summer brings an upsurge in burglaries when families are away from the homes for vacation trips, or on weekend outings.

Virginia Beach Police Chief James E. Moore told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN every citizen can help in reducing the number of burglaries, and reduce the possibility of a burglar selecting your dwelling as a target by practicing a few simple home protection hints.

Before leaving home for a vacation of several days or a week or more notify your police department of your date of departure and length of stay, thus enabling them to protect your property by checking for any signs of intruders.

Cancel all regular deliveries such as mail, milk, newspaper, laundry, etc., or arrange for a neighbor to accept deliveries until your return. An overstuffed mailbox or collection of newspapers at your door step is a tip-off to burglars that your home is unoccupied.

Make certain all windows are locked as well as doors to your home, porch, basement, and or garage. Leave shades or blinds as you would normally use them. A home containing no lights every night, or the same light each night, is a dead give-away that the home is empty.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that the defendant is not a resident of the State of Virginia, the last known post office address being c/o General Delivery, Jacksonville, Florida.

It is ordered that he do appear here within 10 (ten) days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect his interest in this suit. A copy—Tester.

With summer and its beautiful flowers such as our roses and crabs myrtles come the Japanese beetles. These insects are a perennial problem.

These insects are fairly easily controlled by frequent applications of Carbaryl (Sevin) at the rate of 1 1/2 to 2 tablespoons of 50 per cent wettable powder or 3 tablespoons of 25 per cent malathion powder per gallon of water.

Weather permitting, no one needs an excuse for a barbecue. It's an American way of life. From Maine to Hawaii, it's in to be out—in the backyard with family and friends, at the beach with club, next door or down the block for an out-door party.

For scores of party ideas and themes, new games and great party food, there's new "Swingin' Party Book" inspired by the National College Queen Pageant, an event that takes place each year to honor and select the country's most outstanding college girl. The party book is planned by and for college girls but would be useful for high schoolers or anyone who likes to give swinging parties—indoors as well as out.

Drumbeat for a Fourth of July barbecue. Cook the drumsticks, marinated in barbecue sauce, in a hinged wire basket. Cook peas and rice in aluminum foil packets.

Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey 07632.
Inspired by the ideas in the new "Swingin' Party Book" are the three outdoor recipes here for Pizza Hamburgers, Teriyaki Steak and Barbecued Chicken.

Beef Teriyaki Steak

1 (2-lb.) flank steak
Meat tenderizer
1 c. pineapple juice
1/4 c. dark corn syrup
1/4 c. soy sauce
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1 tbl. chopped candied ginger
Corn oil

Trim excess fat and membrane from steak. Treat with meat tenderizer, following directions on package; then place in pan. Combine pineapple juice, corn syrup, soy sauce, garlic and ginger; pour over steak. Let marinate about 1 hour, turning occasionally.

Heat broiler; brush rack with

Parties Fete Local Couple

Several parties and showers have been given during the past few weeks for Miss Judith Browning Hudson, who will marry Mark Richard Conrad Saturday, June 29, in 4 p.m. ceremonies at Haygood Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrell G. Clough and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Dillen honored the couple with a cocktail party at the Dillens' Thoroughgood home the evening of June 6.

June 8, a kitchen shower-luncheon was hosted by Mrs. James F. Jernigan and Miss Myra Jane Jernigan.

The brother of the bride, Gene S. Meekins, and Mrs. Meekins entertained 100 guests at their home on North Alantone Drive when they hosted a lawn party Sunday afternoon, June 9, in corn oil. Place steak on rack and broil, about 3 inches from heat, 3 to 4 minutes on each side. Place on heated platter. Cut diagonally across the grain into thin slices. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Pizza Sandwiches

2 tbs. corn oil
1/4 c. chopped onion
1 (15 oz.) can tomato sauce
1/4 c. dark corn syrup
1/4 c. sliced ripe olives
1 (2 oz.) can caper stuffed rolled anchovy fillets, drained and chopped
1/2 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teas. oregano
1/8 teas. pepper
8 hamburger rolls, split and lightly toasted
Mozarella cheese strips

Heat corn oil in saucepan. Add onion; saute until tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in tomato sauce, corn syrup, olives, anchovies, garlic, oregano.

A linen shower was hosted June 13, by Mrs. George Conrad at her home on Duke of Windsor Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Harrell, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Meyerhoffer were hosts for a picnic on the lawn of the Harrells' Lake Bradford home, Sunday, June 16.

Tuesday, June 18, Mrs. John Beasley and her mother, Mrs. Charles G. Faison were hostesses for a bridal shower at the Faison home in Baylake Pines.

The bridesmaids' luncheon was given by the bride in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper W. Meekins, on North Alantone Drive, Saturday, June 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Britt hosted a buffet dinner for the couple Sunday evening, June 23, at the Britt's home in Suffolk.

gano and pepper. Bring to boil, then cover and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Spoon on toasted roll halves. Top with cheese strips. Garnish with additional anchovies or olives, if desired. Broil about 5 inches from source of heat until cheese begins to melt, 1 to 2 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Barbecue Chicken Drumsticks

1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1/3 c. dark corn syrup
2 tbs. lemon juice
1 tbl. chopped onion
1 teas. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teas. crushed thyme
1/8 teas. salt
8 chicken drumsticks

Mix tomato sauce, corn syrup, lemon juice, onion, Worcestershire sauce, thyme and salt in a small heavy saucepan. Bring to boil, then simmer 10 minutes. Pour sauce over drumsticks in a shallow pan. Cover and let stand at least 3 hours in refrigerator. Turn chicken pieces several times. To cook, place drumsticks in hinged steel cooker and place on grill set about 6 inches above coals. Cook until tender, about 45 minutes, brushing occasionally, if desired, with leftover sauce. Makes 4 servings.

French Peas
4 lettuce leaves
2 c. frozen peas
1 onion slice, separated into rings
1/4 teas. salt
Dash pepper
Margarine
4 tbs. dark corn syrup

Place each lettuce leaf on a square of heavy duty aluminum foil large enough to wrap around 1/2 cup of peas. Place 1/2 cup of peas in each lettuce leaf. Top with onion rings; season with salt and pepper. Dot each portion with margarine and top with 1 tablespoon corn syrup. Wrap, sealing foil with double fold. Place on grill set about 6 inches above coals. Cook about 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Calico Rice
1 c. rice (not precooked)
1 c. sliced celery
1 pintino, chopped
Margarine

Mix rice and celery in saucepan with amount of water and salt indicated on rice package. Cook according to package directions. Stir in pintino. Makes about 4 cups.

To reheat on grill: For each serving, place 1 cup cooked Calico Rice on piece of heavy duty aluminum foil large enough to wrap around it. Dot rice with margarine. Wrap, sealing foil with double fold (drugstore wrap). Heat on grill 5 minutes; turn and heat 5 minutes longer. Keep sealed and place at edge of grill until serving time. Makes 4 servings.

Award Received in Boston

Mrs. Walter H. Harper of Cavalier Junior Woman's Club was named First Award winner in the annual "Movies and You" competition sponsored by the Motion Picture Association of America. Mrs. Harper won $500 for her club's treasury, a citation for excellence and a five-day all-expense trip to Hollywood for two.

Mrs. Margaret G. Twymen, director of MPAA's community relations department, at an Awards luncheon on June 14 during the General Federation of Women's Clubs Convention at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Boston.

The winning club involved all major organizations in their city in an informed dialogue about today's films. Their activities included: having club members complete an in-depth questionnaire about their movie-going habits and sharing the results with the community, including local theatre managers; working with a theatre manager, a newspaper film critic, a television continuity director and the student council president of a local high school in presenting a panel about motion pictures; and carrying out a city-wide publicity campaign emphasizing the need to select movies carefully and to support movies on one's choice.

Sooner or later, that day comes, the day when a woman feels she's changing. It's not a good feeling either. And she could use a good old-fashioned medicine then.

Could be you feel a little edgy, or maybe cross. You might even have what we call hot flashes and feel sad and slightly off-balance.

Whatever you feel, we have something for the day you need a little comforting. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle, natural ingredients that work to give you a better sense of well-being.

With an old-fashioned problem like this, couldn't you take an old-fashioned medicine?

Peter Anoa of Virginia Beach admires his award for outstanding performance, at a national meeting of Taylor Topper representatives at Chicago.

Hair Is Business Asset

A full head of hair and a youthful appearance are important business assets today, said Peter J. Anoa of Virginia Beach during a recent national meeting of Taylor Topper producers of customized hairpieces for men, at Chicago.

Anoa received his certification as a Taylor Topper hairpiece specialist at the meeting. He also received a special certificate for outstanding performance from former U.S. Sen. Glen H. Taylor, board chairman of Taylor Topper.

During his speech before the Chicago convention, Anoa pointed out that last year more

Pirates Invade Pack Meeting

"Dave Jones Locker" was the theme of Cub Scout Pack 448's meeting May 24 at the Kempsville Presbyterian Church.

Cubbers ran rampant in pirate dress, and a rousing "fight" to the finish defeated the notorious Blackbeard. Poems of the sea were read by Den 4 which included original artwork by the den members.

This was the first pack meeting conducted by George McCormick, newly assigned Cubmaster of Pack 448. Dr. Harold Marshall outlined the summer activity program which includes a major field trip in addition to two family outings.
